Third Nuclear Shot Of Series Also Largest

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. atomic experts stepped up the size of their nuclear test shots in the Pacific Wednesday, exploding one in the million-ton range.

It was the third nuclear device fired in the atmosphere since the current test series started one week ago in the vicinity of Christmas Island.

Like the first two it was dropped from an airplane.

It produced a much bigger blast, however.

The joint announcement by the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission said it was "in the low megaton yield range."

In the terms of reference used by atomic weaponeers this means it had the explosive equivalent of anywhere from one to several million tons of TNT.

Dwarfs Hiroshima Bomb

By contrast, the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II was rated at 20,000 tons of TNT.

The first two test shots in Operation Dominic now under way in the Pacific were in the 100,000-500,000 ton range.

They were set off around 6 a.m., Christmas Island time, giving nuclear scientists an opportunity to measure their flash rays against the light of the rising sun.

The first explosion took place April 25, a few days after President Kennedy ordered a resumption of atmospheric tests after a lapse of nearly four years.

Second Blast April 27

Test No. 2 came two days later, and was described as almost identical with the first.

Wednesday's million-tonner was dropped from an airplane at about 8 a.m., test site time, or about 1 p.m. EST.

The Russians, after breaking the test moratorium last fall, did not get around to a megaton device until their fifth test shot. As announced by the United States, their first four shots in the Arctic tests ranged from 20,000 tons up to 500,000 tons.

From there they worked up to one mighty blast of 58 million tons, on Oct. 30, and then tapered off.

U.S.-Russian Space Flights Seen By Titov

Cosmonaut Predicts Women Will Join In Exploring Heavens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov, smiling and expansive, predicted Wednesday thta someday American and Soviet spacemen will fly together to the moon, and to farther reaches of the cosmos.

And with a bow to the fair sex, whom he by no means considers the weaker sex, the 27-year-old conqueror of space flatly forecast that women will explore the heavens.

With a grin, Titov said it was a "historical injustice" that men, not women, were chosen for the first space journeys.

"Women have made advances in many sciences," he said. "They can withstand hardships on a higher level than men.

"Justice will come and women will fly to space, especially on the prolonged journeys."

Cosmonaut Meets Press

Titov, with his admiring wife Tamara, 24, sitting in front of him fingering a ring he had given her, held a news conference in the ornate gilt, red and tan reception room of the Soviet Embassy, brilliantly lighted by antique chandeliers and hot TV lamps.

He had come to town Wednesday morning, to see President Kennedy Thursday and to engage in shoptalk with astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., America's first man in orbit.

One subject on the Titov-Glenn talkfest agenda is a mystery — the famed fireflies seen by spacemen. Glenn saw the tiny luminous specks at sunset over the Pacific. Titov said he saw them too — he called them "fluroescent spots" — first as the last-stage booster of his Vostok II spaceship exhausted its fuel, and again as the retro-rockets fired to bring him home.

"I am sure they were of the same origin as those seen by Col. Glenn," he said. But he didn't know the origin.

"They resembled snow on a Christmas tree," Titov said.

Not Paint, Titov Says

Some American scientists think Glenn's fireflies may have been paint specks peeled off the capsule—a theory Glenn disputes. Titov also firmly rejected this explanation for his fireflies.

"I am sure," he said firmly, "that paint was not peeling from Vostok II."

As for international crews for spaceships, Titov was uncertain of the date when Americans and Russians — and Frenchemn, Italians and others too, he added — will join in such pioneering.

"I can tell you," he said, "that it will be sooner if our governments agree to prohibit war and to disarm."

Nearly mobbed by Soviet admirers as he arrived at the airport Wednesday morning, Titov read a statement that his country and the United States have a "common cause of outer space exploration."

He said his primary purpose in a whirlwind trip to the United States is to take part in an international space meeting here. He and Glenn are to give talks to this meeting Thursday.

THOUGHTS IN SPACE—Maj. Gherman S. Booby-Trap Blast Kills At Least 96

Algeria Terrorists Make Desperate Bid To Incite Civil War

ALGIERS (AP) — The outlaw European Secret Army, slaughtering Moslems with explosives and gunfire, perpetrated Wednesday its worst Algerian bloodbath since the March 19 cease-fire ending the Algerian war. Government officials said Wednesday 110 persons were killed and 147 wounded.

Nearly all the victims were Moslems, slain as European extremists tried desperately to provoke civil war in a savage bid to block Algerian independence.

The extremists were pulling out all stops—despite the loss of their two top leaders—in a last ditch battle to keep this tortured North African territory French.

In Algiers alone, where an earth-shaking dockside booby-trap bomb blast took a reported 96 lives at one blow, authorities listed a total of 98 dead and 140 wounded in terrorist attacks, making it the bloodiest single day in the modern history of Algeria's capital.

In Oran, a mob of screaming Europeans shot six Moslems dead while French soldiers and police looked on without making a move.

Authorities reported that Moslems made up 104 of the 110 dead and 140 of the 147 wounded. Officials added that the death toll may well be higher since Moslems traditionally carry off their dead and bury them secretly.

Explosion Toll Mounts

Eight Moslems were at first reported killed when a booby-trapped car packed with about 40 pounds of explosives blew up in a crowd of some 1,500 ragged Moslems waiting at a dockside hiring office.

But the toll mounted as rescue workers searched through the debris and unofficial sources said it finally reached 96 dead and 140 wounded. Police headquarters in a communique said 150 were killed or wounded.

It was all but impossible in the widespread panic and confusion following the blast to get an accurate check. Most victims were taken to clinics and hospitals, others were carried off to the crowded Casbah along with nearly all the corpses.

The blast hurled jagged pieces of metal and chunks of stone, and for a few moments almost touched off the anti-European mob reprisals the Secret Army seeks to provoke.

The extremists hope that widespread violence touched off by their outrages will force the French army to step in, renewing the Algerian war after seven years.

Earlier Curfew Imposed

But thus far the Moslems have remained almost completely in check.

Fearful of what might result in the wake of the blast, authorities moved the normal midnight curfew back to 8:30 p.m. beginning Thursday.

The explosion dug a crater 10 feet across and left the dock area littered with dead, wounded and dying.

Altogether it was the worst series of terrorists attack since European extremists began their bloody campaign to nullify the peace accords between Algeria's nationalists and the French government.

In the first minutes after the Algiers explosion it appeared that the strict control of Algerian nationalist leaders over the Moslem masses had snapped.

Panic-stricken, lusting for vengeance, the crowd ran wild-eyed in every direction as jagged metal and pieces of pavement flew about.

One European was caught and his throat was cut.

At sight of the running, screaming Moslems, scores of Europeans abandoned their cars and fled. A traffic jam tied up the area.

Algerian nationalist agents, wearing green and white armbands, were on the scene even before police could get there. They calmed the crowd, and sent them back to the scene for rescue operations.

Stahr Resigns, Accepts Indiana University Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elvis J. Stahr Jr. will leave as civilian head of the Army on June 30—the second service secretary to resign in six months. He will become president of Indiana University.

The White House made public an exchange of letters in which President Kennedy said he accepted the resignation with regret and told Stahr he could take over his new post with the "great satisfaction of a job well-done" in government.

There was no immediate announcement of a successor. Initial speculation centered on Stephen Ailes, undersecretary of the army who has served in the No. 2 spot since the start of the Kennedy administration.

There also was mention of Carlisle P. Runge, assistant secretary of defense for manpower.

Reports that Stahr, 46, might resign became current early in March and have persisted since, despite disclaimers. On March 4 Stahr said, "The story that I am considering leaving the government is without foundation in fact."

Then he said he had learned he was one of a number of persons being considered as possible successor to Dr. Herman B. Wells as president of Indiana University. But he said he was "not considering leaving the government to accept that or any other position." The story to which Stahr referred said officials of the university had visited Stahr.

Stahr's letter of resignation was dated Tuesday, Kennedy's letter of acceptance Wednesday.

First resignation was that of John B. Connally, who left last December to seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Texas. The Navy post was filled by another Texas, Fred Korth.

College Aid Bill Clears Big Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's college aid program Wednesday cleared a congressional hurdle that has stymied it for three months.

The House Rules Committee voted 8-6 to let negotiations start with the Senate on a compromise higher education bill. This raised new hope among school aid backers for approval of some part of the President's education program this year.

Demo Runoffs Set In Alabama And Oklahoma

By The Associated Press

Runoff elections later this month have been set up by a scramble of seven candidates in Alabama and 12 in Oklahoma for Democratic nominations for governor. Both states regularly elect Democrats over Republicans.

Ahead in Alabama Wednesday was George C. Wallace, a former circuit judge who campaigned on a promise to defy any federal school integration order. Unless he gets a majority of the votes cast Tuesday—which seemed unlikely as the count neared an end—he faces a runoff with the next highest candidate May 29.

In the No. 2 spot was State Sen. Ryan deGraffenried, who denounced Wallace's promise as "loudmouth talk" and "empty threats." In third place was ex-Gov. James E. Folsom, seeking an unprecedented third term.

A runoff on May 22 was set up in Oklahoma between former Gov. Raymond Gary and W. P. Bill Atkinson, a millionaire home builder. Gary, 54, seeking an unprecedented second term, led by a wide margin while Atkinson, 55, had a stiff battle defeating three younger contenders. Gary had been governor from 1955 to 1959. Under Oklahoma law a governor may not succeed himself in office.

In Alabama, winning the Democratic nomination means virtual election. Oklahoma has never elected a Republican governor but many regard Henry Bellmont, easy winner of the Republican nomination Tuesday, as a formidable contender.

Democratic voters in both Alabama and Oklahoma nominated incumbent U.S. senators for new terms. Sen. Mike Monroney, a House member from 1939 to 1950 and a senator since then, easily defeated three opponents in Oklahoma. Sen. Lister Hill, a Senate member for 24 years after 14 in the House, beat two opponents in Alabama.

D.C. Attorney Is Found Slain

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A man identified by police as Jack E. Cochrane, 48, a Washington attorney, was found slain in his Arlington apartment Wednesday.

Police said he probably was slain Sunday. The body, discovered Wednesday by employes of the apartment building, was found lying on the bloodstained floor of the apartment in which he apparently lived alone.

Strewn near his body, police said, were a broken scissors, a broken dagger-type knife and a broken hammer. The body was battered and crushed, apparently with the hammer, police said.

Police said the apartment had been looted and Cochrane's wallet taken. Officials said they were still investigating other possible reasons for the slaying.

Six Sovereigns Cruise Aboard Lush Dutch Ship

ABOARD THE DUTCH LINER Oranje (AP)—Six reigning sovereigns and more than 100 others of royal blood made merry aboard this lush cruise ship in Dutch waters Wednesday night after a day of plebian bus travel in the flowered lowlands.

The cruise on the 20,565-ton Dutch vessel climaxed a 48-hour celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard by titled friends and neighbors.

"As far as I know," said the Oranje's skipper, Capt. Jan H. Schulting, 61, "never before have so many royal persons been together on the same ship quite like this.

"And it may be a long time before it happens again."

Sailing orders called for the ship to move from Amsterdam through the North Sea Canal to the port of Ijmuiden. Then, weather permitting, the Oranje was to head for the open sea. The festivities featured a ball that could turn into a twist party.

In addition to the bluebloods, about 250 young friends of the Netherlands' four unmarried princesses—Beatrix, 24; Irene, 22; Margreit, 19; and Marijke, 15—were invited for the dancing afloat.

With the Dutch couple aboard the Oranje were Britain's Queen Elizabeth - and Prince Philip; the Shah of Iran and his queen, Farah; King Olav of Norway, who is a widower; King Baudouin of the Belgians and Queen Fabiola; and Grand Duchess Charlotte and Prince Felix of Luxembourg.

The guest list included scores of princes and princesses.

Attorney Denies Report Eichmann To Adopt Admirer

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's German attorney termed "complete nonsense" Wednesday a report from Israel that the doomed Nazi has agreed to adopt a 16-year-old Canadian orphan girl who admires him.

"I've heard of some nutty things," attorney Robert Servatius told newsmen. "But this is about the craziest I've come across in a long time."

The Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv had said Eichmann had asked his wife, Vera, to take care of the girl.

Maariv carried what it claimed was a full account of the condemned Nazi's meeting with his wife in a special cell at Ramleh prison last Sunday.

The paper gave this account:

Eichmann told his wife the girl wrote defense counsel Robert Servatius praising Eichmann for his "heroic attitude, courage and intelligence."

The girl had requested Servatius to ask Eichmann if he would agree to be her father.

Eichmann asked his wife to write a positive answer to the girl whose address is in Servatius' files.

"Rosie" Breaks Down On Stand

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Singer Rosemary Clooney testified Wednesday in her divorce suit against actor-director Jose Ferrer: "My husband engaged in affairs with other women since the beginning of our marriage."

Then she broke down and wept uncontrollably on the witness stand.

Her accusation and tears came when her attorney asked the attractive, 33-year-old blonde to specify the acts of mental cruelty alleged in her complaint.

"Shortly after our separation," she added, "I discussed this with him, but he said he couldn't change his conduct."

Her tears turned to unrestrained sobbing.

"We will not press the matter further," her lawyer said.

It was her turn on the witness stand in the heated divorce suit which Ferrer is contesting. She was nattily attired in a green silk suit with shoes to match.

Bonn Orders Steps For Space Research

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany took the first step Wednesday to gain a foothold in space research.

The Cabinet authorized the atomic affairs minister, Dr. Siegfried Balke, to set up a commission of 15 to 30 members to act in a consulting capacity in all questions relating to space research.

The government also authorized the founding of a company to handle the problems arising out of West Germany's participation in European space programs.

U.S. Seeks Way To Terminate A-Test Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversy is reported blowing up within the Kennedy administration over what steps the United States should take about trying to halt nuclear weapons testing when the current series of Pacific tests is completed.

Some officials are advocating that the United States enter a new moratorium on atmospheric tests, which would mean a reversal of present policy. Others insist that U.S. security requires a complete test ban under a strong international inspection system to prevent sneak tests or secret preparations for tests.

Some State Department and White House officials familiar with the developing dispute are becoming worried that it may impair the U.S. bargaining position in the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva.

A reassertion of President Kennedy's basic policy on nuclear testing is being considered.

The debate now developing is concerned with both policy and propaganda.

As a policy matter, some administration officials were reportedly talking of the possibility that the United States could afford to join in a ban or moratorium on atmospheric testing when the present series is over. In discussions within the administration, some interest in this possibility is reported to have been shown by the President's science adviser, Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, who was understood to have raised objections to the current tests before they started.

On the other hand, the U.S. negotiator at Geneva, Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, is said to believe that a full-scale test ban treaty may be possible when the current round of testing is over. This means not only the present U.S. tests but an expected new series by the Soviet Union.

Mississippi Racial Laws Declared Void

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney C. Mize Wednesday declared nine Mississippi segregation statutes unconstitutional and upheld the right of three Negroes to unsegregated transportation service.

Mize ruled that the suit was not a proper class action, in that it did not extend to all Negroes in similar situations. But the ruling said the three Negroes themselves were personally entitled to relief.

The nine segregation laws ruled unconstitutional violated the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, Mize said.

The laws pertained to separate but equal accommodations for persons of white and Negro races traveling by common carrier.

Bonn Demands NATO Decision On Atom Force

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — West Germany insisted on the eve of cold war strategy sessions Wednesday night that the Atlantic alliance make a decision on whether NATO is going to acquire a nuclear striking force.

Arriving for the annual spring meeting of defense and foreign ministers, West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the session "will be called upon to approve or reject a series of proposals on the creation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force drafted by a NATO subcommittee."

The airport statement by Strauss was in contradiction to the view here—notably that of the United States—that multilateral control of nuclear weapons, or an independent NATO nuclear force, would not be discussed here seriously.

Strauss in his statement referred to a secret report, prepared by the United States, Britain, and West Germany, covering such items as granting nuclear stockpiles and a greater voice in nuclear policy to NATO non-nuclear powers.

The report does not specifically lay down the ground rules for multilateral control of nuclear weapons—in simple words how many fingers would be on the trigger. But Strauss seemingly linked this to the discussions here by referring to a NATO nuclear force.

Before Strauss arrived, U.S. sources said the question of a NATO strike force would not come up, although other nuclear problems would be discussed.

In Washington, officials said Secretary of State Dean Rusk planned to offer the NATO allies largely technical information on U.S. nuclear weapons capabilities.

Scotland Yard's Evidence Stolen

LONDON (AP) — The Bow Street magistrate has ordered Arthur Charles Ketteringham, 28, to stand trial for a burglary at Scotland Yard.

Police said Ketteringham, a post office maintenance engineer working at the yard, broke into a storeroom and rifled a collection of obscene books and pictures seized as evidence in various cases.

Man And Daughter, 13, Adrift 10 Days, Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ten days of helpless drifting over 225 miles of ocean, often in wind-tossed seas, ended Wednesday for Jeff L. Hodges, 35, and his 13-year-old daughter, Sandra.

The 107-foot converted World War II subchaser on which they became lost, after engine failure on a trip from Gray's Harbor, Wash., was attached to the cutter Taney at 1 a.m. 90 miles west of Point Sur, Calif.

Both the San Jose man and his daughter were reported in good condition although low on food.

The Taney relayed this brief account of what happened:

The subchaser, a $50,000 vessel Hodges bought for use in a cargo business, left Gray's Harbor April 21 with one of its two engines not operating.

At 4:20 p.m. on April 22 while the vessel, renamed the Pelican, was 60 miles southeast of Blunts Reef lightship off Eureka, Calif., the other engine quit. Apparently the timing gear jammed.

The boat then was in a heavy fog and sea was clam.

But on April 23, 24 and 25 the vessel was tossed by winds of 30 to 45 knots from the northwest.

After the Pelican failed to reach San Francisco by April 24, Hodges' wife, Vivian, reported to the Coast Guard that the boat was missing.

Coast Guard planes from California and Washington searched in vain.

Friday, the pilot of a Naval Reserve plane from Alameda, Calif., spotted the drifting Pelican 75 miles southwest of San Francisco. But he thought it was a fishing boat and made no report to the Coast Guard until Tuesday, after reading about the missing Hodges.

A Coast Guard plane found the wooden-hulled boat, flying its flag upside down in a distress signal.

Salan's Four-Day Trial Opens May 15

PARIS (UPI)—Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, imprisoned commander of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS), will go on trial for crimes against the state on May 15, it was announced on Wednesday night. He faces a possible death sentence if convicted.

The Ministry of Justice announcement said the trial before the special high military tribunal will last four days.

Attorney Denies Report Eichmann To Adopt Admirer

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's German attorney termed "complete nonsense" Wednesday a report from Israel that the doomed Nazi has agreed to adopt a 16-year-old Canadian orphan girl who admires him.

"I've heard of some nutty things," attorney Robert Servatius told newsmen. "But this is about the craziest I've come across in a long time."

The Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv had said Eichmann had asked his wife, Vera, to take care of the girl.

Maariv carried what it claimed was a full account of the condemned Nazi's meeting with his wife in a special cell at Ramleh prison last Sunday.

The paper gave this account:

Eichmann told his wife the girl wrote defense counsel Robert Servatius praising Eichmann for his "heroic attitude, courage and intelligence."

The girl had requested Servatius to ask Eichmann if he would agree to be her father.

Eichmann asked his wife to write a positive answer to the girl whose address is in Servatius' files.

"Rosie" Breaks Down On Stand

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Singer Rosemary Clooney testified Wednesday in her divorce suit against actor-director Jose Ferrer: "My husband engaged in affairs with other women since the beginning of our marriage."

Then she broke down and wept uncontrollably on the witness stand.

Her accusation and tears came when her attorney asked the attractive, 33-year-old blonde to specify the acts of mental cruelty alleged in her complaint.

"Shortly after our separation," she added, "I discussed this with him, but he said he couldn't change his conduct."

Her tears turned to unrestrained sobbing.

"We will not press the matter further," her lawyer said.

It was her turn on the witness stand in the heated divorce suit which Ferrer is contesting. She was nattily attired in a green silk suit with shoes to match.

Bonn Orders Steps For Space Research

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany took the first step Wednesday to gain a foothold in space research.

The Cabinet authorized the atomic affairs minister, Dr. Siegfried Balke, to set up a commission of 15 to 30 members to act in a consulting capacity in all questions relating to space research.

The government also authorized the founding of a company to handle the problems arising out of West Germany's participation in European space programs.

U.S. Seeks Way To Terminate A-Test Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversy is reported blowing up within the Kennedy administration over what steps the United States should take about trying to halt nuclear weapons testing when the current series of Pacific tests is completed.

Some officials are advocating that the United States enter a new moratorium on atmospheric tests, which would mean a reversal of present policy. Others insist that U.S. security requires a complete test ban under a strong international inspection system to prevent sneak tests or secret preparations for tests.

Some State Department and White House officials familiar with the developing dispute are becoming worried that it may impair the U.S. bargaining position in the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva.

A reassertion of President Kennedy's basic policy on nuclear testing is being considered.

The debate now developing is concerned with both policy and propaganda.

As a policy matter, some administration officials were reportedly talking of the possibility that the United States could afford to join in a ban or moratorium on atmospheric testing when the present series is over. In discussions within the administration, some interest in this possibility is reported to have been shown by the President's science adviser, Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, who was understood to have raised objections to the current tests before they started.

On the other hand, the U.S. negotiator at Geneva, Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, is said to believe that a full-scale test ban treaty may be possible when the current round of testing is over. This means not only the present U.S. tests but an expected new series by the Soviet Union.

Mississippi Racial Laws Declared Void

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney C. Mize Wednesday declared nine Mississippi segregation statutes unconstitutional and upheld the right of three Negroes to unsegregated transportation service.

Mize ruled that the suit was not a proper class action, in that it did not extend to all Negroes in similar situations. But the ruling said the three Negroes themselves were personally entitled to relief.

The nine segregation laws ruled unconstitutional violated the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, Mize said.

The laws pertained to separate but equal accommodations for persons of white and Negro races traveling by common carrier.

U.S.-Russian Space Flights Seen By Titov

Cosmonaut Predicts Women Will Join In Exploring Heavens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov, smiling and expansive, predicted Wednesday thta someday American and Soviet spacemen will fly together to the moon, and to farther reaches of the cosmos.

And with a bow to the fair sex, whom he by no means considers the weaker sex, the 27-year-old conqueror of space flatly forecast that women will explore the heavens.

With a grin, Titov said it was a "historical injustice" that men, not women, were chosen for the first space journeys.

"Women have made advances in many sciences," he said. "They can withstand hardships on a higher level than men.

"Justice will come and women will fly to space, especially on the prolonged journeys."

Cosmonaut Meets Press

Titov, with his admiring wife Tamara, 24, sitting in front of him fingering a ring he had given her, held a news conference in the ornate gilt, red and tan reception room of the Soviet Embassy, brilliantly lighted by antique chandeliers and hot TV lamps.

He had come to town Wednesday morning, to see President Kennedy Thursday and to engage in shoptalk with astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., America's first man in orbit.

One subject on the Titov-Glenn talkfest agenda is a mystery — the famed fireflies seen by spacemen. Glenn saw the tiny luminous specks at sunset over the Pacific. Titov said he saw them too — he called them "fluroescent spots" — first as the last-stage booster of his Vostok II spaceship exhausted its fuel, and again as the retro-rockets fired to bring him home.

"I am sure they were of the same origin as those seen by Col. Glenn," he said. But he didn't know the origin.

"They resembled snow on a Christmas tree," Titov said.

Not Paint, Titov Says

Some American scientists think Glenn's fireflies may have been paint specks peeled off the capsule—a theory Glenn disputes. Titov also firmly rejected this explanation for his fireflies.

"I am sure," he said firmly, "that paint was not peeling from Vostok II."

As for international crews for spaceships, Titov was uncertain of the date when Americans and Russians — and Frenchemn, Italians and others too, he added — will join in such pioneering.

"I can tell you," he said, "that it will be sooner if our governments agree to prohibit war and to disarm."

Nearly mobbed by Soviet admirers as he arrived at the airport Wednesday morning, Titov read a statement that his country and the United States have a "common cause of outer space exploration."

He said his primary purpose in a whirlwind trip to the United States is to take part in an international space meeting here. He and Glenn are to give talks to this meeting Thursday.

Gas Tank Blown Up

GUATEMALA (AP)—A gasoline storage tank and its contents burned Wednesday morning in this Guatemalan capital after an explosion which police said was touched off by antigovernment terrorists.

THOUGHTS IN SPACE—Maj. Gherman S. Bonn Demands NATO Decision On Atom Force

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — West Germany insisted on the eve of cold war strategy sessions Wednesday night that the Atlantic alliance make a decision on whether NATO is going to acquire a nuclear striking force.

Arriving for the annual spring meeting of defense and foreign ministers, West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the session "will be called upon to approve or reject a series of proposals on the creation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force drafted by a NATO subcommittee."

The airport statement by Strauss was in contradiction to the view here—notably that of the United States—that multilateral control of nuclear weapons, or an independent NATO nuclear force, would not be discussed here seriously.

Strauss in his statement referred to a secret report, prepared by the United States, Britain, and West Germany, covering such items as granting nuclear stockpiles and a greater voice in nuclear policy to NATO non-nuclear powers.

The report does not specifically lay down the ground rules for multilateral control of nuclear weapons—in simple words how many fingers would be on the trigger. But Strauss seemingly linked this to the discussions here by referring to a NATO nuclear force.

Before Strauss arrived, U.S. sources said the question of a NATO strike force would not come up, although other nuclear problems would be discussed.

In Washington, officials said Secretary of State Dean Rusk planned to offer the NATO allies largely technical information on U.S. nuclear weapons capabilities.

Scotland Yard's Evidence Stolen

LONDON (AP) — The Bow Street magistrate has ordered Arthur Charles Ketteringham, 28, to stand trial for a burglary at Scotland Yard.

Police said Ketteringham, a post office maintenance engineer working at the yard, broke into a storeroom and rifled a collection of obscene books and pictures seized as evidence in various cases.

Man And Daughter, 13, Adrift 10 Days, Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ten days of helpless drifting over 225 miles of ocean, often in wind-tossed seas, ended Wednesday for Jeff L. Hodges, 35, and his 13-year-old daughter, Sandra.

The 107-foot converted World War II subchaser on which they became lost, after engine failure on a trip from Gray's Harbor, Wash., was attached to the cutter Taney at 1 a.m. 90 miles west of Point Sur, Calif.

Both the San Jose man and his daughter were reported in good condition although low on food.

The Taney relayed this brief account of what happened:

The subchaser, a $50,000 vessel Hodges bought for use in a cargo business, left Gray's Harbor April 21 with one of its two engines not operating.

At 4:20 p.m. on April 22 while the vessel, renamed the Pelican, was 60 miles southeast of Blunts Reef lightship off Eureka, Calif., the other engine quit. Apparently the timing gear jammed.

The boat then was in a heavy fog and sea was clam.

But on April 23, 24 and 25 the vessel was tossed by winds of 30 to 45 knots from the northwest.

After the Pelican failed to reach San Francisco by April 24, Hodges' wife, Vivian, reported to the Coast Guard that the boat was missing.

Coast Guard planes from California and Washington searched in vain.

Friday, the pilot of a Naval Reserve plane from Alameda, Calif., spotted the drifting Pelican 75 miles southwest of San Francisco. But he thought it was a fishing boat and made no report to the Coast Guard until Tuesday, after reading about the missing Hodges.

Booby-Trap Blast Kills At Least 96

Algeria Terrorists Make Desperate Bid To Incite Civil War

ALGIERS (AP) — The outlaw European Secret Army, slaughtering Moslems with explosives and gunfire, perpetrated Wednesday its worst Algerian bloodbath since the March 19 cease-fire ending the Algerian war. Government officials said Wednesday 110 persons were killed and 147 wounded.

Nearly all the victims were Moslems, slain as European extremists tried desperately to provoke civil war in a savage bid to block Algerian independence.

The extremists were pulling out all stops—despite the loss of their two top leaders—in a last ditch battle to keep this tortured North African territory French.

In Algiers alone, where an earth-shaking dockside booby-trap bomb blast took a reported 96 lives at one blow, authorities listed a total of 98 dead and 140 wounded in terrorist attacks, making it the bloodiest single day in the modern history of Algeria's capital.

In Oran, a mob of screaming Europeans shot six Moslems dead while French soldiers and police looked on without making a move.

Authorities reported that Moslems made up 104 of the 110 dead and 140 of the 147 wounded. Officials added that the death toll may well be higher since Moslems traditionally carry off their dead and bury them secretly.

Explosion Toll Mounts

Eight Moslems were at first reported killed when a booby-trapped car packed with about 40 pounds of explosives blew up in a crowd of some 1,500 ragged Moslems waiting at a dockside hiring office.

But the toll mounted as rescue workers searched through the debris and unofficial sources said it finally reached 96 dead and 140 wounded. Police headquarters in a communique said 150 were killed or wounded.

It was all but impossible in the widespread panic and confusion following the blast to get an accurate check. Most victims were taken to clinics and hospitals, others were carried off to the crowded Casbah along with nearly all the corpses.

The blast hurled jagged pieces of metal and chunks of stone, and for a few moments almost touched off the anti-European mob reprisals the Secret Army seeks to provoke.

The extremists hope that widespread violence touched off by their outrages will force the French army to step in, renewing the Algerian war after seven years.

Earlier Curfew Imposed

But thus far the Moslems have remained almost completely in check.

Fearful of what might result in the wake of the blast, authorities moved the normal midnight curfew back to 8:30 p.m. beginning Thursday.

The explosion dug a crater 10 feet across and left the dock area littered with dead, wounded and dying.

Altogether it was the worst series of terrorists attack since European extremists began their bloody campaign to nullify the peace accords between Algeria's nationalists and the French government.

In the first minutes after the Algiers explosion it appeared that the strict control of Algerian nationalist leaders over the Moslem masses had snapped.

Panic-stricken, lusting for vengeance, the crowd ran wild-eyed in every direction as jagged metal and pieces of pavement flew about.

One European was caught and his throat was cut.

At sight of the running, screaming Moslems, scores of Europeans abandoned their cars and fled. A traffic jam tied up the area.

Algerian nationalist agents, wearing green and white armbands, were on the scene even before police could get there. They calmed the crowd, and sent them back to the scene for rescue operations.

Salan's Four-Day Trial Opens May 15

PARIS (UPI)—Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, imprisoned commander of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS), will go on trial for crimes against the state on May 15, it was announced on Wednesday night. He faces a possible death sentence if convicted.

The Ministry of Justice announcement said the trial before the special high military tribunal will last four days.

Eastland Says Chief Justice Pro-Communist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James O. Eastland, D - Miss., charged during a civil rights debate Wednesday that Chief Justice Earl Warren "decides for the Communists" in Supreme Court cases involving U.S. security.

Eastland's charge brought from Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., the statement that "the chief justice is a great American and a courageous and learned judge."

Also commenting on Eastland's speech, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said, "however one may disagree with a specific decision of the Supreme Court, I do not consider that it serves a useful purpose to attack the character or motivation of the judge rendering the opinion."

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, made his charges during Senate debate on the administration's literacy test bill. Supporters of the legislation say it will give more voting privileges to Southern Negroes.

Eastland read to the Senate what he called a "box score" of each Supreme Court justice's votes in decisions which he said involved communism or subversion.

He assigned each justice a pro and con score. The scores, he said, measured votes against positions advocated by the Communist party or Communist sympathizers in the case in question.

After Eastland's speech, Sen. Humphrey told a reporter:

"Chief Justice Earl Warren decides for constitutional rights, for civil liberties and for property rights. The chief justice and the associate justices apply the Constitution to the difficult problems of the modern day. It is ridiculous and a disservice to the court to indicate directly or indirectly that there is any sympathy by any member of the court for communism or Communists, subversion or subversives.

"Every person is entitled to equal treatment under the law. Every person is entitled to due process of law. The practices and traditions of Anglo - Saxon law are here for the innocent and the guilty, the accused and the accuser."

Udall Favors Coal Pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall testified Wednesday the power to condemn land to provide routes for coal carrying pipelines "will strengthen the security of the nation."

But Andrew J. Kaelin, speaking for the Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO, and A. B. (Happy) Chandler, former governor of Kentucky, lambasted the Kennedy administration's pipeline bill.

They called it contrary to the national interest, a move which would create widespread unemployment in the railroad industry, and grant monopolistic benefits to a few industrial giants.

Their testimony highlighted a Senate Commerce Committee hearing on a bill backed by President Kennedy which would let the Secretary of Interior use the power of eminent domain to condemn lands on which would be constructed pipelines to carry pulverized coal mixed with water.

The mixture is known as slurry.

Korean Strongman Pardons Plotters

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Prison doors are opening to free Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, first chief of the military junta that overthrew a civil government here last May 16, and four associates convicted with him of counterrevolutionary activity.

All were pardoned Wednesday by Gen. Chung Hee Park, mastermind of the May 16 coup, successor to Chang as the junta chief and current strongman of this American-supported Asian nation.

Park tossed out a life sentence against Chang, his former front man; and sentences ranging from 10 years to life against the others —Brig. Gen. Song Chan-ho, Col. Park Chi-ok, Col. Moon Jai-joon and Lt. Col. Kim Je-min.

All, he said, either contributed to the success of the military revolution or had rendered great service to South Korea in the past.

The traditional date for the birth of William Shakespeare is given as April 23, 1564. His baptismal record gives the date as April 26.

U.N. Probe Fails To End Mystery Of Dag's Death

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A U.N. inquiry commission said Wednesday that Dag Hammarskjold's death in a plane crash could have been caused by sabotage or other hostile action, but it found no evidence to prove it.

The five-member commission rejected pilot error as a probable cause. One of its own experts and a Rhodesian inquiry commission had concluded human failure was the most likely cause. Thus the U.N. inquiry failed to resolve the mysterious circumstances surrounding the tragedy.

Hammarskjold and 15 others died in the crash last Sept. 18 near Ndola in Northern Rhodesia. The secretary-general was on a Congo peace mission en route to talks with Moise Tshombe, president of Katanga Province.

The commission examined as possible causes sabotage, attack from the air ground, pilot error, structural defects in the aircraft and instrument failure, and concluded none could be ruled out.

"The commission has carefully examined all possible causes of the accident," said the 68-page report requested by the General Assembly. "It has found no evidence to support any of the particular theories that have been advanced, nor has it been able to exclude the possible causes which have been considered."

In regard to the possibility of sabotage, the commission expressed concern that the four-engine plane, a DC6B under charter from a Swedish company, was left unguarded for several hours at Leopoldville before it left for Ndola.

Locusts Due In Infest Md.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swarms of 17-year locust are due to make a noisy and damaging appearance soon in Eastern Seaboard states from Connecticut to North Carolina, the agriculture department said Wednesday.

The insect, also known as the Periodical Cicada, causes damage to trees, shrubs, herbaceous plants and home gardens. It shows a preference for oak, hickory apple, peach, pear and cherry trees and grape vines.

The department said the last visit of this locust brood was in 1945, although Maryland had a heavy infestation in 1953.

Infestations then were heaviest in New Jersey, Southeastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern Maryland and parts of Virginia east of the Blue Ridge Mountains. These areas will probably have the heaviest infestations again this spring.

Maryland's Fair Trade Act Upheld

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals, reiterating previous opinions, upheld the constitutionality of the state's Fair Trade Act Wednesday.

The high court affirmed a Prince Georges County Circuit Court decision which permanently enjoined Government Employes Mart, Inc., a retail store, from selling any products of Plough Inc. at a price less than the one established by the manufacturer under a fair trade contract.

Plough Inc. produces such items as aspirin, sun creams and lotions, cough and cold remedies and facial creams.

Gov. Tawes Proclaims Special Days, Weeks

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes took time out from political campaigning Wednesday to issue proclamations.

He entertained visitors ranging from Maryland's Mother-of-the-Year, 86-year-old Mrs. Grace B. Cohen of Oxon Hill, to "Miss Crime Prevention", youthful Sharon Kirk of Baltimore.

He proclaimed the following days and weeks: Salvation Army Week, May 20-27. Loyalty Day, May 1. Mother's Day, May 13. Realtor Week, May 20-26. Chemical Engineering Week, May 20-26. Cooling System Maintenance Week, May 14-20. Youth Crime Prevention Day, May 11. Police Week, May 13-19, and Peace Officers' Memorial Day, May 14.

Army Building Special Forces For Long Haul

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is drawing up a program aimed at mustering its special warfare resources to deal with a long-haul threat of Communist-inspired guerrilla offensives around the world.

"We are pulling together all the assets we can apply in a single program," an informed source said Wednesday.

Under the heading of assets are manpower, material, research and development, and training.

Maj. Gen. William B. Rosson, the Army's special warfare chief, disclosed the new effort in the official Army Information Digest.

Up to now, Rosson said, most of the effort has been short term in nature, designed to meet immediate requirements such as in South Viet Nam.

"We must concentrate now on refining our long-range objectives and on developing a program to meet these objectives," he said.

Rosson, at 43 the Army's youngest major general, said that during the past year the Army has increased special forces by more than 40 per cent and its psychological warfare elements by more than 50 per cent.

Officials declined to be specific, but it has been announced the special forces were being built to a total of about 5,000 men.

The special forces are antiguerrilla troops trained in the hit-and-run techniques U.S. policy makers have predicted will represent the chief form of Communist-backed offensives in the years ahead.

Tenn. Governor Calls Legislature On Redistricting

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Gov. Buford Ellington called a special session of the Tennessee Legislature Wednesday for May 29 to reapportion seats in the General Assembly.

The special session comes in the face of pressure from the federal courts to revamp the state's legislative seats to conform with requirements of the Tennessee Constitution.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled March 26 that urban dwellers have a right to seek relief from federal court because of the failure of the legislature to reapportion itself since 1901. The constitution requires it be done every 10 years, to reflect changes in population of the various counties.

Ellington is expected to propose a compromise plan, which calls for reapportionment of the house on a population basis and the senate on a geographical basis.

Infestations then were heaviest in New Jersey, Southeastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern Maryland and parts of Virginia east of the Blue Ridge Mountains. These areas will probably have the heaviest infestations again this spring.

Maryland's Fair Trade Act Upheld

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals, reiterating previous opinions, upheld the constitutionality of the state's Fair Trade Act Wednesday.

The high court affirmed a Prince Georges County Circuit Court decision which permanently enjoined Government Employes Mart, Inc., a retail store, from selling any products of Plough Inc. at a price less than the one established by the manufacturer under a fair trade contract.

Plough Inc. produces such items as aspirin, sun creams and lotions, cough and cold remedies and facial creams.

Gov. Tawes Proclaims Special Days, Weeks

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes took time out from political campaigning Wednesday to issue proclamations.

He entertained visitors ranging from Maryland's Mother-of-the-Year, 86-year-old Mrs. Grace B. Cohen of Oxon Hill, to "Miss Crime Prevention", youthful Sharon Kirk of Baltimore.

He proclaimed the following days and weeks: Salvation Army Week, May 20-27. Loyalty Day, May 1. Mother's Day, May 13. Realtor Week, May 20-26. Chemical Engineering Week, May 20-26. Cooling System Maintenance Week, May 14-20. Youth Crime Prevention Day, May 11. Police Week, May 13-19, and Peace Officers' Memorial Day, May 14.

Army Building Special Forces For Long Haul

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is drawing up a program aimed at mustering its special warfare resources to deal with a long-haul threat of Communist-inspired guerrilla offensives around the world.

"We are pulling together all the assets we can apply in a single program," an informed source said Wednesday.

Under the heading of assets are manpower, material, research and development, and training.

Maj. Gen. William B. Rosson, the Army's special warfare chief, disclosed the new effort in the official Army Information Digest.

Up to now, Rosson said, most of the effort has been short term in nature, designed to meet immediate requirements such as in South Viet Nam.

"We must concentrate now on refining our long-range objectives and on developing a program to meet these objectives," he said.

Rosson, at 43 the Army's youngest major general, said that during the past year the Army has increased special forces by more than 40 per cent and its psychological warfare elements by more than 50 per cent.

Officials declined to be specific, but it has been announced the special forces were being built to a total of about 5,000 men.

The special forces are antiguerrilla troops trained in the hit-and-run techniques U.S. policy makers have predicted will represent the chief form of Communist-backed offensives in the years ahead.

Tenn. Governor Calls Legislature On Redistricting

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Gov. Buford Ellington called a special session of the Tennessee Legislature Wednesday for May 29 to reapportion seats in the General Assembly.

The special session comes in the face of pressure from the federal courts to revamp the state's legislative seats to conform with requirements of the Tennessee Constitution.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled March 26 that urban dwellers have a right to seek relief from federal court because of the failure of the legislature to reapportion itself since 1901. The constitution requires it be done every 10 years, to reflect changes in population of the various counties.

Ellington is expected to propose a compromise plan, which calls for reapportionment of the house on a population basis and the senate on a geographical basis.

"Casey" Wins Eight Emmy Nominations

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Ben Casey," signaling a new television trend toward medical shows, Tuesday captured eight nominations for Emmy awards — including one for star Vincent Edwards for best performance in a series by an actor.

Westerns, a long-time staple in television, were unnoticed by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences — despite the fact "Bonanza" and "Wagon Train" still run 1-2 on ratings. "Ben Casey" and "Dr. Kildare" showed up for the first time on television tubes this season, but were only the forerunners of a parade of medical shows planned for the coming year.

The only other program to get eight nominations was "Victoria Regina," on the Hallmark Hall of Fame series, for which Julie Harris was nominated for best single performance by an actress in a title role. The Dick Powell show picked up seven nominations.

In addition to Edwards for "Ben Casey," other actors nominated for best actor in a series were E. G. Marshall, the high-principled lawyer of "The Defenders;" "Jackie Cooper, the Navy doctor in "Hennessy," George Maharis, roving star of "Route 66," and Paul Burke, "Naked City."

Former broadway star Shirley Booth, already with an Oscar to her credit, was nominated as best actress in a series for "Hazel," Cara Williams for "Pete and Gladys," Gertrude Berg and "The Gertrude Berg Show," Donna Reed for "The Donna Reed Show," and Mary Stuart for "Search for Tomorrow."

Emmys will be presented May 22.

Shows nominated for the best dramatic program were "Ben Casey," "The Defenders," "The Dick Powell Show," "Naked City," and two one-shot programs "People Need People" on Alcoa Premiere and "Victoria Regina."

Best single program of the year: The Judy Garland Show, Vincent Van Gogh, a Self-Portrait; Biography of a Bookie Joint on CBS Reports; Victoria Regina; and Walk In My Shoes, a documentary.

In addition to Miss Harris, those nominated for best single performance by an actress were Ethel Waters, "Good Night, Sweet Blues," Route 66; Inger Stevens, "The Price of Tomatoes;" Suzanne Pleshette, "Shining Image," on Doctor Kildare, and Geraldine Brooks, "Call Back Yesterday" on Bus Stop.

Best single performance by an actor: Milton Berle, "Doyle Against the House" on the Dick Powell Show; James Donald in "Victoria Regina;" Lee Marvin in "People Need People;" Peter Falk, "Price of Tomatoes," and Mickey Rooney, "Somebody's Waiting," the Powell show.

Nominated for best comedy program were "The Andy Griffith Show, the Bob Newhart Show, "Car 54, Where Are You?" "Hazel" and "The Red Skelton Show." Top variety programs were the Gary Moore Show; Edie Adams' pre-Oscar show, April 9; Perry Como's Music Hall; the Judy Garland special and Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color.

Board Plant Closed

NEW YORK (UPI)—National Starch & Chemical Corp. said it will close its particle-board plant at Goffstown, N.H., on Tuesday. The company said that "general overproduction in the particle board and plywood industry together with depressed prices have resulted in an unsatisfactory operation over an extended period."

Mary, Queen of Scots, was executed for treason in 1587. Actually, she was a threat to the throne of Queen Elizabeth I.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Sitters, Don't Sit Back On Charm!

It may be your first job, the only one you're old enough to hold in order to earn money — but it won't be your last. Baby-sitting is the beginning of meaningful maturity. It takes a genuine sense of responsibility to perform it well. And it takes just a little more—charm—to be asked to perform it more than once.

Let's find out what kind of baby-sitter you are!

Are you a SILENT SITTER?—or are you articulate enough to ask in advance all the information you must have to fulfill your serious obligation — necessary phone numbers, children's bedtime routines, lock-up directions?

Are you a STUPID SITTER?—free and easy with talk about your whereabouts on sitting dates, with no thought about possible dangers? Or do you keep time and place your private affair, except with your immediate family, just for safety's sake?

Are you a SURLY SITTER?—who changes from a pleasant companion into a commanding officer the moment parents drive away? Or do you take the time to prepare the children for a happy bedtime with some entertaining games or stories?

Are you a SELFISH SITTER?—a "me-firster," out to profit all you can from your evening, sampling everthing you employer has available — from personal cosmetics to ice-box contents — to monopolizing the telephone for hours on end? Or do you follow the "ground rules" scrupulously on snacking and socializing and time yourself to make regular rounds of your sleeping charges?

Whenever you are asked to baby-sit, you should be proud of the trust being placed in you. It's a tribute to your good sense that parents have the confidence to remain away from home for an evening. Their children are important to them. So are you.

Ah, but when the children themselves beg for YOU to be their baby-sitter, you can put an extra gloss on that pride. You may be able to pretend in front of parents, but children are rarely fooled. They know when they are liked and when they feel secure . . . and are far readier to respond with affection and obedience to a sitter they can respect.

Enjoy your baby-sitting tasks. They are, after all, but a step away from a woman's natural role. You may not get the highest pay for your efforts . . . but you can be rewarded with compensation worth more than money . . . and that is LOVE.

While you are cultivating good work habits and attitudes in your present part-time jobs, you can be studying "Your Steps to a Successful Career," as further preparation for your entry into the business world. This pamphlet is readily available upon request sent to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, with just 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Card-Party Luncheon Scheduled May 9

A card party luncheon will be held at Emmanuel Episcopal Church parish hall Wednesday at 12:30 p. m.

Iota Epsilon Chapter of Tau Phi Lambda of Supreme Forest of Woodmen Circle will hold its Mothers Day dinner May 10 at Central YMCA.

Our Flag of Cumberland Council, No. 100, Daughters of America, will meet today at 8 p.m. at Junior Order Hall. A social will follow. Mrs. Geraldine Waugaman is in charge.

McKinley Chapter OES To Hear Reports On Grand Chapter Session

McKinley Chapter, OES, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at Masonic Temple with worthy matron Justene Linaburg and worthy patron Benjamin F. Elkins, presiding.

Mrs. Linaburg will give a report on the 64th annual session of Grand Chapter held in Baltimore last week.

A social hour will follow in the assembly hall with Mrs. Vioia Smith and her committee in charge.

The chapter will sponsor a public card party May at Masonic Temple.

Organists To Present Program

The Young Organist Club will present a program Sunday, May 27, at St. Mark's Reformed Church. it was announced at a meeting Sunday afternoon at Centenary Methodist Church.

Participating in the program will be Dorothy Grim, Ronna Grim, Dona Leecy, Bonnie Williams, Gary O'Neal, William and Judy Iames, Donna Stouffer and Patti Valentine.

Members attending the meeting rehearsed selections for the May 27 program.

Twiggtown Homemakers Club will hold its anniversary dinner Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Walter Stafford, Winifred Road.

20 Attend Bedford Rd. Club Meet

The Bedford Road Homemakers Club met Tuesday at Zion Methodist Church. Mrs. Paul Gilford presided and opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer, followed by the collect.

Mrs. Gilford gave the history of the hymn of the month, "Duteous" Day Now Closeth," which was sung by the group. Mrs. William Nicely gave the secretary's report, and Mrs. David Wilson, the sunshine report.

Twenty member answered roll call with "have your cooking and eating habits changed with the passing years." Mrs. Raymond O'Neal and Sharon Straw were guests.

Mrs. Gilford announced vesper services for Homemakers Clubs at Frostburg State Teachers College, May 13 at 4:30 p.m., and the miniature short course May 24 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 10 a.m. She said there are 24 courses to select from for Rural Woman's Short Course week fo June 18, at College Park.

Mrs. Fred Roberts, clothing chairman gave her report and Mrs. Forest Snider showed colored slides of last year's Short Course.

The recreation program was in charge of Mrs. Catherine O'Neal. Prizes were won by Mrs. Warren Cook, Mrs. Nicely and Mrs. William C. Straw. Mrs. Thomas Wotring won the sunshine prize.

Hostesses were Mrs. Thurman Cassell, Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. Ella Klavuhn, Mrs. Wayne Shumaker and Mrs. Bernard Fleigle.

Secrets Of Charm

Sitters, Don't Sit Back On Charm!

It may be your first job, the only one you're old enough to hold in order to earn money — but it won't be your last. Baby-sitting is the beginning of meaningful maturity. It takes a genuine sense of responsibility to perform it well. And it takes just a little more—charm—to be asked to perform it more than once.

Let's find out what kind of baby-sitter you are!

Are you a SILENT SITTER?—or are you articulate enough to ask in advance all the information you must have to fulfill your serious obligation — necessary phone numbers, children's bedtime routines, lock-up directions?

Are you a STUPID SITTER?—free and easy with talk about your whereabouts on sitting dates, with no thought about possible dangers? Or do you keep time and place your private affair, except with your immediate family, just for safety's sake?

Are you a SURLY SITTER?—who changes from a pleasant companion into a commanding officer the moment parents drive away? Or do you take the time to prepare the children for a happy bedtime with some entertaining games or stories?

Are you a SELFISH SITTER?—a "me-firster," out to profit all you can from your evening, sampling everthing you employer has available — from personal cosmetics to ice-box contents — to monopolizing the telephone for hours on end? Or do you follow the "ground rules" scrupulously on snacking and socializing and time yourself to make regular rounds of your sleeping charges?

Whenever you are asked to baby-sit, you should be proud of the trust being placed in you. It's a tribute to your good sense that parents have the confidence to remain away from home for an evening. Their children are important to them. So are you.

Ah, but when the children themselves beg for YOU to be their baby-sitter, you can put an extra gloss on that pride. You may be able to pretend in front of parents, but children are rarely fooled. They know when they are liked and when they feel secure . . . and are far readier to respond with affection and obedience to a sitter they can respect.

Enjoy your baby-sitting tasks. They are, after all, but a step away from a woman's natural role. You may not get the highest pay for your efforts . . . but you can be rewarded with compensation worth more than money . . . and that is LOVE.

While you are cultivating good work habits and attitudes in your present part-time jobs, you can be studying "Your Steps to a Successful Career," as further preparation for your entry into the business world. This pamphlet is readily available upon request sent to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, with just 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Double	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

The four way contest between Italy, the United States, Great Britain and Argentina for the World's Bridge championship recently concluded in New York, produced a wealth of interesting slam hands. Today's deal was selected from the English-American match and indicates that the bidding methods of both teams at times leaves something to be desired.

The auction depicted in the diagram occurred at the table where the United States held the North-South cards. East opened the bidding with one spade, and South doubled. Although he had minimum high card values, the king of spades is entitled to some promotion for its favorable location, and the conditions of vulnerability tend to make competition a bit more attractive.

West passed and North cue bid the opponent's suit in order to show a good hand as well as to force another bid from his partner. South obliged by bidding three hearts and now North unaccountably gave up the ghost by merely proceeding to game in the suit.

The North hand is worth 18 points counting high cards and distribution. Partner is marked with the equivalent of a sound opening bid inasmuch as his double of one spade may force North to respond at the level of two. Slam is virtually assured provided a satisfactory contract can be found. In the methods we employ, North's cue bid of two spades is unconditionally forcing to game, so that when his partner bids three hearts he can afford to show his club suit without fear of being dropped below the game level. South is obliged to carry on to five clubs, and it is almost routine for North to bid a slam.

The English did not fare appreciably better with the North-South holding. The bidding proceeded in an identical manner up to and including South's three heart call. North now elected to make a slam try in the form of a raise beyond game to five hearts. He hoped that, if his partner had second round control of spades, he would carry on. South, however, had given his all by this time and felt constrained to pass.

Even if North had taken the bull by the horns and bid a slam in hearts, it would have required an abnormal play in the trump suit to fulfill the contract. Declarer must lead the jack of hearts through East's queen. If the latter covers, then declarer must push the nine through next and finesse against the ten. If the hand is played in clubs, a diamond discard is available to obviate the necessity of a heart finesse.

Ladies Auxiliary to Owl's Nest 2180 will meet tomorrow at 7 p.m. at the Owl's Home, 121 Harrison Street.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Double	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

The four way contest between Italy, the United States, Great Britain and Argentina for the World's Bridge championship recently concluded in New York, produced a wealth of interesting slam hands. Today's deal was selected from the English-American match and indicates that the bidding methods of both teams at times leaves something to be desired.

The auction depicted in the diagram occurred at the table where the United States held the North-South cards. East opened the bidding with one spade, and South doubled. Although he had minimum high card values, the king of spades is entitled to some promotion for its favorable location, and the conditions of vulnerability tend to make competition a bit more attractive.

West passed and North cue bid the opponent's suit in order to show a good hand as well as to force another bid from his partner. South obliged by bidding three hearts and now North unaccountably gave up the ghost by merely proceeding to game in the suit.

The North hand is worth 18 points counting high cards and distribution. Partner is marked with the equivalent of a sound opening bid inasmuch as his double of one spade may force North to respond at the level of two. Slam is virtually assured provided a satisfactory contract can be found. In the methods we employ, North's cue bid of two spades is unconditionally forcing to game, so that when his partner bids three hearts he can afford to show his club suit without fear of being dropped below the game level. South is obliged to carry on to five clubs, and it is almost routine for North to bid a slam.

The English did not fare appreciably better with the North-South holding. The bidding proceeded in an identical manner up to and including South's three heart call. North now elected to make a slam try in the form of a raise beyond game to five hearts. He hoped that, if his partner had second round control of spades, he would carry on. South, however, had given his all by this time and felt constrained to pass.

Even if North had taken the bull by the horns and bid a slam in hearts, it would have required an abnormal play in the trump suit to fulfill the contract. Declarer must lead the jack of hearts through East's queen. If the latter covers, then declarer must push the nine through next and finesse against the ten. If the hand is played in clubs, a diamond discard is available to obviate the necessity of a heart finesse.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm not saying this just because Bernice is my daughter but she is one of the most beautiful girls in America. She has a divine figure and an exquisite face. If Bernice had been in the Miss Universe contest she would have won.

The problem is her taste in men. Last year she was engaged to the scrawniest little runt I ever saw. He was shorter than she was, even in his elevator shoes. He had a large nose and big teeth. Bernice said he had a beautiful mind.

I was relieved when she stopped seeing him. Now she has a new boy friend who could play old Boris Karloff parts with no make-up. Bernice is impressed with him because he went to Brown University and wears a key on his watch chain to prove he got good grades.

I know looks aren't everything, Ann, but it seems to me a girl so beautiful could at least pick someone presentable. After all, she should give some consideration to what her children might look like. Please say something.—A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Leave Bernice alone. Clearly she has a better set of values than you. Looks contribute nothing to a lasting relationship.

And if you think beautiful parents always produce beautiful children I invite you to look around. It ain't necessarily so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a widow 55 years of age (not a divorcee please note). I own my own home, a new car and have an adequate income. My three children are grown and on their own.

I like living alone and have no interest in remarriage. There are times however when a woman needs an escort because without a male companion a respectable woman can't get in some places.

The town I live in does not have a male escort service. I don't want to advertise in a paper or magazine. Naturally, I would pay the bills and the escorting would be strictly on a business basis. Every bachelor or widower I meet has marriage in mind and I'm not interested. — ALONE AND LIKING IT

DEAR ALONE: Do they ALL want to marry you, Lamb chop? Can't you find even one nice guy who will settle for the pleasure of your company? I urge you to keep trying because what you are looking for does not exist.

No self-respecting man would go with a woman, allow her to pick up the checks and pay him for his time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My girl friend and I would appreciate your answer to this question.

The other evening we went out with a couple of fellows who are considered high school leaders. They are well thought of by both teachers and students.

My date pulled a pack of pictures out of his pocket and showed them to the other fellow. The other fellow said "Boinn-nnnnnnnnnng!" and they laughed until they almost split their sides.

My girl friend and I were dying of curiosity so we begged until they showed us the pictures. Well, we were sorry we had asked. The pictures were of girls in sailor hats and not much else. We then got mad at the boys for showing us such trash.

The boys insist that we are narrow-minded and that the pictures are art. How can a person tell the difference between art and trash? — SAL AND SUE

DEAR SAL AND SUE: High school kids don't carry "art" around in their pockets, sneak looks, say "Boi-nnnng," then knock themselves out laughing. These little boys will probably be very nice — when they grow up.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experience of thousands of teenagers if you wrtie for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Winchester-Western division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Co. has received a $2,956,653 Army contract for cartridges.

W.Va. Takes Lead In Dropout Program

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia has apparently taken the lead in attempting to solve the school dropout program and a State Department of Education official said Wednesday other states are quite interested in West Virginia's progress.

Asst. State School Supt. William K. Hamilton said this was shown at a 15-state conference on jobless youth in Nashville, Tenn. West Virginia is the first of the group to set up a training program for dropouts which will be conducted on an experimental basis in Mercer County this summer.

Bicycle Riders Must Learn Rules

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police Supt. W. E. Burchett said Wednesday that it is important that "young bicycle riders learn the basic rules of traffic safety."

"The safe bike rider of today will be the safe adult motorist in the years ahead," Burchett said. Bicycle riding can be "one of the most dangerous" forms of recreation if the basic safety rules are not practiced, he observed.

Declare Flood Zone SBA Disaster Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lincoln County, W. Va., and adjacent areas hit by flash floods earlier this week were declared disaster areas Wednesday by the Small Business Administration (SBA).

The declaration, which permits home owners, businesses, churches and charitable institutions to apply for low - cost reconstruction loans, followed the recommendation of W. E. Edwards, SBA representative in Charleston, W. Va.

Meanwhile, State Health Director N. H. Dyer said in Charleston he has provided area residents with three sanitary engineers and a quantity of typhoid vaccine for immunization.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

The Senate Agriculture Committee, after attaching some amendments, has "reported" the farm bill. This means the committee has voted to recommend the bill's passage by the full Senate. To review the bill and its relationship to the established farm subsidy program would require a monograph of considerable size,—but, for the person in a hurry, here's a brief summary. The main provisions of the new bill (S. 2786) are—

(1) Permanent extension of the conservation program;

(2) Payments to producers to develop soil, water, forest, wildlife, and recreation resources—under long-term agreements;

(3) To local authorities, long-term loans for public recreation facilities and for land conservation projects;

(4) Extension of the feed-grain subsidy-and-control program;

(5) A choice by majority vote of wheat farmers between—

(a) a 2-year extension of the present wheat subsidy program; or

(b) a "marketing certificate plan" under the Secretary's control;

(6) A revolving fund for Rural Electrification Administration loans; and

(7) A new Administration of Agricultural - Industrial Use Research.

Although the committee did refuse to go along with the Administration's desire to add dairying to their control system, I can see nothing in the bill as reported which indicates any intention of cutting back on the price-support policy which priced American farm products out of world markets and led to the accumulation of surpluses, and is, in fact, at the root of our serious farm problem, accounting for one of the largest single items in our national budget. Instead, it is but a continuation and even a spreading of that same program. There is no easy way out, of course, once we started down the dangerous road of farm subsidies, but any change in policy or program should be in the direction of preserving and strengthening our private enterprise system. This bill, like its predecessors, is not in this direction.

The existing farm program exceeds the limits of Federal responsibility. The Federal government is not obligated to guarantee any group—whether it be business or agriculture—a profitable existence. If the Federal government can enter the market place to insure a specific level of income to farmers, who is to say where such responsibility should end? Farmers are not the only ones who have to fight for a profit. It is beyond the realm of reason to expect taxpayers to finance a program to guarantee a profit to farmers in perpetuity.

There are many inconsistencies in the farm program. Here's a classic example: We are spending hundreds of millions of dollars of taxpayers' funds on reclamation projects out West to bring more land into production and are rewarding the farmers who step up the output of crops already faced with vast surpluses, while, at the same time, we are spending still other hundreds of millions to take land out of production.

The present farm program tends to encourage inefficient operation and destroy the opportunity for success of the small farmer. The program cannot be considered an aid to small farmers. The subsidy program helps the big farmers, but does very little for the small farmers, who are the ones seriously affected by restrictions in acreage and marketing. The smaller the farmer, the less he benefits from the taxpayers' "generosity".

We have had farm program after farm program, and about the only result has been more surpluses, more Federal spending of taxpayers' money, more waste, more tax-subsidized reward for either non-production or useless production. Perhaps, ultimately, farming will be returned to the framework of the free competitive enterprise system, where production is geared to consumption and the law of supply and demand prevails. That's about the only "solution" we haven't tried. The market system is a delicate mechanism which is self-correcting and works well most of the time, but which does not lend itself to tinkering by the Government.

Meeting Planned At Meadow Mt.

Personel of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks and the Board of Welfare will conduct an inter - departmental meeting Tuesday at the Meadow Mountain Forestry Camp for Boys.

W.A.C. Irwin, district forester, said those planning to attend from the Department of Forests and Parks include H. C. Buckingham, state forester; David Curran, supervisor of the three forestry camps in this area; Floyd Custer, superintendent of Green Ridge State Forest, and Harland Upole, superintendent of Savage River State Forest; Robert Wolford, supervisor of Green Ridge Forestry Camp for Boys; Ralph Swauger, forestry camp near Lonaconing; and Richard Essers, forestry camp at Meadow Mountain.

Receives Contract

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Willys Motors, Inc., a subsidiary of Kaiser Industries Corp., has received a $28,727,128 Army contract for 9,025 quarter-ton M151 vehicles. Willys estimated that about 80 per cent of the dollar volume will be subcontracted.

The first successful daily newspaper, the Pennsylvania Packet & General Advertiser, was formed from a tri-weekly in 1784.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

The Senate Agriculture Committee, after attaching some amendments, has "reported" the farm bill. This means the committee has voted to recommend the bill's passage by the full Senate. To review the bill and its relationship to the established farm subsidy program would require a monograph of considerable size,—but, for the person in a hurry, here's a brief summary. The main provisions of the new bill (S. 2786) are—

(1) Permanent extension of the conservation program;

(2) Payments to producers to develop soil, water, forest, wildlife, and recreation resources—under long-term agreements;

(3) To local authorities, long-term loans for public recreation facilities and for land conservation projects;

(4) Extension of the feed-grain subsidy-and-control program;

(5) A choice by majority vote of wheat farmers between—

(a) a 2-year extension of the present wheat subsidy program; or

(b) a "marketing certificate plan" under the Secretary's control;

(6) A revolving fund for Rural Electrification Administration loans; and

(7) A new Administration of Agricultural - Industrial Use Research.

Although the committee did refuse to go along with the Administration's desire to add dairying to their control system, I can see nothing in the bill as reported which indicates any intention of cutting back on the price-support policy which priced American farm products out of world markets and led to the accumulation of surpluses, and is, in fact, at the root of our serious farm problem, accounting for one of the largest single items in our national budget. Instead, it is but a continuation and even a spreading of that same program. There is no easy way out, of course, once we started down the dangerous road of farm subsidies, but any change in policy or program should be in the direction of preserving and strengthening our private enterprise system. This bill, like its predecessors, is not in this direction.

The existing farm program exceeds the limits of Federal responsibility. The Federal government is not obligated to guarantee any group—whether it be business or agriculture—a profitable existence. If the Federal government can enter the market place to insure a specific level of income to farmers, who is to say where such responsibility should end? Farmers are not the only ones who have to fight for a profit. It is beyond the realm of reason to expect taxpayers to finance a program to guarantee a profit to farmers in perpetuity.

There are many inconsistencies in the farm program. Here's a classic example: We are spending hundreds of millions of dollars of taxpayers' funds on reclamation projects out West to bring more land into production and are rewarding the farmers who step up the output of crops already faced with vast surpluses, while, at the same time, we are spending still other hundreds of millions to take land out of production.

The present farm program tends to encourage inefficient operation and destroy the opportunity for success of the small farmer. The program cannot be considered an aid to small farmers. The subsidy program helps the big farmers, but does very little for the small farmers, who are the ones seriously affected by restrictions in acreage and marketing. The smaller the farmer, the less he benefits from the taxpayers' "generosity".

We have had farm program after farm program, and about the only result has been more surpluses, more Federal spending of taxpayers' money, more waste, more tax-subsidized reward for either non-production or useless production. Perhaps, ultimately, farming will be returned to the framework of the free competitive enterprise system, where production is geared to consumption and the law of supply and demand prevails. That's about the only "solution" we haven't tried. The market system is a delicate mechanism which is self-correcting and works well most of the time, but which does not lend itself to tinkering by the Government.

Meeting Planned At Meadow Mt.

Personel of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks and the Board of Welfare will conduct an inter - departmental meeting Tuesday at the Meadow Mountain Forestry Camp for Boys.

W.A.C. Irwin, district forester, said those planning to attend from the Department of Forests and Parks include H. C. Buckingham, state forester; David Curran, supervisor of the three forestry camps in this area; Floyd Custer, superintendent of Green Ridge State Forest, and Harland Upole, superintendent of Savage River State Forest; Robert Wolford, supervisor of Green Ridge Forestry Camp for Boys; Ralph Swauger, forestry camp near Lonaconing; and Richard Essers, forestry camp at Meadow Mountain.

Receives Contract

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Willys Motors, Inc., a subsidiary of Kaiser Industries Corp., has received a $28,727,128 Army contract for 9,025 quarter-ton M151 vehicles. Willys estimated that about 80 per cent of the dollar volume will be subcontracted.

Stock Market Skid Called "Crisis In Confidence"

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has been skidding in the face of good business.

Why?

The most educated guess on Wall Street—and that's all it is, a guess—is that investors have become overwhelmed by fear.

One expert called the present situation "a crisis in confidence."

Although there are many opinions, sometimes contradictory, the most common feeling among Wall Streeters is that the investor fears:

—The Kennedy administration is antibusiness and that the assault on the steel price increase may be only the beginning.

—Business, good as it is now, won't be so brisk later in the year.

—The cost-price squeeze on industry may damage profits in subsequent quarters.

—There will be a substantial deficit in the federal budget.

—Stock prices are too high.

The market has been reeling since the steel price rollback April 13.

With unloading of stocks increasing, the market, as measured by the popular averages, has sunk to successive lows in the last week.

Wall Street analysts are putting much of the blame on the Kennedy administration's attitude toward business.

But even here many can't agree.

For instance, when the market made a short-lived advance Monday morning, one broker, when asked the reason, replied:

"Kennedy's speech."

And when the market turned around and slumped sharply in the afternoon, another broker blamed:

"Kennedy's speech."

In that speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Monday, the President said he wanted to see an economy kept stable by the free forces of competition so the government will not need to intervene in price setting.

But many investors apparently felt the President's speech was just an example of "words not deeds" and was far from what business was expecting to restore confidence.

Despite reports of record spending in plant improvement and equipment, many analysts feel that business, in its puzzlement over just what the government will do in any set of circumstances, may cut back on this type of outlay. That would mean fewer jobs and less consumer spending.

With stock yields relatively low, there is increasing competition for the investor's dollar.

A tremendous amount of money has gone into savings banks, which are offering up to 4½ per cent interest. Bonds, particularly the tax-free variety, are attracting money from stocks.

The big institutions—mutual funds, pension funds and the like, are sitting on the sidelines, and their absence from the buying market is being felt sharply. They sold substantial blocks of their holdings, particularly the steels, earlier.

Investors' confidence may have been shaken, too, by the Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation of the entire securities business, Wall Streeters feel.

They almost completely are ignoring favorable economic developments.

The generally good first-quarter earnings reports haven't impressed them. They figure the market discounts developments at least six months ahead and the present performance doesn't bode well for the future.

Automobile sales in the middle 10 days of April were 30 per cent higher than a year ago and second only to record 1955. Department store sales rang up substantial gains in the Easter buying season. Machine tool orders rose in March.

Despite the gloom and puzzlement, optimism is heard to kill on Wall Street.

The state with the smallest population is the Vatican City with 970 persons.

MARINETTE, Wis. (UPI)—Ansul Chemical Co. announced it has bought the inventory and name of Forestaire Products Co. of Couderay, Wis., from Edward Forrester. Manufacture of the Forestair line of molded plastic fire - fighting equipment for use in back packs and trucks will be continued under a property lease from Forrester.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission Tuesday authorized John H. Perry Jr., to acquire positive control of the Pensacola (Fla.) News Journal Co. The acquisition was accomplished through merger of the Post-Times Co. of Palm Beach into the Pensacola News Journal Co. and the purchase of recapitalized stock of the surviving corporation from Farwell W. Perry by the News Journal Co.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Communications Commission granted transfer of control of two radio stations at Rochester, N.Y., Tuesday from Henry I. Christal Co., Inc., to Rust Broadcasting Co., Inc., for $1.3 million. The transaction, involving stations WHAM and WHFM (FM), was conditioned, however, on William F. Rust Jr., disposing of his interest in some other AM radio property.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Commercial Credit Co. has raised its interest rate on 30 to 89-day commercial paper by ¼ of 1 per cent. This brings the company's rates in line with increases announced by other dealers in recent days.

Don't Change Diet In Fear Of Radioactivity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Public Health Service (PHS) on Tuesday warned Americans not to give up good eating habits because of fear of radioactive fallout affecting food.

Changing a sound diet would cause "more damage to health than the intake of the very small amounts of radioactive material" government officials said.

The PHS said it was keeping a close check on vegetables and dairy products for signs of fallout from Russia's nuclear bomb tests.

Some increase of strontium 90 was expected from the Russian tests, but the amount would not warrant reducing food intake, the official said.

Hawaii Site For 'Mohole'?

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — An ocean location in the Hawaiian chain Tuesday was considered a possible site for Project Mohole, which involves drilling a hole to the earth's unplumbed depths.

Dr. George S. Shor, associate research geophysicist in charge of site research on the federal project, said a "fairly good possible site" for Project Mohole was about 120 miles north of the island of Maui—third largest of the Hawaiian islands.

Shor returned Monday from a six-week trip, "Expedition Hilo," to explore possible Mohole sites. The Scripps Institution of Oceanography expedition was conducted by 26 scientists who went to Hawaii aboard ships.

Shor said the Maui area of the ocean under consideration was about 13,000 feet deep and the distance from the surface of the water to the "moho" was about 33,000 feet.

The Mohole project takes its name from the mohorovicic discontinuity — or "moho" between the earth's crust and its mantle. Scientists hope that by piercing the earth's crust with a drill string, they can obtain core samplings to shed light on the earth's history.

Test Of Vaccine For Measles Nearly Perfect

NEW YORK (AP)—A type of the Enders measles vaccine has been tested here for two years with almost 100 per cent effectiveness.

The single-inoculation test involved 4,000 infants and youngsters in the metropolitan area.

Announcement of the results was made by the city's Health Research Council, which financed the venture, and by Dr. Saul Krugman of the New York University Medical Center Tuesday.

Krugman said the test indicated the live vaccine—a refined, weakened strain of that developed by Dr. John F. Enders of Harvard Medical Center—provided immunity as certain as that provided by naturally acquired measles.

Krugman also reported these observations to the American Academy of Pediatrics:

—No instances of local reaction to the inoculation, such as redness, swelling or soreness.

—Low incidence of fever and rash.

—Children vaccinated with the virus cannot infect other children.

U.S. To Invest Millions In British VTO Jet

LONDON (UPI)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Tuesday the United States will invest about $30 to $35 million in the development of Britain's P1127 vertical take-off jet fighter.

McNamara, on arrival for talks with British defense officials, told newsmen at London airport the project was being developed mutually, with West Germany also taking part.

He said the project had not reached the stage when it could be decided where to produce the fighter on a large scale.

Asked if the money would be spent in Britain he said, "I understand that will be so."

The Hawker P1127, a comparatively small fighter, is expected to be operational in the mid-sixties.

Box Plant Opened

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Owens-Illinois Glass Co. will open a new corrugated shipping box plant in Memphis, Tenn. The plant will manufacture all types of corrugated shipping boxes and is scheduled to be in operation by Sept. 1.

Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bothered by cephalalgia?

If you haven't been recently, chances are you will be sooner or later.

Cephalalgia, Greek to most folks really is Greek.

It means a condition of head pain. The modern translation comes out painfully as headache.

A search for the cause and meaning of headache busies many scientists. Some have concluded that the pain in the head sometimes comes from a pain in the neck — a cramping of muscles that disturbs conditions in the head.

At the recent annual meeting of the American Academy of Neurology, Dr. F. L. McNaughton, of McGill University in Montreal, Canada, noted that headaches come in acute, recurrent, subacute and chronic types.

He said a localized headache may point to such localized disease processes as glaucoma, acute sinusitis, acute dental causes or herpes zoster.

A booklet on headache, compiled by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, cautions that some headaches are alarm signals for prompt and thorough medical check-ups. Cited in this class were the following types:

—Sudden, severe or "out of the blue" headaches.

—Headaches associated with fever or convulsions.

—Headaches accompanied by confusion or lessening of consciousness.

—Headache following a blow on the head.

—Headache associated with local pain in the eye, ear or elsewhere.

—Headache beginning in the older person, previously free of headaches.

—Headache at any age which interferes with normal living and recurring headache in children.

But what about the ordinary headache — one that's as common as the common cold and doesn't fit into any of the alarm situations cited above?

Dr. Arnold P. Friedman, head of the headache unit at Montefiore Hospital, New York, and consultant who helped produce the "headache" report, answers the question this way:

"Learn to handle your headache. Books and pamphlets help, but expert human direction (your doctor) is invaluable."

For emergency treatment of the ordinary headache, it is suggested you try a prompt fresh-air test. This gets you away from deadly, odorless carbon monoxide poisoning from a downdraft in heating equipment or a leaky car exhaust.

The fresh-air therapy also takes you temporarily out of a crowded, overexciting, tension-creating gathering. This, too, causes headaches.

Since 1955, the value of rubies has been rising owing to a drying up in supplies from Ceylon and Burma.

Hawaii Site For 'Mohole'?

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — An ocean location in the Hawaiian chain Tuesday was considered a possible site for Project Mohole, which involves drilling a hole to the earth's unplumbed depths.

Dr. George S. Shor, associate research geophysicist in charge of site research on the federal project, said a "fairly good possible site" for Project Mohole was about 120 miles north of the island of Maui—third largest of the Hawaiian islands.

Shor returned Monday from a six-week trip, "Expedition Hilo," to explore possible Mohole sites. The Scripps Institution of Oceanography expedition was conducted by 26 scientists who went to Hawaii aboard ships.

Shor said the Maui area of the ocean under consideration was about 13,000 feet deep and the distance from the surface of the water to the "moho" was about 33,000 feet.

The Mohole project takes its name from the mohorovicic discontinuity — or "moho" between the earth's crust and its mantle. Scientists hope that by piercing the earth's crust with a drill string, they can obtain core samplings to shed light on the earth's history.

Test Of Vaccine For Measles Nearly Perfect

NEW YORK (AP)—A type of the Enders measles vaccine has been tested here for two years with almost 100 per cent effectiveness.

The single-inoculation test involved 4,000 infants and youngsters in the metropolitan area.

Announcement of the results was made by the city's Health Research Council, which financed the venture, and by Dr. Saul Krugman of the New York University Medical Center Tuesday.

Krugman said the test indicated the live vaccine—a refined, weakened strain of that developed by Dr. John F. Enders of Harvard Medical Center—provided immunity as certain as that provided by naturally acquired measles.

Krugman also reported these observations to the American Academy of Pediatrics:

—No instances of local reaction to the inoculation, such as redness, swelling or soreness.

—Low incidence of fever and rash.

—Children vaccinated with the virus cannot infect other children.

U.S. To Invest Millions In British VTO Jet

LONDON (UPI)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Tuesday the United States will invest about $30 to $35 million in the development of Britain's P1127 vertical take-off jet fighter.

McNamara, on arrival for talks with British defense officials, told newsmen at London airport the project was being developed mutually, with West Germany also taking part.

He said the project had not reached the stage when it could be decided where to produce the fighter on a large scale.

Asked if the money would be spent in Britain he said, "I understand that will be so."

Three Congressmen Among 60 Called As Witnesses In Savings-Loan Probe

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — State's Atty. Leonard P. Kardy announced Wednesday three congressmen will be among 60 witnesses called in a grand jury investigation on savings and loan operations.

Kardy said subpoenas have been issued for Reps. Thomas F. Johnson, D—Md., Frank W. Boykin, D-Ala., and James Roosevelt, D-Calif.

Johnson and Boykin have been mentioned in connection with the First Continental Savings & Loan Association of Chevy Chase, now in receivership.

Roosevelt formerly was associated with Family Savings & Home Loan Association, also in receivership. Its offices are in Silver Spring, Chevy Chase and Suitland.

Also to be called, Kardy said, are Najeeb E. Halaby, chairman of the Federal Aviation Agency, and Newton Minow, head of the Federal Communications Commission. They or their representatives will be asked for information concerning assets of Mutual Security Savings & Loan Association of Silver Spring, now closed.

Halaby is expected to be asked about an airplane owned by Mutual Security and reportedly used by Arthur Peisner, a Mutual Security official, on flights to Florida. The FAA, it is understood, has records in connection with the plane, which has been sold.

Minnow's office is expected to be asked for information concerning the ownership of radio station WTID, Newport News, Va., which has been described as an asset of Mutual Security or of an affiliated organization.

The probe, to start Monday, will climax more than seven months of investigation, Kardy said. The checking, he said, began in October when a number of savings and loan firms in Maryland began closing as a result of receiverships and other legal actions initiated by the attorney general of Maryland.

Kardy announced the names of 45 witnesses and said 15 or 16 more, nearly all of them shareholders in closed savings and loan firms, will be added to the list.

The list includes virtually every important official of affected savings and loan associations.

Kardy said the investigation is expected to take two weeks. He added:

"The array of witnesses. . .is indicative of the long and exhaustive investigation my office has made into the building and loan situation.

"I believe the people of Montgomery County are entitled to a full disclosure of all matters.

"There was a complete betrayal of the public trust by the associations involved."

Asked what types of indictments the grand jury might be expected to return, Kardy replied: "Larceny after trust, conspiracy to defraud, and acting on false pretenses."

Ala. Legislator's Aide Testifies

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man who identified himself as an aide to an Alabama congressman was among those testifying Wednesday before a special federal grand jury for savings and loan affairs.

The jury is investigating two tracts of land on which two Maryland savings and loan companies had agreed to lend money.

One of the witnesses, carrying a briefcase and record books, said he is on the business staff of Rep. Frank W. Boykin, D-Ala., in Mobile, Ala. He declined to give his name or discuss his appearance before the jury.

One of the tracts of land, containing 8,000 acres in Charles County, is known as Linda City. The other, Leisure City, comprises 4,676 acres on the Potomac River 10 miles northeast of Fredericksburg, Va.

Both properties were bought in December by Francis J. Finneran, a Connecticut builder and developer.

Finneran, who testified before the grand jury in January, said he understood that two savings and loan associations had agreed to lend $4.5 million to help develop them. He said the firms were First Colony Savings and Loan of Elkton and First Continental Savings and Loan of Chevy Chase.

State and federal officials have identified J. Kenneth Edlin, 63, of Miami, Fla., as the person controlling both associations. Edlin is scheduled to begin a six-month federal prison term May 14 on his mail fraud conviction in the operation of First Colony.

First Colony is under a court-appointed conservator. First Continental is in receivership.

Cardinals Visit Rome

ROME (UPI)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, and Joseph Elmer Cardinal Ritter, archbishop of St. Louis, Mo., arrived Wednesday.

They will attend a session of the central preparatory commission for the Ecumenical Council opening Thursday.

All SRC Autos To Be Equipped With Seat Belts

BALTIMORE (AP) — The idea of requiring automobile seat belts for safety spread to the State Roads Commission Wednesday.

The Department of Motor Vehicles already requires seat belts. All State Police patrol cars are equipped with them. Hagerstown city police have ordered them. Baltimore's transit director is pushing the idea in Baltimore. Several states have made installation mandatory in new cars.

Funds for installing the belts are available to all state agencies for official cars if the department head requests them when ordering new vehicles.

Members of the roads commission agreed Wednesday, after a brief discussion, that the belts should be installed in both front and back seats by Aug. 1. About 500 vehicles, from sedans to pickup trucks, are involved.

SRC Director John B. Funk recalled that an employe injured in a head-on collision while on vacation a year ago still is in the hospital. The driver of the other car, secured by a seat belt, recovered fully from his injuries.

Walter Woodford, chief of the division of administration, estimated the installation cost at $10,000.

"If it costs us another $5,000 to put them in back seats," said Funk, "it will be money well spent if only one life is saved in five years."

Capt. Bartholomew Gosnold was the first white man in New England. He landed near New Bedford, Mass., on May 15, 1602.

Students Joining "Booklift" To Get Free Lemonade

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — No classes all day, free lemonade and a chance to work off some extra pounds.

That's the prospect for students at Western Maryland College next Wednesday, because the college library is being moved to a new building. A nucleus of books which the library staff considers essential will be moved in one day by students and faculty.

Dr. James Earp of the Sociology Department is chief organizer of the operation. He figures it will take 6,600 trips and a maximum of five hours to make the transfer.

Each round trip will take 20 to 25 minutes. This includes having each armload of books vacuumed along the way.

To make sure there are no hitches, the entire student body will be briefed at 8 a.m. on moving day. "Every book is supposed to have a place to go," says Dr. Earp.

Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, college president, arranged for the lemonade stand for the 600 student book carriers.

Accused Candidate Shuns Arraignment

BALTIMORE (AP) — A candidate for the Maryland State Senate, charged with perjury by misstating his age, did not appear in Criminal Court Wednesday for his scheduled arraignment.

The candidate, Carrington T. Simms, 23, is seeking the Democratic nomination for State Senate from Baltimore's 4th District. A grand jury presentment more than a month ago accused Simms of claiming to be over 25, the constitutional age required for senate candidates.

Sheriff's deputies said they could not locate Simms in order to serve him with a summons. He is an unemployed laborer.

Airport Use Assured

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major U.S. airlines have agreed to use the new jet airport being built 30 miles from Washington at Chantilly, Va., Najeeb E. Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, said Wednesday.

Halaby told a House Commerce subcommittee the successful negotiations with the airlines removed a major uncertainty as to the future of the government-built airport, Dulles International.

Three Congressmen Among 60 Called As Witnesses In Savings-Loan Probe

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — State's Atty. Leonard P. Kardy announced Wednesday three congressmen will be among 60 witnesses called in a grand jury investigation on savings and loan operations.

Kardy said subpoenas have been issued for Reps. Thomas F. Johnson, D—Md., Frank W. Boykin, D-Ala., and James Roosevelt, D-Calif.

Johnson and Boykin have been mentioned in connection with the First Continental Savings & Loan Association of Chevy Chase, now in receivership.

Roosevelt formerly was associated with Family Savings & Home Loan Association, also in receivership. Its offices are in Silver Spring, Chevy Chase and Suitland.

Also to be called, Kardy said, are Najeeb E. Halaby, chairman of the Federal Aviation Agency, and Newton Minow, head of the Federal Communications Commission. They or their representatives will be asked for information concerning assets of Mutual Security Savings & Loan Association of Silver Spring, now closed.

Halaby is expected to be asked about an airplane owned by Mutual Security and reportedly used by Arthur Peisner, a Mutual Security official, on flights to Florida. The FAA, it is understood, has records in connection with the plane, which has been sold.

Minnow's office is expected to be asked for information concerning the ownership of radio station WTID, Newport News, Va., which has been described as an asset of Mutual Security or of an affiliated organization.

The probe, to start Monday, will climax more than seven months of investigation, Kardy said. The checking, he said, began in October when a number of savings and loan firms in Maryland began closing as a result of receiverships and other legal actions initiated by the attorney general of Maryland.

Kardy announced the names of 45 witnesses and said 15 or 16 more, nearly all of them shareholders in closed savings and loan firms, will be added to the list.

The list includes virtually every important official of affected savings and loan associations.

Kardy said the investigation is expected to take two weeks. He added:

"The array of witnesses. . .is indicative of the long and exhaustive investigation my office has made into the building and loan situation.

"I believe the people of Montgomery County are entitled to a full disclosure of all matters.

"There was a complete betrayal of the public trust by the associations involved."

Asked what types of indictments the grand jury might be expected to return, Kardy replied: "Larceny after trust, conspiracy to defraud, and acting on false pretenses."

Ala. Legislator's Aide Testifies

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man who identified himself as an aide to an Alabama congressman was among those testifying Wednesday before a special federal grand jury for savings and loan affairs.

The jury is investigating two tracts of land on which two Maryland savings and loan companies had agreed to lend money.

One of the witnesses, carrying a briefcase and record books, said he is on the business staff of Rep. Frank W. Boykin, D-Ala., in Mobile, Ala. He declined to give his name or discuss his appearance before the jury.

One of the tracts of land, containing 8,000 acres in Charles County, is known as Linda City. The other, Leisure City, comprises 4,676 acres on the Potomac River 10 miles northeast of Fredericksburg, Va.

Both properties were bought in December by Francis J. Finneran, a Connecticut builder and developer.

Finneran, who testified before the grand jury in January, said he understood that two savings and loan associations had agreed to lend $4.5 million to help develop them. He said the firms were First Colony Savings and Loan of Elkton and First Continental Savings and Loan of Chevy Chase.

State and federal officials have identified J. Kenneth Edlin, 63, of Miami, Fla., as the person controlling both associations. Edlin is scheduled to begin a six-month federal prison term May 14 on his mail fraud conviction in the operation of First Colony.

First Colony is under a court-appointed conservator. First Continental is in receivership.

The Farmer Isn't The Farm Problem

Hanky-panky with acreage allotments turns up increasingly in the publicized scandals related to the farm program. The Billy Sol Estes case in Texas is simply more inclusive.

Allotments originally issued to farmers long since departed from the land fall increasingly into the hands of city slickers who use them as negotiable instruments or for the purpose of collecting federal payments on acreages they never had any intention of cultivating anyway.

This deepening vested interest in agricultural subsidies on the part of persons other than farmers raises a question concerning the farm problem's long visualized ultimate solution. The problem had a political origin when farmers were far more numerous than they are now, and accordingly exercised more influence at the polls.

It is sometimes thought that the problem will disappear when the diminishing number of farmers makes their vote a waning political factor. But what is to be said of the growing number of persons other than farmers who have now acquired a financial interest in the perpetuation of the farm subsidies?

A conspicuous example is the vast warehousing industry that has grown up around the farm problem and now handles the various federally-owned surpluses at an estimated cost to the taxpayers of more than a million dollars a day. Any cutback in the farm program that reduced the warehousing fees to any great extent would result predictably in anguished howls from the affected beneficiaries. This would be the case regardless of how the farmers themselves reacted.

Similarly, city-dwelling weekend farmers have acquired a direct financial interest in the perpetuation of soil bank payments and other rewards for refraining from doing any work. Thus it's no longer fully apparent that the way to get rid of the farm problem is to get rid of the farmer.

These Days

The National Image

The United States was recognized beyond question as the leading nation in the world during and after World War II. It was recognized by friend and foe that but for the intervention of the United States, the Allies could not have won that war. However, at the Teheran and Yalta Conferences, American delegations proved themselves not to be as capable as the Russians, although the Russians were, at the moment, dependent upon the United States. Stalin, at every turn, outwitted Roosevelt, as the documents and the subsequent course of events have proved.

Subsequent to World War II, the image of the United States became blurred. Although, with a generosity unequalled in history, the United States poured out its wealth to rebuild friend and foe, the image of the United States suffered not only because of the competence of Russian propaganda and organized Communism, but also because whatever gave the appearance of policy also gave the appearance of weakness. Gifts beyond the imagination of rulers were translated into bribes so that nation after nation demanded that "no political strings be attached" to the benefactions, a demand as impudent as it was absurd.

Instead of rejecting such demands as insults, the United States almost begged countries to accept its aids and grants and supported neutrals and even pro-Communist countries against its own interests. This was not accepted as Christian virtue or capitalistic benevolence but rather as weakness and stupidity and insults were hurled at us, not only upon us as a nation, but upon our President and Vice President.

Such an historical absurdity as the Korean War forced nation after nation to revise its judgment of the United States and most judged us unfavorably. The removal of General Douglas MacArthur damaged American prestige throughout Asia, just as the emergence of Castro in Cuba damaged us throughout Latin America.

Nobody quite understood our attitude, not even our closest allies, particularly as we helped to break up the empires of our friends while we strengthened former foes and supported unfriendly neutrals. It was particularly impossible to grasp the meaning of our policy toward Soviet Russia and Red China. Toward the former, we seemed to be obsessed by a policy of disengagement which lacked meaning because the Russians declined to become disengaged and noted the discussion on this subject as another indication of capitalistic cowardice and degeneracy. The advocates of disengagement were countered by increasing entanglement in European, Asiatic and African affairs.

As regards Red China, the assumption that the internecine ideological quarrel within the Soviet Universal State meant that Russia and Red China were on the brink of war evoked laughter among Communists. And when one heard that experts so believe, it was only possible to inquire who such experts are. The absurdity of the assumption gave much comfort to Khrushchev who, basing himself upon it, took a continually stronger attitude toward the United States.

What Khrushchev and all others did not understand is the cold Irish anger of a Kennedy. This needs to be seen to be understood and it runs through the breed. No Kennedy likes to be taken for granted and many politicians are already noting that characteristic in the President who beneath a suave veneer is a tough guy.

Although the President hates war, he hates an indignity more. The Russians adopted an attitude that it is correct for them to test 50 or more bombs but that not only is the United States forbidden to do any testing at all, but that international inspection and control is forbidden. In a word, Khrushchev's attitude is identical with Stalin's.

Kennedy gave the Russians plenty of time—in my judgement too much time—but when he struck back it was done to make Khrushchev look foolish. Even those nations that protested American testing were weak in their expression. No significant American resistance was expressed.

The American image now stands out clear against the sky. It is the image of a nation dignified and unafraid. It is the image of a nation that has a program and the will to carry it to a conclusion, whether that conclusion be a treaty for a peaceful settlement of outstanding issues or war. And war it well might be.

President Kennedy has, on balance, gained in strength domestically and internationally because he has indicated that patience must not be misunderstood for weakness.

JFK Seeks 'Atmosphere Of Understanding'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — On the subject of "stone-throwing" — apropos of the controversy recently over steel prices — President Kennedy in a speech before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Convention on Monday quoted the Bible as saying there is "a time to cast away stones and a time to gather stones together." But Mr. Kennedy forgot another quotation. Jesus said: "Let him who is without sin among you be the first to cast a stone."

The President brushes aside the fact that he initiated the broad attack on American business three weeks ago, particularly on a large steel company. For, in a public statement on April 11 last, he expressed his feeling that "a tiny handful of steel executives whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility can show utter contempt for the interests of 185 million Americans."

This was the "stone" cast by an Administration which, because of its political indebtedness to the big labor unions, had refused to use any "stones" in the public interest to prevent an increase of $100 million a year in wage costs to the steel industry.

Mr. Kennedy has owed a public apology to the men in the steel industry and a disavowal of his charges as to their lack of patriotism. Maybe this is what he was trying indirectly to do when he said to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in his speech on Monday:

"While government economists can point out the necessity of increasing the rates of investment, of modernizing plant and productivity, while Washington officials may urge responsible collective bargaining and responsible wage-price decisions, we also recognize that beneath all the laws and guidelines and tax policies and stimulants we can provide, these matters all come down, quite properly in the last analysis, to private decisions by private individuals."

This is precisely what the steel men, as private individuals, tried to do. Had Mr. Kennedy made this statement in a balanced plea to labor and management in the steel controversy, and had he recognized that a moderate increase in steel prices was not catastrophic in itself, there would have been more confidence among businessmen today in the fairness of his administration.

For the President in his latest speech does outline objectively the problems faced by government and business and labor. He declares that "it is easy to charge an administration is anti-business, but it is more difficult to show how an administration, composed we hope of rational men, can possibly feel they can survive without business, or how the nation can survive unless the government and business and all other groups in our country are exerting their best efforts in an atmosphere of understanding, and I hope co-operation."

But such an "atmosphere of understanding" cannot be attained by misunderstanding the responsibilities of management to their stockholders — the investing public. Either the government has to run the economy or else the private-enterprise system must do it. Mr. Kennedy said:

"We have many burdens in Washington — we do not want the added burden of determining individual prices for individual products. We seek instead an economic climate in which an expanding concept of business and labor responsibility, an increasing awareness of world commerce and the free forces of domestic competition will keep the price level stable and keep the government out of price-setting."

But how can such a "climate" be attained? Certainly not by hastily convening a federal grand jury session and sending government detectives out immediately to interrogate the steel men, or by using the government's power suddenly to withdraw defense contracts as a means of intimidation.

Businessmen are not going to be swayed by soothing words. They are interested in facts and in proper action by the government. Mr. Kennedy has believed that there were only two courses in sight — inflation, which he wished to prevent, and price stability, which he hoped to establish. But he forgot the third course that threatens America — a deflation which can prevent recovery from a recession. Deflation occurs when profits are squeezed to the point of zero, when cost-cutting of every kind is invoked in desperation, and when labor keeps on demanding wages far above the point at which these costs can be absorbed within the price structure.

A deflationary trend can only lead to more unemployment and a downturn in values for American business. Mr. Kennedy's good faith in dealing equally with labor as he has with management is really at stake, and, unless the profit squeeze is soon stopped, there is little chance that optimistic statements made to such businessmen's meetings as that of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce will be of any avail.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

DIVIDENDS—One aspect of the steel price crisis, that didn't come through in news accounts but was of pirmary importance to President Kennedy, was the President's view of the presidency.

No occupant of the White House has long led the United States without feeling a sense of responsibility and of history running far beyond an awareness of them by the general public.

President Roosevelt's view of himself as chief executive was that of a man with virtually unlimited powers who sought to shape events to conform to his own concept of how historians should treat his administration.

President Truman, a student of history, showed a constant, keen awareness of the role of the presidency in American life and never lost sight of the fact that he was "The President."

President Eisenhower, as others before him, held constantly in mind his own conviction that, while he was the candidate of a political party, he was, first of all, "president of all the people."

So it is with President Kennedy. To Kennedy, steel's price rise was a doublecross, an occurrence that diminished the implied good faith of the President himself when he and his aides persuaded the Steelworkers Union to accept a moderate wage contract settlement.

Kennedy was not concerned with this affront to him personally, but he was greatly concerned over what it did to him in his own concept of the importance, the power and the integrity of the President of the United States.

It was vitally important to Kennedy to do his utmost to make sure that what he considered double dealing should not result in profit to the double dealers. While the effect of his efforts was to roll back the price increase and restore the economic stability he sought, it was also gratifying to Kennedy to maintain unimpaired his own estimate of the office of the President and what it symbolizes.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Art Buchwald tells a story that underlines the skulduggery of fake art dealers in Paris, with rich but unwary Americans their chief victims. One such American fell for the old gag of the masterpiece so valuable that the government wouldn't allow its shipment out of the country. "It's a Titian," whispered the dealer, "a Titian every museum director would give his eye-teeth to possess. There's only one way I can sneak it to America for you. Let my assistant Garachi paint over the Titian. Then, when you get home, have the Garachi wiped off, and voila, you have your priceless Titian."

The delighted American wrote out his check for $200,000, went on to the Riviera, and issued the necessary instructions about the painting to his secretary in New York.

Three weeks later he received this cable from New York: "Have received Garachi and cleaned it. Found Titian. Cleaned Titian. Found Garachi. How far should I go?"

'Apple A Day' Adage Gets Scientific Support

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," received scientific support recently. According to Science News Letter, 1,300 volunteer students at Michigan State University acted as guinea pigs. The daily apple eating students made fewer calls to the health center than any of the others over a three year period. Was it the vitamin C in apples or the tranquilizing effect of chewing down to the core?

A dentist told me several years ago that eating apples is a good substitute for brushing the teeth after eating. It sounds logical, provided all teeth are used in the process. Rinsing the mouth with water immediately after eating also helps to wash away the food particles between the teeth.

We received a letter several months ago from a New Yorker on a comment we made relative to the trouble that followed in the Garden of Eden after Eve at the apple. "Twasn't the apple in the Garden of Eden that caused all the trouble—'twas the 'pair' on the ground wot done it," he wrote.

The vitamin C (ascorbic acid) content of an apple is nothing to brag about when compared to that found in citrus fruits and fresh tomatoes. The raw apple has 5 mg. of ascorbic acid per 100 grams of the fruit as compared with 49 for oranges and 23 for tomatoes.

On the other hand, it is seldom realized that many vegetables in the freshly harvested state contain much more vitamin C than do these fruits.

Comparable amounts of raw fresh green peppers contain 120, guava 302, parsley 193, kale 115, broccoli 118, and mustard greens 102. Much of the vitamin content is lost during storage and processing.

Lettuce (18) and raw spinach (59) have lost most of their vitamin C content after wilting for several days. The vitamin C in root vegetables, tightly packed leaves of cabbage, and hard fruit diminishes more slowly.

The decrease in vitamin C during cooking varies with the method used but in general rarely exceeds 50 per cent of the amount present prior to processing.

Pine needles and green walnuts also are rich in vitamin C. So is an ordinary multiple vitamin capsule, which usually contains more than the daily requirements.

ASTHMATIC BRONCHITIS

G. E. writes: Is there any way to prevent bronchitis from leading to asthma?

REPLY

Yes—by having the bronchitis treated. Avoid all irritants, including smoking, and take care of respiratory infections as soon as they develop. Allergies, if present, should be treated via desensitization. The chances of developing asthma depend to a certain extent upon the progression of bronchitis and additional allergies.

PKU TEST

L. M. writes: How soon after the birth of a baby, born two months prematurely, can the urine test be made for PKU that causes mental retardation?

REPLY

The urine test is not reliable during the first three months unless it is positive. Blood tests are better because they detect phenylketonuria earlier.

SALT WATER GARGLING

D. K. writes: Is plain salt or the iodized type best for gargling?

REPLY

Take your pick. The trace of iodine will not add to or subtract from the value of the gargle. But iodine does mean a lot to the thyroid gland, when taken internally.

BLOATED ABDOMEN

H. B. writes: Could drinking a lot cause the abdomen to blow up with gas?

REPLY

Alcohol is absorbed in the stomach and does not form gas. But it may contribute to the problem by disturbing digestion. Abdominal swelling is not always caused by gas. It may be due to the accumulation of fat and occasionally stems from fluid if the alcoholic has cirrhosis of the liver.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mississippi River One Of Nation's Most Priceless Natura Resources

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter written to his grandson, Drew Arnold, from the Mississippi River aboard the SS Delta Queen.)

April 30, 1962

Dear Drew:

When I was about your age I used to read "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" and wish that someday I could sail down the Mississippi River. Now I am doing what I always wanted to do as a boy and I wish you and your brothers could be with me. Since being in school is much more important, I want to tell you something about this trip.

The first night out of New Orleans we had to tie up, because it was so foggy we could hardly see more than a few yards beyond the bow. So the boat snuggled up to the bank and one of the deck hands threw a Coca-Cola crate tied to a length of rope around a tree. Then he tied the rope to the tree, and we just stayed tied to the tree until the fog lifted.

In other words, the methods of navigation haven't changed much since the days when Mark Twain wrote about the Mississippi.

Up in the pilot house I talked to Capt. Harris Dunn, who is licensed to pilot on both the Ohio and the Mississippi rivers. Of the two, the Mississippi is much more difficult, first because the Ohio has a series of dams which make the current steady; second because the sand bars are constantly shifting in the Mississippi.

In order to become a pilot on the Mississippi, Captain Dunn told me, you have to take 10 trips with another pilot, and after that sit down and take a government exam in which you must name every important island, bend, and point in the river. So you see, when you take difficult exams at school, remember that some of the examinations you have to take when you grow up are even more difficult, and what you are doing in school is just preparing you for the future.

Backbone Of The Nation

I couldn't get near a telephone while I was on the Mississippi, and you know that this is very unusual for your grandfather. So I had a lot of time to think. And one of the things I thought about was the great blessings given the American people by geography.

In fact when you consider what has made us the powerful and progressive nation we are, I would say there are two main reasons. First we have been peculiarly blessed by such geographic factors as the Mississippi. Second we have been blessed by the freedoms pioneered by our British forefathers and by the energy given us by our other European forefathers.

I don't know whether you have studied it in school, but no other country in the world, except possibly China, has such a river as the Mississippi. Russia has the Volga and the Amur and other big rivers, but they drain an area which is too cold and doesn't have much rainfall. Brazil has the Amazon which is bigger than the Mississippi, but it drains an area that is too hot and therefore very difficult to live in. China has the Yangtze, which drains a rich temperate area similar to that of the Mississippi, but the Chinese made the mistake of chopping down all the trees in the Yangtze Valley and over-tilling the fields for thousands of years until China has become poverty stricken.

For some time we did the same thing. We cut down the forests in the hills where the Mississippi rises, and we paid no attention to the washing away of the soil. But now we are doing better. And I think history will show that the turning point for better soil conservation came when President Franklin Roosevelt took the advice of men like Henry Wallace, and Rex Tugwell, and Dr. J. Russell Smith of Columbia, who urged that we save the soil as our most priceless heritage.

The Mississippi, with its tributaries like the Ohio and the Missouri, also taps some of the important coal, iron ore, petroleum and mineral areas of the United States, and they in turn have developed factories and industry richer than those of any other country.

Mississippi Monopoly

This again is the result of nature's generosity. Man didn't put the coal and the oil and the minerals there. Nature did. But we have developed them, sometimes wisely, sometimes wastefully. We made a lot of mistakes. And in the economic competition between ourselves and the Communist world we can't afford mistakes.

In the period around the Civil War, the Mississippi became the great artery of commerce. It was the way the mail was carried, and passengers and hogs and freight.

Then suddenly all this stopped. One reason why it stopped was the pilots' union. The steamboat river pilots organized their Pilots Benevolent Association and required every steamboat to have one of its pilots aboard. If the steamboat owners didn't hire one of the union pilots, the ships couldn't sail, because the pilots would give no information on shifting sand bars and the changing river to anyone who was not a member of their union.

Of course, pilots' wages were too low at first and should have been increased. But then they went to the opposite extreme and became too high.

So this played into the hands of the railroads, which were just developing, and later into the hands of the barge lines. With barges, one small tugboat can carry the freight of several steamboats.

All of this put the old steamboats of Mark Twain's day out of business, which shows that monopoly, whether by unions or U. S. Steel or a big telephone company, doesn't pay if we are going to keep our democratic competitive system going strong.

I hope the SS Delta Queen will be going strong a long time, however, and that you can take a trip with me on her later.

Lots of love,
Your Grandfather

The Small Guys

It's not a good time for the little man and certainly not for the little business man. Some 1,600 of them are going to be dispossessed from a doomed nine-block area which is destined to become New York's World Trade Center. That's the way life has been all over New York and many another big city. The $10, $40, $100 million projects to rebuild an area are approved: the wreckers arrive. The little delicatessens, the clobbers, the little key shops, the local hardware store, the local barber—all disappear. Somehow when the gleaming new edifices arise, they never reappear.

Supermarkets, banks, chain stores are the only ones who can afford the rents in these new projects. What happens to the dispossessed? The other day I had a talk with a delicatessen owner, Barry Ray, who will be tossed out of his store when the $270 million trade center is built by the Port of New York Authority. The World Trade Center, of course, is a splendid thing for the city, but just the same, the rights, the hopes, the life work of people like Barry Ray ought to be protected.

Ray is 46 years old. He fought in World War II as an artillery spotter for four-and-a-half years. He was out of uniform two-and-a-half years, and then Korea came along and he was back in uniform again for three-and-a-half years, spotting enemy fire in his Piper Cub. Again he was mustered out. By now he was 38 years old, pretty late to be getting started. However, he and his partner, Al Trachentenberg, borrowed $10,000 to go into the delicatessen business.

The delicatessen has done all right, but the partners still owe $1,200 on the loan. They figure the delicatessen is worth $30,000 to $40,000, considering the good will, the location, and so forth. They have a ten-year lease with eight years to run which, of course, will be voided when the area is condemned. They will be compensated only for what improvements they have made to the delicatessen that can't be carried away, such as an air duct built right into the building. The top compensation will not exceed $3,000 and the partners doubt they'd get that. Split between two that's $1,500. And they'd be out in the street.

"This will be my third start in life," says Ray, a quiet, decent chap with ten decorations from his government for his service in two wars. "I'm 46. But it's almost a sin to be 46. I know nothing else. I want nothing out of this but a fair shake."

The 1,600 tradesmen sent a delegation to Albany to protest the bill condemning the area. Said Ray: "We knocked on doors. No legislator wanted to speak to us. We gave a party for legislators. Nobody came. There have been no hearings for us to protest before." He shrugged helplessly. "We feel that somehow, somewhere, this is a flagrant violation of our rights."

Ray estimates that the 1,600 small merchants and their employes amount to perhaps 30,000 people. Figuring conservatively, if each man is responsible for the livelihood of three others besides himself, that means that approximately 120,000 people are affected. "This is about the same number of people who live in the whole city of Evansville, Indiana. Suddenly the livelihood of all of them is wiped out."

Of course, this sort of thing has happened before but never on such a scale. The Port Authority's invasion of this large and old area is the most dramatic example yet of the effects of this population explosion on a city. Suddenly, 1,600 merchants are out of business with almost no compensation, all in the name of progress. The merchants are not against progress, but they feel strongly, and so do I, that progress has got to take into account the amount of misery that is being inflicted on that many people.

Of course, Port Authority is a massive organization and this particular venture has the blessing of David Rockefeller, president of the Chase-Manhattan Bank, and the bill was signed by his brother Gov. Rockefeller—all of which represents a massive use of power and sovereign right and all that. Just the same the question arises: What public purpose is so great that the livelihoods of 1,600 merchants which are enough merchants to staff a very large city can be sacrificed for it?

Most of these "little schnooks" are living on day-to-day receipts to pay the notes on the future. They couldn't afford to be closed even for a week to be moved. There have been vague proposals to give the merchants first option on moving into the new trade center. But most of them would be long out of business before it would be built.

The Farmer Isn't The Farm Problem

Hanky-panky with acreage allotments turns up increasingly in the publicized scandals related to the farm program. The Billy Sol Estes case in Texas is simply more inclusive.

Allotments originally issued to farmers long since departed from the land fall increasingly into the hands of city slickers who use them as negotiable instruments or for the purpose of collecting federal payments on acreages they never had any intention of cultivating anyway.

This deepening vested interest in agricultural subsidies on the part of persons other than farmers raises a question concerning the farm problem's long visualized ultimate solution. The problem had a political origin when farmers were far more numerous than they are now, and accordingly exercised more influence at the polls.

It is sometimes thought that the problem will disappear when the diminishing number of farmers makes their vote a waning political factor. But what is to be said of the growing number of persons other than farmers who have now acquired a financial interest in the perpetuation of the farm subsidies?

A conspicuous example is the vast warehousing industry that has grown up around the farm problem and now handles the various federally-owned surpluses at an estimated cost to the taxpayers of more than a million dollars a day. Any cutback in the farm program that reduced the warehousing fees to any great extent would result predictably in anguished howls from the affected beneficiaries. This would be the case regardless of how the farmers themselves reacted.

Similarly, city-dwelling weekend farmers have acquired a direct financial interest in the perpetuation of soil bank payments and other rewards for refraining from doing any work. Thus it's no longer fully apparent that the way to get rid of the farm problem is to get rid of the farmer.

These Days

The National Image

The United States was recognized beyond question as the leading nation in the world during and after World War II. It was recognized by friend and foe that but for the intervention of the United States, the Allies could not have won that war. However, at the Teheran and Yalta Conferences, American delegations proved themselves not to be as capable as the Russians, although the Russians were, at the moment, dependent upon the United States. Stalin, at every turn, outwitted Roosevelt, as the documents and the subsequent course of events have proved.

Subsequent to World War II, the image of the United States became blurred. Although, with a generosity unequalled in history, the United States poured out its wealth to rebuild friend and foe, the image of the United States suffered not only because of the competence of Russian propaganda and organized Communism, but also because whatever gave the appearance of policy also gave the appearance of weakness. Gifts beyond the imagination of rulers were translated into bribes so that nation after nation demanded that "no political strings be attached" to the benefactions, a demand as impudent as it was absurd.

Instead of rejecting such demands as insults, the United States almost begged countries to accept its aids and grants and supported neutrals and even pro-Communist countries against its own interests. This was not accepted as Christian virtue or capitalistic benevolence but rather as weakness and stupidity and insults were hurled at us, not only upon us as a nation, but upon our President and Vice President.

Such an historical absurdity as the Korean War forced nation after nation to revise its judgment of the United States and most judged us unfavorably. The removal of General Douglas MacArthur damaged American prestige throughout Asia, just as the emergence of Castro in Cuba damaged us throughout Latin America.

Nobody quite understood our attitude, not even our closest allies, particularly as we helped to break up the empires of our friends while we strengthened former foes and supported unfriendly neutrals. It was particularly impossible to grasp the meaning of our policy toward Soviet Russia and Red China. Toward the former, we seemed to be obsessed by a policy of disengagement which lacked meaning because the Russians declined to become disengaged and noted the discussion on this subject as another indication of capitalistic cowardice and degeneracy. The advocates of disengagement were countered by increasing entanglement in European, Asiatic and African affairs.

As regards Red China, the assumption that the internecine ideological quarrel within the Soviet Universal State meant that Russia and Red China were on the brink of war evoked laughter among Communists. And when one heard that experts so believe, it was only possible to inquire who such experts are. The absurdity of the assumption gave much comfort to Khrushchev who, basing himself upon it, took a continually stronger attitude toward the United States.

What Khrushchev and all others did not understand is the cold Irish anger of a Kennedy. This needs to be seen to be understood and it runs through the breed. No Kennedy likes to be taken for granted and many politicians are already noting that characteristic in the President who beneath a suave veneer is a tough guy.

Although the President hates war, he hates an indignity more. The Russians adopted an attitude that it is correct for them to test 50 or more bombs but that not only is the United States forbidden to do any testing at all, but that international inspection and control is forbidden. In a word, Khrushchev's attitude is identical with Stalin's.

Kennedy gave the Russians plenty of time—in my judgement too much time—but when he struck back it was done to make Khrushchev look foolish. Even those nations that protested American testing were weak in their expression. No significant American resistance was expressed.

The American image now stands out clear against the sky. It is the image of a nation dignified and unafraid. It is the image of a nation that has a program and the will to carry it to a conclusion, whether that conclusion be a treaty for a peaceful settlement of outstanding issues or war. And war it well might be.

President Kennedy has, on balance, gained in strength domestically and internationally because he has indicated that patience must not be misunderstood for weakness.

JFK Seeks 'Atmosphere Of Understanding'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — On the subject of "stone-throwing" — apropos of the controversy recently over steel prices — President Kennedy in a speech before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Convention on Monday quoted the Bible as saying there is "a time to cast away stones and a time to gather stones together." But Mr. Kennedy forgot another quotation. Jesus said: "Let him who is without sin among you be the first to cast a stone."

The President brushes aside the fact that he initiated the broad attack on American business three weeks ago, particularly on a large steel company. For, in a public statement on April 11 last, he expressed his feeling that "a tiny handful of steel executives whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility can show utter contempt for the interests of 185 million Americans."

This was the "stone" cast by an Administration which, because of its political indebtedness to the big labor unions, had refused to use any "stones" in the public interest to prevent an increase of $100 million a year in wage costs to the steel industry.

Mr. Kennedy has owed a public apology to the men in the steel industry and a disavowal of his charges as to their lack of patriotism. Maybe this is what he was trying indirectly to do when he said to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in his speech on Monday:

"While government economists can point out the necessity of increasing the rates of investment, of modernizing plant and productivity, while Washington officials may urge responsible collective bargaining and responsible wage-price decisions, we also recognize that beneath all the laws and guidelines and tax policies and stimulants we can provide, these matters all come down, quite properly in the last analysis, to private decisions by private individuals."

This is precisely what the steel men, as private individuals, tried to do. Had Mr. Kennedy made this statement in a balanced plea to labor and management in the steel controversy, and had he recognized that a moderate increase in steel prices was not catastrophic in itself, there would have been more confidence among businessmen today in the fairness of his administration.

For the President in his latest speech does outline objectively the problems faced by government and business and labor. He declares that "it is easy to charge an administration is anti-business, but it is more difficult to show how an administration, composed we hope of rational men, can possibly feel they can survive without business, or how the nation can survive unless the government and business and all other groups in our country are exerting their best efforts in an atmosphere of understanding, and I hope co-operation."

But such an "atmosphere of understanding" cannot be attained by misunderstanding the responsibilities of management to their stockholders — the investing public. Either the government has to run the economy or else the private-enterprise system must do it. Mr. Kennedy said:

"We have many burdens in Washington — we do not want the added burden of determining individual prices for individual products. We seek instead an economic climate in which an expanding concept of business and labor responsibility, an increasing awareness of world commerce and the free forces of domestic competition will keep the price level stable and keep the government out of price-setting."

But how can such a "climate" be attained? Certainly not by hastily convening a federal grand jury session and sending government detectives out immediately to interrogate the steel men, or by using the government's power suddenly to withdraw defense contracts as a means of intimidation.

Businessmen are not going to be swayed by soothing words. They are interested in facts and in proper action by the government. Mr. Kennedy has believed that there were only two courses in sight — inflation, which he wished to prevent, and price stability, which he hoped to establish. But he forgot the third course that threatens America — a deflation which can prevent recovery from a recession. Deflation occurs when profits are squeezed to the point of zero, when cost-cutting of every kind is invoked in desperation, and when labor keeps on demanding wages far above the point at which these costs can be absorbed within the price structure.

A deflationary trend can only lead to more unemployment and a downturn in values for American business. Mr. Kennedy's good faith in dealing equally with labor as he has with management is really at stake, and, unless the profit squeeze is soon stopped, there is little chance that optimistic statements made to such businessmen's meetings as that of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce will be of any avail.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

DIVIDENDS—One aspect of the steel price crisis, that didn't come through in news accounts but was of pirmary importance to President Kennedy, was the President's view of the presidency.

No occupant of the White House has long led the United States without feeling a sense of responsibility and of history running far beyond an awareness of them by the general public.

President Roosevelt's view of himself as chief executive was that of a man with virtually unlimited powers who sought to shape events to conform to his own concept of how historians should treat his administration.

President Truman, a student of history, showed a constant, keen awareness of the role of the presidency in American life and never lost sight of the fact that he was "The President."

President Eisenhower, as others before him, held constantly in mind his own conviction that, while he was the candidate of a political party, he was, first of all, "president of all the people."

So it is with President Kennedy. To Kennedy, steel's price rise was a doublecross, an occurrence that diminished the implied good faith of the President himself when he and his aides persuaded the Steelworkers Union to accept a moderate wage contract settlement.

Kennedy was not concerned with this affront to him personally, but he was greatly concerned over what it did to him in his own concept of the importance, the power and the integrity of the President of the United States.

It was vitally important to Kennedy to do his utmost to make sure that what he considered double dealing should not result in profit to the double dealers. While the effect of his efforts was to roll back the price increase and restore the economic stability he sought, it was also gratifying to Kennedy to maintain unimpaired his own estimate of the office of the President and what it symbolizes.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Art Buchwald tells a story that underlines the skulduggery of fake art dealers in Paris, with rich but unwary Americans their chief victims. One such American fell for the old gag of the masterpiece so valuable that the government wouldn't allow its shipment out of the country. "It's a Titian," whispered the dealer, "a Titian every museum director would give his eye-teeth to possess. There's only one way I can sneak it to America for you. Let my assistant Garachi paint over the Titian. Then, when you get home, have the Garachi wiped off, and voila, you have your priceless Titian."

The delighted American wrote out his check for $200,000, went on to the Riviera, and issued the necessary instructions about the painting to his secretary in New York.

Three weeks later he received this cable from New York: "Have received Garachi and cleaned it. Found Titian. Cleaned Titian. Found Garachi. How far should I go?"

'Apple A Day' Adage Gets Scientific Support

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," received scientific support recently. According to Science News Letter, 1,300 volunteer students at Michigan State University acted as guinea pigs. The daily apple eating students made fewer calls to the health center than any of the others over a three year period. Was it the vitamin C in apples or the tranquilizing effect of chewing down to the core?

A dentist told me several years ago that eating apples is a good substitute for brushing the teeth after eating. It sounds logical, provided all teeth are used in the process. Rinsing the mouth with water immediately after eating also helps to wash away the food particles between the teeth.

We received a letter several months ago from a New Yorker on a comment we made relative to the trouble that followed in the Garden of Eden after Eve at the apple. "Twasn't the apple in the Garden of Eden that caused all the trouble—'twas the 'pair' on the ground wot done it," he wrote.

The vitamin C (ascorbic acid) content of an apple is nothing to brag about when compared to that found in citrus fruits and fresh tomatoes. The raw apple has 5 mg. of ascorbic acid per 100 grams of the fruit as compared with 49 for oranges and 23 for tomatoes.

On the other hand, it is seldom realized that many vegetables in the freshly harvested state contain much more vitamin C than do these fruits.

Comparable amounts of raw fresh green peppers contain 120, guava 302, parsley 193, kale 115, broccoli 118, and mustard greens 102. Much of the vitamin content is lost during storage and processing.

Lettuce (18) and raw spinach (59) have lost most of their vitamin C content after wilting for several days. The vitamin C in root vegetables, tightly packed leaves of cabbage, and hard fruit diminishes more slowly.

The decrease in vitamin C during cooking varies with the method used but in general rarely exceeds 50 per cent of the amount present prior to processing.

Pine needles and green walnuts also are rich in vitamin C. So is an ordinary multiple vitamin capsule, which usually contains more than the daily requirements.

ASTHMATIC BRONCHITIS

G. E. writes: Is there any way to prevent bronchitis from leading to asthma?

REPLY

Yes—by having the bronchitis treated. Avoid all irritants, including smoking, and take care of respiratory infections as soon as they develop. Allergies, if present, should be treated via desensitization. The chances of developing asthma depend to a certain extent upon the progression of bronchitis and additional allergies.

PKU TEST

L. M. writes: How soon after the birth of a baby, born two months prematurely, can the urine test be made for PKU that causes mental retardation?

REPLY

The urine test is not reliable during the first three months unless it is positive. Blood tests are better because they detect phenylketonuria earlier.

SALT WATER GARGLING

D. K. writes: Is plain salt or the iodized type best for gargling?

REPLY

Take your pick. The trace of iodine will not add to or subtract from the value of the gargle. But iodine does mean a lot to the thyroid gland, when taken internally.

BLOATED ABDOMEN

H. B. writes: Could drinking a lot cause the abdomen to blow up with gas?

REPLY

Alcohol is absorbed in the stomach and does not form gas. But it may contribute to the problem by disturbing digestion. Abdominal swelling is not always caused by gas. It may be due to the accumulation of fat and occasionally stems from fluid if the alcoholic has cirrhosis of the liver.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mississippi River One Of Nation's Most Priceless Natura Resources

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter written to his grandson, Drew Arnold, from the Mississippi River aboard the SS Delta Queen.)

April 30, 1962

Dear Drew:

When I was about your age I used to read "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" and wish that someday I could sail down the Mississippi River. Now I am doing what I always wanted to do as a boy and I wish you and your brothers could be with me. Since being in school is much more important, I want to tell you something about this trip.

The first night out of New Orleans we had to tie up, because it was so foggy we could hardly see more than a few yards beyond the bow. So the boat snuggled up to the bank and one of the deck hands threw a Coca-Cola crate tied to a length of rope around a tree. Then he tied the rope to the tree, and we just stayed tied to the tree until the fog lifted.

In other words, the methods of navigation haven't changed much since the days when Mark Twain wrote about the Mississippi.

Up in the pilot house I talked to Capt. Harris Dunn, who is licensed to pilot on both the Ohio and the Mississippi rivers. Of the two, the Mississippi is much more difficult, first because the Ohio has a series of dams which make the current steady; second because the sand bars are constantly shifting in the Mississippi.

In order to become a pilot on the Mississippi, Captain Dunn told me, you have to take 10 trips with another pilot, and after that sit down and take a government exam in which you must name every important island, bend, and point in the river. So you see, when you take difficult exams at school, remember that some of the examinations you have to take when you grow up are even more difficult, and what you are doing in school is just preparing you for the future.

Backbone Of The Nation

I couldn't get near a telephone while I was on the Mississippi, and you know that this is very unusual for your grandfather. So I had a lot of time to think. And one of the things I thought about was the great blessings given the American people by geography.

In fact when you consider what has made us the powerful and progressive nation we are, I would say there are two main reasons. First we have been peculiarly blessed by such geographic factors as the Mississippi. Second we have been blessed by the freedoms pioneered by our British forefathers and by the energy given us by our other European forefathers.

I don't know whether you have studied it in school, but no other country in the world, except possibly China, has such a river as the Mississippi. Russia has the Volga and the Amur and other big rivers, but they drain an area which is too cold and doesn't have much rainfall. Brazil has the Amazon which is bigger than the Mississippi, but it drains an area that is too hot and therefore very difficult to live in. China has the Yangtze, which drains a rich temperate area similar to that of the Mississippi, but the Chinese made the mistake of chopping down all the trees in the Yangtze Valley and over-tilling the fields for thousands of years until China has become poverty stricken.

For some time we did the same thing. We cut down the forests in the hills where the Mississippi rises, and we paid no attention to the washing away of the soil. But now we are doing better. And I think history will show that the turning point for better soil conservation came when President Franklin Roosevelt took the advice of men like Henry Wallace, and Rex Tugwell, and Dr. J. Russell Smith of Columbia, who urged that we save the soil as our most priceless heritage.

The Mississippi, with its tributaries like the Ohio and the Missouri, also taps some of the important coal, iron ore, petroleum and mineral areas of the United States, and they in turn have developed factories and industry richer than those of any other country.

Mississippi Monopoly

This again is the result of nature's generosity. Man didn't put the coal and the oil and the minerals there. Nature did. But we have developed them, sometimes wisely, sometimes wastefully. We made a lot of mistakes. And in the economic competition between ourselves and the Communist world we can't afford mistakes.

In the period around the Civil War, the Mississippi became the great artery of commerce. It was the way the mail was carried, and passengers and hogs and freight.

Then suddenly all this stopped. One reason why it stopped was the pilots' union. The steamboat river pilots organized their Pilots Benevolent Association and required every steamboat to have one of its pilots aboard. If the steamboat owners didn't hire one of the union pilots, the ships couldn't sail, because the pilots would give no information on shifting sand bars and the changing river to anyone who was not a member of their union.

Of course, pilots' wages were too low at first and should have been increased. But then they went to the opposite extreme and became too high.

So this played into the hands of the railroads, which were just developing, and later into the hands of the barge lines. With barges, one small tugboat can carry the freight of several steamboats.

All of this put the old steamboats of Mark Twain's day out of business, which shows that monopoly, whether by unions or U. S. Steel or a big telephone company, doesn't pay if we are going to keep our democratic competitive system going strong.

I hope the SS Delta Queen will be going strong a long time, however, and that you can take a trip with me on her later.

Lots of love,
Your Grandfather

It's not a good time for the little man and certainly not for the little business man. He was out of uniform two-and-a-half years, and then Korea came along and he was back in uniform again for three-and-a-half years, spotting enemy fire in his Piper Cub. Again he was mustered out. By now he was 38 years old, pretty late to be getting started. However, he and his partner, Al Trachentenberg, borrowed $10,000 to go into the delicatessen business.

The delicatessen has done all right, but the partners still owe $1,200 on the loan. They figure the delicatessen is worth $30,000 to $40,000, considering the good will, the location, and so forth. They have a ten-year lease with eight years to run which, of course, will be voided when the area is condemned. They will be compensated only for what improvements they have made to the delicatessen that can't be carried away, such as an air duct built right into the building. The top compensation will not exceed $3,000 and the partners doubt they'd get that. Split between two that's $1,500. And they'd be out in the street.

"This will be my third start in life," says Ray, a quiet, decent chap with ten decorations from his government for his service in two wars. "I'm 46. But it's almost a sin to be 46. I know nothing else. I want nothing out of this but a fair shake."

The 1,600 tradesmen sent a delegation to Albany to protest the bill condemning the area. Said Ray: "We knocked on doors. No legislator wanted to speak to us. We gave a party for legislators. Nobody came. There have been no hearings for us to protest before." He shrugged helplessly. "We feel that somehow, somewhere, this is a flagrant violation of our rights."

Ray estimates that the 1,600 small merchants and their employes amount to perhaps 30,000 people. Figuring conservatively, if each man is responsible for the livelihood of three others besides himself, that means that approximately 120,000 people are affected. "This is about the same number of people who live in the whole city of Evansville, Indiana. Suddenly the livelihood of all of them is wiped out."

Of course, this sort of thing has happened before but never on such a scale. The Port Authority's invasion of this large and old area is the most dramatic example yet of the effects of this population explosion on a city. Suddenly, 1,600 merchants are out of business with almost no compensation, all in the name of progress. The merchants are not against progress, but they feel strongly, and so do I, that progress has got to take into account the amount of misery that is being inflicted on that many people.

Of course, Port Authority is a massive organization and this particular venture has the blessing of David Rockefeller, president of the Chase-Manhattan Bank, and the bill was signed by his brother Gov. Rockefeller—all of which represents a massive use of power and sovereign right and all that. Just the same the question arises: What public purpose is so great that the livelihoods of 1,600 merchants which are enough merchants to staff a very large city can be sacrificed for it?

Most of these "little schnooks" are living on day-to-day receipts to pay the notes on the future. They couldn't afford to be closed even for a week to be moved. There have been vague proposals to give the merchants first option on moving into the new trade center. But most of them would be long out of business before it would be built.

Local Eagles Will Honor Veteran Members Sunday

Cumberland Aerie 245, FO Eagles, will honor several veteran members during its annual Mothers Day celebration Sunday, May 13.

Herman L. Myers, financial secretary, said several 40, 50 and one 60-year members will be honored.

John Wichertsheim, who was initiated on December 10, 1902, will receive a 60-year pin.

Fifty-year pins will be presented to James E. Smith, January 9, 1912; Herbert R. O'Neal, February 13, 1912; John A. Rice, February 13, 1912; Marvin L. Rice, February 13, 1912; William C. Reichert, December 12, 1912, and Frank C. McKnight, December 28, 1912.

Forty-year awards will be presented to Joseph Helker, who joined the local Aerie on January 24, 1922, and John P. Tole, who was initiated October 10, 1922.

Myers, who is a member of the Grand Aerie board of pension trustee, will represent the Grand Aerie at the celebration and present the pins to the veterans.

Paper Production

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ratio of the nation's paper production to mill capacity for the week ending April 21 was 93.7 per cent compared with 94.3 per cent in the previous week and 92.2 per cent in the similar 1961 period, the American Paper and Pulp Association reported.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 121 A visitor from England in the late 1860s complained that it had become difficult in New York to distinguish the banker's wife from the clerk's wife from their dress. If he had wanted to he could have found that fashion had been made more democratic than ever before through the production of wearing apparel promoted by the development of practical sewing machines and huge orders for uniforms for Union soldiers and sailors, 1861-65. The effects in the clothing industry were as revolutionary as those in the shoemaking business referred to in a preceding instalment in this series.

In earlier days in America, as in the Old World, virtually all garments were made at home by custom tailors and dressmakers. That was true, too, of military uniforms. The ready-to-wear trade sprang up first through the outfitting of sailors for long voyages in different climates, and the resale of reconditioned garments which were collected and shipped from the larger ports to frontier outposts or such places as the California gold fields.

The sewing machine for garments, on which the first U.S.A. patent was issued in 1842, was slow in being developed and had only begun to be used in factories when the Civil War began. With the drafting of many tailors, and the greater demand for clothing, garment factories were forced to install machines and production-line methods.

Men's overcoats were the first garments to break prejudice against ready-mades, but women were quick to take products which enabled them to dress like women in New York or Paris.

City's Cleanup Project Ends Today

Cumberland's cleanup project has been very successful thus far, according to Street Commissioner Joh J. Long.

The final day of the project will be today, when the entire West Side area will be serviced, and Commisioner Long said if the project proceeds as smoothly as it has so far there will be but few calls on Friday — reserved for complaints and streets possibly missed.

A spokesman at the Street Department warehouse said he could not recall when so few complaints have been received during a clean-up campaign. Several were called in Tuesday from residents on streets between Bedford and Frederick, but it was explained that the work day was completed by the city crews before that area could be serviced.

Commissioner Long again reminds residents that his crews will pick up all containers with trash, and that garbage cans should not be used unless the owners wish to dispose of them also. The commissioner also asked that residents tie papers, brush, etc., securely so as to make the pickup work easier.

Other than that, Commissioner Long continued, there are virtually no rules since the aim of the project is to make Cumberland cleaner and safer.

The city campaign is being held in cooperation with an "Operation Facelift" that is being conducted on a year-around basis by the Cumberland Rotary Club.

Unions Lose 500,000

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's labor unions lost 500,000 members between 1956 and 1961, it was reported Wednesday.

The national industrial conference board said a study of union membership showed that a period of decreasing gains in membership begun in 1945 had developed into a period of actual membership losses a decade later.

Unions hit their peak membership of 17.5 million in 1956 and slipped to 17 million by the beginning of 1961, the board said.

Reservists To Walk

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gen. Herbert B. Powell, head of the Continental Army Command, said Wednesday a shortage of vehicles will mean some Army reservists will be walking this summer instead of riding.

Powell told a conference of National Guard commanders that it would be a "lean" summer for reservists and guardsmen in training camps. He said a number of equipment shortages had not been rectified.

Report Shows W.Va. Suicides On Increase

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Health Department reported Wednesday that the rate of suicide in West Virginia seems to be on the upswing but noted that many could be prevented if the danger signals are recognized.

"Studies by the U. S. Public Health Service indicate that most would-be suicide victims talk about taking their own lives before actually making an attempt," Health Director N. H. Dyer and Paul Shanks, director of the division of vital statistics said.

"They also may make plans for their death such as drawing up of wills and may lose interest in social contacts, hobbies or interests," they said. "Any person showing such symptoms should not be taken lightly. Also, most suicide cases do not have a 100 per cent intent to kill themselves. They may be gambling with death, hoping someone will save them at the last minute."

A total of 249 West Virginians took their own lives during 1960, the latest year for which complete data is available. This is an increase of 30 per cent from the 192 suicides recorded in 1959.

Dyer and Shanks noted in an article written for the West Virginia Medical Journal that suicides for the first time became one of the 10 leading causes of death in the state, ranking eighth.

During 1960, five counties failed to report a suicide. They were Barbour, Calhoun, Pleasants, Ritchie and Webster.

Kanawha County, with the largest population, recorded 3 suicides. Next in order (with rank by population in parentheses) were: Raleigh 16 (5), Fayette 14 (10), Cabell 12 (2), Harrison 12 (4), McDowell 10 (6), Mercer 9 (8), Marion 7 (9) Wood 5 (3% AND Ohio 4 (7).

Firearms or explosives were used in 173 of the suicides while there were 32 hangings or strangulations, 17 poisonings of all forms, 8 drownings, 8 by cutting or piercing instruments and seven by jumping from high places.

The 1960 statistics reveal that the largest number of suicides occurred between the ages of 50-59.

The article said this is "the age group in which these people should have reached the height of their most productive years. New employment opportunities in this age bracket are few, however."

A total of 62 suicides involved persons aged 50-59 followed by 42 in the 30-39 age bracket.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

During Easter Week the House of Representatives was in recess. Many congressmen returned to their home districts and I enjoyed the opportunity to travel around the Sixth Congressional District talking to many friends and discussing legislative matters. On Easter Monday, however, I took my wife Ann and son Charlie to the towpath of the C & O Canal near Point of Rocks. It was one of those sparkling spring days with the sky blue overhead, the Potomac River running clear and the banks of the river and the Canal full of wild spring flowers.

On such a day and in such peaceful surroundings it was nearly impossible to believe that on the other side of the world, at an improbable island named "Christmas," Americans were preparing for a series of nuclear bomb tests. In that peacefull and very countryside it seemed incredible that this nation should be thinking in terms of weapons of destruction. And yet such was, unfortunately, the case.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk put the matter very well in a press conference last week. The Secretary told the newsmen that the United States regrets "not the decision" to make the tests now underway but "the necessity for the decision." I think that states the matter fairly. The American people are resigned to the necessity for going ahead with nuclear testing. They know the price of the tests, but they also know the much higher price of the alternative failure to test.

President Kennedy undoubtedly had a very hard decision to make in giving the order to start the new series of American Nuclear Tests. He must have been aware of the opposition in many parts of the world to this course of action and he must have been equally aware of the fact that there is some risk to all of mankind as a result of the tests. On the other hand, he has a constitutional duty to discharge as Commander-In-Chief of the Armed Forces. I personally do not see how he could have discharged that duty and complied with his oath of office had he done otherwise than ordered the tests to proceed. By the same token the Constitution charges the Congress with providing for the "common defense." In meeting this responsibility I believe that most members of Congress will feel that it is necessary to support the President in his decision.

In conducting our test series we are not doing so in utter disregard of our own future or of the rights of men of all nations in all parts of the globe. Rather, we are asking our own people and the rest of the world to take certain risks with us in order to preserve freedom.

I honestly believe that if it was not for American strength there would be no free world to defend today. I am equally sure that unless we remain strong for the immediate future we may lose all that we have defended thus far. The very fact that I am a Congressman reporting to you is made possible by the ability of the United States to defend itself, its people and our governmental system.

I have seen what atomic war can do to modern cities. I think I share with my fellow Americans the sense of moral responsibility for our actions today. While I regret the necessity for the decision to resume nuclear testing, I do not doubt that it was truly necessary and I hope that the tests will be conducted speedily and successfully.

Sacred Heart Gets Equipment From CUF

Area residents who visit Sacred Heart Hospital during open house next Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m. will see two pieces of equipment, valued at $4,983, which has been presented to the hospital by the Health Research and Services Foundation of County United Fund.

The two pieces of equipment are a Sanchez-Perez Automatic Seriograph and and Amplatz Automatic Injector that can be used for cerebral angiography, angiocardiography, kidney aniography, pulmonary agniography, and in the study of other circulatory processes, including those of the extremities.

In presenting the equipment to Sacred Heart, Dr. Donald B. Grove, president of the CUF health foundation, said that it is a gift of more than 20,000 United Givers to all of the people of the tri-state area. "It gives me great pleasure to make this presentation on behalf of the generous contributors to County United Fund," he said, "and to have the equipment available at Sacred Heart for the free use of all area residents."

Sister Mary Richard, Sacred Heart administrator, accepted the equipment on behalf of the hospital administration and medical staff. "This means," she said, "that many patients who heretofore had to be sent to Baltimore, Washington or Pittsburgh for treatment, can now be given immediate attention in their home area. We are grateful, and we feel that the people of the Tri-State region are indebted to County United Fund and the wonderful people who support it for this major advance in patient care."

The Seriograph, used in conjunction with standard X-ray equipment, will automatically take up to 12 X-rays at preselected interval speeds of one-half to over two seconds. Used with the Amplatz Injector, which injects opaque media into the circulatory system at high speeds it will make possible brain, nerve, heart, lung, kidney and other difficult surgery at the local hospital.

Sister Mary Richard pointed out that the CUF foundation has previously presented a $2,650 cardioscope to Sacred Heart for the free use of area residents, and that it also supports the Allegany-Garrett Poison Control Center located at Sacred Heart, which is a major factor in the prevention and treatment of poisonings in this area.

Having served in 12 other hospitals before coming to Sacred Heart, the administrator said: "I have never seen such direct, dedicated support of health service as that shown by the people of Allegany and Mineral counties, and all of these wonderful people can be assured that we shall render the best possible service in return for the trust that has been placed in us."

In addition to Dr. Grove, the other officers of the CUF foundation are J. Kenna Burke, vice-president; Roy T. Satzer, secretary; Winfield H. Adam, assistant secretary; Dr. W. Royce Hodges, treasurer; and William R. Carscaden, assistant treasurer.

Dr. Hodges is also chairman of the foundation's research committee; Mrs. George M. Young is chairman of the direct services committee; and Ralph R. Webster heads the health education committee.

Bond Drive Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Kennedy Tuesday urged his fellow citizens to buy at least one extra U.S. savings bond during the next 60 days.

The President issued a statement kicking off the May-June freedom savings bond drive, marking the 21st anniversary of the Series E bond.

Defense Cost Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Department said Tuesday that U.S. military spending in March totaled $4.3 billion, one of the largest monthly totals since the Korean War.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

During Easter Week the House of Representatives was in recess. Many congressmen returned to their home districts and I enjoyed the opportunity to travel around the Sixth Congressional District talking to many friends and discussing legislative matters. On Easter Monday, however, I took my wife Ann and son Charlie to the towpath of the C & O Canal near Point of Rocks. It was one of those sparkling spring days with the sky blue overhead, the Potomac River running clear and the banks of the river and the Canal full of wild spring flowers.

On such a day and in such peaceful surroundings it was nearly impossible to believe that on the other side of the world, at an improbable island named "Christmas," Americans were preparing for a series of nuclear bomb tests. In that peacefull and very countryside it seemed incredible that this nation should be thinking in terms of weapons of destruction. And yet such was, unfortunately, the case.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk put the matter very well in a press conference last week. The Secretary told the newsmen that the United States regrets "not the decision" to make the tests now underway but "the necessity for the decision." I think that states the matter fairly. The American people are resigned to the necessity for going ahead with nuclear testing. They know the price of the tests, but they also know the much higher price of the alternative failure to test.

President Kennedy undoubtedly had a very hard decision to make in giving the order to start the new series of American Nuclear Tests. He must have been aware of the opposition in many parts of the world to this course of action and he must have been equally aware of the fact that there is some risk to all of mankind as a result of the tests. On the other hand, he has a constitutional duty to discharge as Commander-In-Chief of the Armed Forces. I personally do not see how he could have discharged that duty and complied with his oath of office had he done otherwise than ordered the tests to proceed. By the same token the Constitution charges the Congress with providing for the "common defense." In meeting this responsibility I believe that most members of Congress will feel that it is necessary to support the President in his decision.

In conducting our test series we are not doing so in utter disregard of our own future or of the rights of men of all nations in all parts of the globe. Rather, we are asking our own people and the rest of the world to take certain risks with us in order to preserve freedom.

I honestly believe that if it was not for American strength there would be no free world to defend today. I am equally sure that unless we remain strong for the immediate future we may lose all that we have defended thus far. The very fact that I am a Congressman reporting to you is made possible by the ability of the United States to defend itself, its people and our governmental system.

I have seen what atomic war can do to modern cities. I think I share with my fellow Americans the sense of moral responsibility for our actions today. While I regret the necessity for the decision to resume nuclear testing, I do not doubt that it was truly necessary and I hope that the tests will be conducted speedily and successfully.

Piedmont Man Indicted In Knifing

KEYSER — John J. Gentile, 46, of 14 East Fairview Street, Piedmont, was indicted by the grand jury of Mineral County Circuit Court Tuesday on a charge of murder in the knife slaying of his brother-in-law, Ralph Lepley, also 46.

Gentile's indictment was one of 16 returned by the grand jury yesterday. Thirteen were returned for felonies and three for misdemeanors.

The court was in recess yesterday, and will reconvene today to set the trial docket.

Murder charges were placed against Gentile after Lepley died of a knife-stab wound in the abdomen on St. Patrick's Day, March 17. The fatal wound, according to Mineral County authorities, was inflicted during a scuffle at the victim's East Fairview Street home.

Lepley, who was employed as a pipefitter by Celanese Fibers Company at its Amcelle plant, was pronounced dead on arrival at Potomac Valley Hospital here.

Among Tuesday's indictments were six on check forgery counts. Indicted for bogus check writing were Regina Sherwood Newlin, Anna L. Ferguson, Kenneth Huffman, Albert Guertin (alias Maurice Albert Moore), Jame. Leroy Benjamin, and Ernes' Lancaster Kline.

Three were indicted for the theft of $360 worth of copper wire from West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. They are Arthur Floyd Trenter, Lloyd Allen (Red) Taylor, and Roger Evans.

Charles Junior Crawford was indicted on two charges of automobile theft, and Johnson L. Gurganus Jr. was indicted for allegedly setting fire to his own automobile.

Two juveniles, Terry Russell Kooken and James Ronald Pyles, were indicted for theft of hubcaps, valued at $52, from the automobile of Frank W. Spoerl, of Cumberland.

The grand jury also indicted Dyer Whetzel, charged with malicious assault on Roger C. Halbritter, and Robert Allen McNemar, who is charged with failing to fulfill terms of a conditional sale.

Indictments for misdemeanors were returned against Delmore G. Bowman, child neglect, and Oliver Junior Landis and Lawrence Leaman Lewis, both of whom have been charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of alcohol.

For a long time we've known the secret of how to offer customers real cash savings (that's one reason, year after year, A&P has been more popular with the thrifty). And we felt that there must be a way to give trading stamps along with cash savings, too. What was needed was a really worthwhile stamp plan coupled with our low-price policy (providing customers plenty of cash-saving opportunities). That was the secret — and it's exactly what A&P offered. The result — an immediate success! Folks have really been flocking in for those BIG A&P VALUES and VALUABLE PLAID STAMPS. Remember, Plaid Stamps offer one of the greatest gift selections ever—over 3,000 items! So change to shopping at A&P!

Mobile Homes Hearing Set At Court House

A public hearing to amend Allegany County's interim zoning ordinance insofar as it applies to mobile homes on farms and for seasonal use will be held by the County Board of Commissioners at 7:30 p. m. today at the Court House.

The County Planning and Zoning Commission has recommended to the county commissioners two additions to Section 9 of the interim zoning ordinance. One would permit mobile homes on farms without restrictions except those imposed by the Health Department and with the single stipulation that any mobile home be located at least 400 feet away from any permanent dwelling on adjacent property. The second provides similar rules for mobile homes, trailer homes, tents or camps used only seasonally.

An addition to Section II also will be considered tonight. Temporary buildings necessary in conjunction with construction would be permitted under this addition during the period of the construction to the limit of two years.

Knox Endorses Harry Simms

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore Republican, Augustus D. Knox, has endorsed Harry L. Simms for the nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Knox is secretary of the Baltimore City Republican Committee and chairman of the 6th District of the Republican Party.

"I sincerely believe," Knox said, "that he's the man for the people of Maryland and will do a job for all the people. . .I feel Harry Simms is the outstanding 1962 Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate."

Woman's Body Is Recovered

The body of Ellen Cook, 26-year-old junior high school art teacher from Pittsburgh who drowned April 22 in Cheat River near Kingwood, W. Va., was recovered yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Ralph N. Brown said the victim's body was first spotted a bout 3:15 p. m. as it came to the surface six-tenths of a mile downstream from the place where she drowned after a canoe in which she was riding capsized.

The body was taken to the Browning Funeral Home in Kingwood, where Acting Coroner F. W. Pritt ruled her death an accidental drowning.

Workmen of the B&O Railroad which runs along the river removed the body from the water at 5:05 p. m. and it was taken by railroad motor car about two miles to a waiting ambulance.

When Army officials at nearby Camp Dawson learned Miss Cook's body had been recovered a helicopter was dispatched to the river to search for the body of Pfc. Bernard T. Barrett, 19, of Meiga, Ga., stationed at the camp, who drowned while trying to rescue Miss Cook.

Moore To Head Lions Club

J. Thomas Moore was elected president of the Cumberland Lions Club at its regular luncheon meeting yesterday. He will succeed Michael Beerman when the new officers take over on July 1.

Charles A. Wilt was elected first vice president; William A. Cook, second vice president; James E. McGarrah, third vice president; J. Goodloe Jackson, secretary; Harry A. Smith Jr., treasurer; Robert G. Zimmer, Lion tamer, and John F. Vandergrift, tail twister.

James H. Garland and Frank W. Spoerl were elected directors. J. Paul Fisher and Robert W. Moreland are holdover directors. Albert E. Windish as chairman of the nominating committee.

The club's next meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Central YMCA.

Gleason To Be Host At 'Open House'

James P. Gleason, a Silver Spring attorney who is a Republican candidate for U. S. Senator, will continue his tour of this section today.

Mr. Gleason will be host at an "open house" today at 9 p. m. in the lounge at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club following the dinner meeting there of the Republican Women's Club.

House Of Delegates

secretary, the delegates must use the services of a secretarial pool provided in Annapolis.

Besides attending the sessions of the General Assembly, the delegates also must spend a good deal of time on committees which study all bills before they are brought to the floor for a vote. On bills of a local or county nature, each county delegation sits as a committee to study the bill and a majority is needed before a favorable report can be given on a bill in committee.

Duties of the delegates do not end with the closing of the session of the General Assembly each year. While back in their respective counties the delegates must meet with their constituents, governmental officials and other groups on matters of legislation which is of interest to them.

The Candidates

Republican candidates for the House of Delegates from Allegany County are Fred H. Anderson, Cumberland; J. Glenn Beall Jr., Frostburg; Robert A. Clise, Midland; Noel Speir Cook, Frostburg; Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland; Edward T. Evans Jr., Cumberland; Robert Lee Jeffrey, Lonaconing; Estel C. Kelley, Cumberland; Kenneth G. Morgan, Klondike; Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage; Charles M. See, Cumberland, and David J. Williams, Midland.

Democratic candidates are Irvin C. Alexander, Lonaconing; George A. Boch, Cumberland; Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Cumberland; John R. Hutzell, Mt. Savage; James S. Stafford, Cumberland, and George D. Walters, Eckhart.

Society Will Stress Be Kind To Animals Week

Plans for the local observance of Be Kind to Animals Week starting Sunday are being completed by the Animal Welfare Society of Allegany County.

Girl Scouts of the Shawnee Council will assist by placing posters in stores, churches, branches of the County Library and by exhibiting projects to define animal care.

Boy Scouts of the Potomac Council will help in the observance by placing posters in Central YMCA, City Hall, police stations, fire stations, pool rooms, bowling alleys and stores.

Theodore P. Foote, supervisor of art education in the county public schools, will emphasize the special week in art exhibits in the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center and in the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce window at Baltimore and Liberty streets.

During the week Mrs. W. Earle Cobey and Mrs. J. Edgar MacMannis, members of the society's education committee, will visit public schools of the county urging principals, teachers and parents to stress kindness to animals as an effort to help stamp out juvenile delinquency.

At the society's last meeting it was voted to send a letter of thanks to the Mayor and City Council for adoption of the ordinance prohibiting the sale of living baby chicks, rabbits, ducklings or other fowl under two months of age. The ordinance was explained by members of the legislative committee, which includes Mrs. F. Y. Borden, Mrs. Cobey and George M. Young.

One cruelty investigation was reported upon but was dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

Dr. Cameron Resigns Post In Washington Co.

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, public health officer of Washington County and former acting public health officer of Allegany County, submitted his resignation Tuesday to the Washington County Board of Commissioners.

Dr. Cameron served as acting health officer for several months in Allegany County and resigned in December 1961.

The health officer announced he will join the State Board of Health in Florida on July 1 to do research work.

He had served in Washington County for over 25 years and during the past 10 years gained attention through his cancer and other research projects.

Paid For Suggestion

W. E. Crooks, plant manager at Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company, presented checks totaling $1,000 to William Biddington and Earl Twigg for a suggestion they submitted through the Celanese suggestion system.

Week's Food Economies

Market offerings lend themselves to the preparation of meals with variety of seasonal foods, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

At the produce counter there is a wide choice. Maryland greens are at their peak, with quality good and prices attractive. Choose cooking greens from this list; of spinach, collards, cabbage sprouts, kale and turnip tops. The green leafy vegetables are excellent for Vitamin A and should be included in the diet at least every other day.

When you are making spring salads include nearby green onions.

Local rhubarb is on the market. Botanically rhubarb is classed as a vegetable but it has long been regarded by homemakers as a fruit. Rhubarb lends a variety to meals when it is served as stewed sauce, shortcake, sherbet, rhubarb crisp, or pie.

New Jersey and some Maryland asparagus is on the market. These crops are just starting and the supply will be increasing. Now is the time to secure a supply of asparagus for freezing as the local crop reaches quality peaks.

Cabbage is lower in cost. Tomatoes from Florida are among the best buys in salad vegetables. California broccoli is attractively priced. White potatoes are low in cost.

Grapefriut is the best fresh citrus buy. Frozen orange juice is lower in cost.

The fish department offers low-cost-per-serving items. Porgies and rockfish are two whole fish recommended. Porgies are best pan-fried as a whole or split fish. Rock is available in pan size or larger for baking. Sea scallops are in heavy supply and low in cost per serving. Fish contains complete protein which can be used alternately with meat for the main course.

Liver Can Be Popular

The homemaker who is concerned about the nutritional value as well as the taste appeal of the meals she serves, plans to include liver regularly in her menus.

Liver is an excellent source of iron, which helps to form hemoglobin, for good red blood. It is also a source of other essential food nutrients.

Children and teen-agers especially need this highly nutritious food but sometimes they need a bit of persuasion in the form of a new way of serving liver or a different combination of flavors.

It isn't enough to say, "Eat liver because it is good for you." It is better to find a way of serving it which calls for seconds.

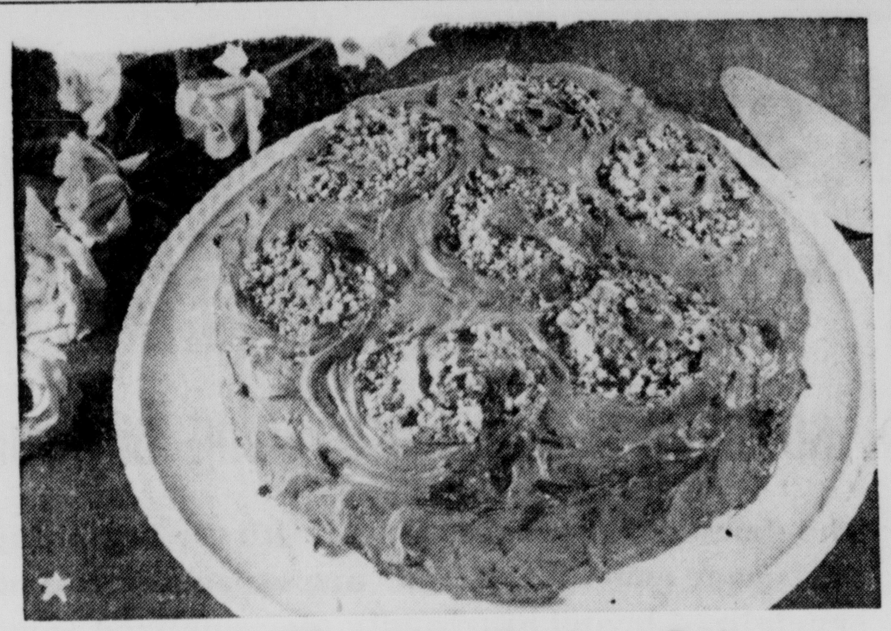
A food expert has a suggestion for a different way of serving liver. It is to bake ground liver in individual loaves. She also suggests, for a tempting flavor, that pork sausage be combined with the liver. Try this recipe, and see if it doesn't become a favorite with your family.

Beef liver is used in this dish. It is lightly browned to make grinding easier.

Individual Liver Loaves

1 pound beef liver, sliced ½ inch thick
2 tablespoons lard
1 pound pork sausage
½ cup minced onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk

Cook liver in lard until very lightly browned on each side, about 5 minutes. Grind liver and combine with pork sausage. Combine onion, eggs, nutmeg, salt, bread crumbs and milk, and add to meat mixture. Mix well. Pack in 8 greased 6½-ounce custard cups, filling each approximately ⅔ full. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 to 45 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 loaves.



Double Fudge Cake

Are you a chocolate fancier . . . a chocolate pie, a chocolate pudding, chocolate souffle, chocolate sundae eater? Then this double fudge cake is for you.

The shortening used in this cake recipe is lard. It results in a fine textured, feathery-light cake. Lard is easy to use at any temperature, even when just taken from the refrigerator; therefore it can be creamed easily with sugar, an important step in successful cake making.

Lard also helps to keep cakes moist and fresh for a longer period. But you won't have to worry about that with a cake as tempting as this.

The first step in making this cake is to line two 8-inch cake pans with a double thickness of waxed paper. To prepare the cake batter, grate 3 ounces of unsweetened chocolate in a saucepan. Add ¾ cup boiling water and bring the mixture to a boil. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Set aside to cool.

Sift together 2 cups sifted cake flour, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon baking powder and ¾ teaspoon salt. Cream together ½ cup lard and 1½ cups sugar until light and fluffy. Add 2 eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with ⅓ cup sour milk, mixing thoroughly after each addition.

Stir in the cooled chocolate mixture and add 1 teaspoon vanilla, blending well. Pour batter into cake pans and bake in a moderate over (350 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Cool and frost with Fudge Frosting.

To make the Fudge Frosting, grate 2 ounces of unsweetened chocolate into a saucepan and add 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup milk, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon corn sirup and ¼ teaspoon salt, mixing well. Bring to a boil and cook 2 minutes. Cool and beat until the mixture begins to thicken. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread the frosting between layers and on the cake. Swirl ¼ cup chopped nuts into frosting over top of the cake.

Homemade Biscuit Mix

You can make your own biscuit mix to keep in the refrigerator for quick biscuits, muffins or gems. Recommended proportions are 8 cups sifted enriched flour, ¼ cup baking powder, 4 teaspoons salt, 1 cup lard for soft wheat flour or 1½ cups lard for hard wheat flour. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in lard until mixture has a fine even crumb. Cover closely and keep in refrigerator until needed. It may be kept at least a month.

Weight Watchers

Counting calories is not the only consideration in weight reduction. It is important that while losing weight you eat meals which supply needed protein, vitamins and minerals. This is the reason safe reduction diets include a good supply of meat. The meat should be lean, with outer, visible fat removed.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans spend nearly twice as much for recreation, alcoholic beverages, and tobacco as they do for medical care, the Health Insurance Institute reports.

Of every 100 cents John and Jane Doe spend, more than 11 cents go for the combined costs of recreation, alcohol soaks up three cents and tobacco inhales 2.3 cents, the Institute said. Medical care corners 5.9 cents.

Congressional Viewpoint
by Sen. John M. Butler

President Kennedy's order to resume nuclear testing was necessary to preserve the security of the United States and of the Free World. In the face of the Soviet refusal to agree to effective, on-site inspections and controls and with the knowledge of the formidable strides made by the Soviets in their tests last year, the President had no real choice but to give the order to go ahead with testing.

Those who have argued and demonstrated against the resumption of nuclear testing will one day perceive the wisdom of the decision, which can be criticized, perhaps, because it was so late in coming. In January, 1960, for example, I called for immediate underground nuclear testing, stressing that we could not continue to give the Soviets an advantage by not developing our atomic knowledge. Some 18 months later the Soviets resumed atmospheric testing (and may have conducted underground tests before that), but the U.S. delayed any action until it became abundantly obvious that the Soviets did not want to negotiate an equitable treaty.

It is expected that approximately 35 nuclear tests will be made in the American series, which will last two to three months. During this period there will certainly be emotional demonstrations in front of American embassies overseas, protesting petitions presented and vitriolic letters to the editor written. However, I suspect that there will be no widespread denunciation of U.S. testing outside the Soviet bloc because the people realize, better than some leaders, how important American strength is in the Cold War.

It may be that the U.S. series of tests will be followed by a Soviet series with an ensuing demand for disarmament and a permanent end to nuclear tests. At that time we should keep the following in mind: disarmament will not produce peace because the knowledge of how to build a bomb or a tank or produce a gas will remain. In a disarmed world, the first nation to arm again will reign supreme.

Therefore, the problem is not one of destroying arms but of eliminating the cause of arms — that is, the Communist goal of controlling the world. The Soviets must be forced to cease their revolutionary operations and to adjust to the reality of a strong, Free World determined to remain both strong and free. The next disarmament conference, then, should concern itself not with arms but with the Soviet hands that hold and will use arms if given the opportunity.

Week's Food Economies

Market offerings lend themselves to the preparation of meals with variety of seasonal foods, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

At the produce counter there is a wide choice. Maryland greens are at their peak, with quality good and prices attractive. Choose cooking greens from this list: of spinach, collards, cabbage sprouts, kale and turnip tops. The green leafy vegetables are excellent for Vitamin A and should be included in the diet at least every other day.

When you are making spring salads include nearby green onions.

Local rhubarb is on the market. Botanically rhubarb is classed as a vegetable but it has long been regarded by homemakers as a fruit. Rhubarb lends a variety to meals when it is served as stewed sauce, shortcake, sherbet, rhubarb crisp, or pie.

New Jersey and some Maryland asparagus is on the market. These crops are just starting and the supply will be increasing. Now is the time to secure a supply of asparagus for freezing as the local crop reaches quality peaks.

Cabbage is lower in cost. Tomatoes from Florida are among the best buys in salad vegetables. California broccoli is attractively priced. White potatoes are low in cost.

Grapefriut is the best fresh citrus buy. Frozen orange juice is lower in cost.

The fish department offers low-cost-per-serving items. Porgies and rockfish are two whole fish recommended. Porgies are best pan-fried as a whole or split fish. Rock is available in pan size or larger for baking. Sea scallops are in heavy supply and low in cost per serving. Fish contains complete protein which can be used alternately with meat for the main course.

Liver Can Be Popular

The homemaker who is concerned about the nutritional value as well as the taste appeal of the meals she serves, plans to include liver regularly in her menus.

Liver is an excellent source of iron, which helps to form hemoglobin, for good red blood. It is also a source of other essential food nutrients.

Children and teen-agers especially need this highly nutritious food but sometimes they need a bit of persuasion in the form of a new way of serving liver or a different combination of flavors.

It isn't enough to say, "Eat liver because it is good for you." It is better to find a way of serving it which calls for seconds.

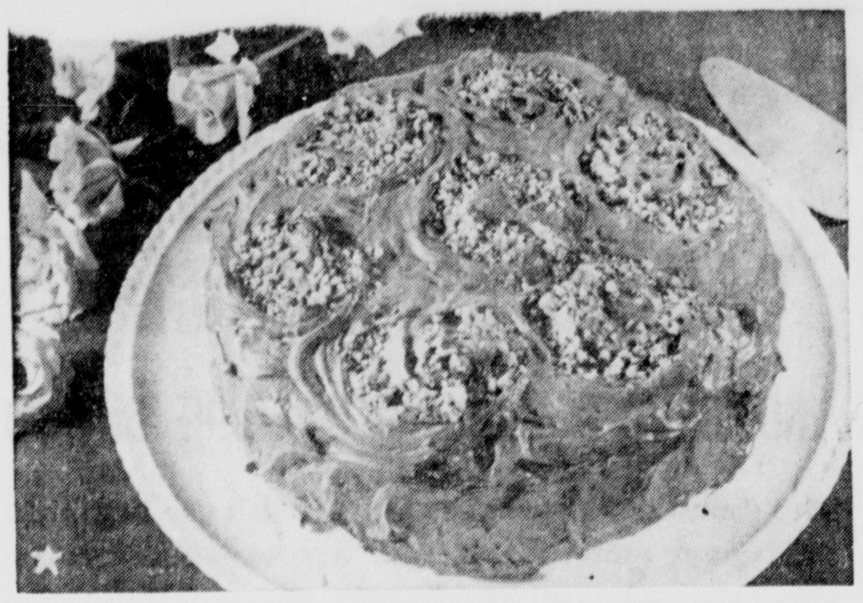
A food expert has a suggestion for a different way of serving liver. It is to bake ground liver in individual loaves. She also suggests, for a tempting flavor, that pork sausage be combined with the liver. Try this recipe, and see if it doesn't become a favorite with your family.

Beef liver is used in this dish. It is lightly browned to make grinding easier.

Individual Liver Loaves

1 pound beef liver, sliced ½ inch thick
2 tablespoons lard
1 pound pork sausage
½ cup minced onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk

Cook liver in lard until very lightly browned on each side, about 5 minutes. Grind liver and combine with pork sausage. Combine onion, eggs, nutmeg, salt, bread crumbs and milk, and add to meat mixture. Mix well. Pack in 8 greased 6½-ounce custard cups, filling each approximately ⅔ full. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 to 45 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 loaves.



Double Fudge Cake

Are you a chocolate fancier . . . a chocolate pie, a chocolate pudding, chocolate souffle, chocolate sundae eater? Then this double fudge cake is for you.

The shortening used in this cake recipe is lard. It results in a fine textured, feathery-light cake. Lard is easy to use at any temperature, even when just taken from the refrigerator; therefore it can be creamed easily with sugar, an important step in successful cake making.

Lard also helps to keep cakes moist and fresh for a longer period. But you won't have to worry about that with a cake as tempting as this.

The first step in making this cake is to line two 8-inch cake pans with a double thickness of waxed paper. To prepare the cake batter, grate 3 ounces of unsweetened chocolate in a saucepan. Add ¾ cup boiling water and bring the mixture to a boil. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Set aside to cool.

Sift together 2 cups sifted cake flour, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon baking powder and ¾ teaspoon salt. Cream together ½ cup lard and 1½ cups sugar until light and fluffy. Add 2 eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture alternately with ⅓ cup sour milk, mixing thoroughly after each addition.

Stir in the cooled chocolate mixture and add 1 teaspoon vanilla, blending well. Pour batter into cake pans and bake in a moderate over (350 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Cool and frost with Fudge Frosting.

To make the Fudge Frosting, grate 2 ounces of unsweetened chocolate into a saucepan and add 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup milk, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon corn sirup and ¼ teaspoon salt, mixing well. Bring to a boil and cook 2 minutes. Cool and beat until the mixture begins to thicken. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread the frosting between layers and on the cake. Swirl ¼ cup chopped nuts into frosting over top of the cake.

Weight Watchers

Counting calories is not the only consideration in weight reduction. It is important that while losing weight you eat meals which supply needed protein, vitamins and minerals. This is the reason safe reduction diets include a good supply of meat. The meat should be lean, with outer, visible fat removed.

Grape Sauce For Lamb

A tasty sauce especially good with lamb roast or lamb chops is made by adding 1 teaspoon lemon rind and 1 teaspoon lemon juice to 1 cup of grape jelly and heating the mixture, stirring constantly, until the jelly melts. Two or three tablespoons slivered toasted almonds may be sprinkled over the top for added goodness.

CHEESE IT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dark cherry cottage salad is pretty as a picture. Arrange 2 cups of cream-style cottage cheese in mounds on crisp lettuce. Drain 1 (1 pound) can of pitted dark sweet cherries, reserving syrup to serve over prepared vanilla pudding at a later meal. Arrange cherries around cheese. Top cheese with 1-3 cup of mayonnaise thinned with 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons of pecan halves over mayonnaise. Serves 4.

Cheese Adds Zest To Lamb Chops

Lamb chops are favorites as party fare and hostesses are always looking for new ways to serve them. Various delicious combinations of lamb chops and vegetables or fruits have been featured, for the delicate flavor of lamb blends well with other foods.

For something quite unusual, try a combination of lamb and Roquefort cheese.

A satisfying menu to accompany broiled lamb chops includes buttered noodles, peas, watercress salad, and mint sherbet.

Incidentally, lamb chops are not for guests alone. The family will also appreciate their goodness.

Lamb Chops—Roquefort Sauce

6 loin, rib or shoulder lamb chops
2 ounces Roquefort cheese
2 tablespoons cream
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper

Have chops cut 1 to 2 inches thick. Set regulator for broiling. Place chops on broiler rack and insert pan and rack so that the tops of 1-inch thick chops are 2 inches and the 2-inch chops are 3 inches from the heat.

Broil first side until browned, about 8 minutes. Season and turn. Brown second side about 4 minutes. Mash Roquefort cheese with the cream and Worcestershire sauce and spread about 2 tablespoons of the cheese evenly over each chop. Continue broiling 2 minutes, or until cheese is lightly browned. Yield: 6 servings.

Former Parsons Resident Drowns

PARSONS, W. Va. — A 21-year-old former Parsons man drowned Monday morning while swimming in a private pool near Manassas, Va.

The body of Willard Otis Bohon was found about 12 hours after he drowned.

Two companions tried to rescue Bohon when he called for help, but were unable to reach him. Skindivers failed to locate the body and it finally was found by dragging the pool.

The young man had been residing in Manassas, where he had been employed the past several months. He also was a former resident of St. George.

Born in St. George, he was a son of James J. and Edna (Summerfield) Bohon.

Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Wilda McBee, Washington; Mrs. Truman Phillips, Hendricks; Mrs. Lydia Credell, RFD 1, Hambelton, and Mrs. Thelma Myers, Morgantown, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Moore, RFD 1, St. George.

The body will be at the Greenlief Funeral Home after 10 a.m. today. Services will be conducted there tomorrow at 2 p.m. by Rev. Bill Angel. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery near St. George.

SWACH FUNERAL

A requiem Mass for Mrs. Dora W. Swach, 80, of 2007 South Road, Baltimore, a former resident of Cumberland and native of Luke, who died Tuesday at her home, will be celebrated Friday at 10 a. m. at SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home where the Christian Mothers of SS. Peter and Paul will recite the rosary today at 8 p.m.

Pallbearers, all nephews, will be Ronald and William Humbertson, James and Patrick Kelly and Ambrose and Matthew Cremen.

ROBERT E. REID

Robert E. Reid, 2905 Allison Street, Mount Rainier, died yesterday in Washington Hospital Center. He was a former resident of Cumberland.

A son of the late George W. and Ella R. (Farrell) Reid, he was born in Cumberland. Mr. Reid was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church and Aerie 245, FO Eagles of Cumberland. He had been employed by the government in Washington.

Surviving are his widow, Devota (Phillips) Reid; a daughter, Mrs. Warren Davis, Cumberland; a sister, Mrs. Madeline Beard, Cumberland, and a grandchild.

The body will be returned to the Scarpelli Funeral Home.

MISS ETHEL V. HAWSE

LOST RIVER, W. Va. — Miss Ethel Vernon Hawse died Monday in University Hospital at Charlottesville, Va.

A native of Lost River, she was a daughter of the late John R. and Victoria (Hischman) Hawse.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Ada Beall, Wardensville, and Mrs. Esther Schell, Lost River, and three brothers, Henry and Edgar Hawse, both of Baker, and Stanley Hawse, Moorefield.

The body is at the residence where services will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a. m. (EDT) by Rev. F. P. Look and Rev. Thomas Boggs. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

LONACONING — Robert S. Marshall, 65, was pronounced dead on arrival yesterday at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

A native of Lonaconing, he was a son of the late William and Rachel (Smith) Marshall. He was a retired pulp mill worker and was a member of the Lonaconing American Legion.

Surviving are his widow, Leola (Laraw) Marshall; two children, Miss Mae Marshall and Wilson Marshall, both of Lonaconing; a sister, Miss Jane Marshall, Lonaconing, and two brothers, Pete and John W. Marshall, both of Lonaconing.

The body is at the Eichhorn Funeral Home where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Services will be conducted there Saturday at 2 p. m. by Rev. John McLain and burial will be in Frostburg Memorial Park. Military honors will be accorded at graveside.

WILLIAM T. DYE

BARTON—William T. Dye, formerly of this area, died recently in Livonia, Mich. He was 74.

He is survived by five sisters, Mrs. Armanda Lommie, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Mary Duckworth, Frostburg; Mrs. Sheridan Bucklew, Gilmore; Mrs. Virgie Doyle, Lonaconing, and Mrs. George Ayers, Barton.

CHARLES TOTEDO

THOMAS, W. Va. — Charles Totedo, 66, of Blaine, died yesterday in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, after a long illness.

A native of Italy, he was a son of the late Salvadore and Rose (Grecco) Totedo. Mr. Totedo was a veteran of World War I and was a member of Thomas Lodge 1531, LOO Moose, and Davis Lodge 103, IOOF.

He is survived by his widow, Anna (Lombard) Totedo; a brother, Joseph Totedo, Hot Springs, Ark., and two sisters, Mrs. Freda Perry and Mrs. Mary Perry, both of Donora, Pa.

The body will be at the Duncan Funeral Home until tomorrow morning when it will be taken to Donora for services and burial on Saturday.

Segregation Is Attacked In Bluefield

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The state advisory committee to the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights was told Wednesday "there is no such thing as integration" in Bluefield.

Mrs. P. R. Higginbotham, Bluefield, a Negro member of the committee, said the Bluefield area has been termed the "Confederacy of West Virginia."

"Theaters are closed to Negroes. No hotels are available. There are no restaurants for Negroes, except perhaps a drive-in on the outskirts of town," she said. "There just is no integration in Bluefield."

Mrs. Higginbotham suggested that perhaps the West Virginia Human Rights Commission should concentrate its efforts in the Bluefield area.

The state advisory committee, headed by Miles C. Stanley, president of the West Virginia Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, met to consider what action it might take to assist the national commission.

Mrs. Higginbotham is the wife of Dr. P. R. Higginbotham, Bluefield, chairman of the State Board of Health, who recently was denied membership in the Mercer County Medical Society.

"The Mercer group definitely turned him down and he has not as yet applied again," Mrs. Higginbotham said. "This, I think, is an illustration of the situation in the county."

Discussing proposals to reduce Bluefield State College to a two-year technical training institute, Mrs. Higginbotham, president of the college alumni, said it would not be feasible.

"We have definitely determined that the college should be retained as a four-year institution and are working toward its maintenance as such," she said.

Mrs. Higginbotham said her alumni group also is against any proposed merger of Bluefield State with Concord College.

"Integration at Concord at this point is nil," she said. "I don't think this would change under any combination of two schools and I don't believe Bluefield students would transfer to Concord if the colleges were combined.

The advisory committee studied plans for a survey of employment opportunities for minority groups in West Virginia. The survey will cover such things as retraining programs and hiring practices of such new industries in West Virginia as Food Machinery & Chemical Corp., South Charleston, and North American Aviation, Princeton, which have government contracts. Employment practices of chemical industries which also have government contracts will be studied.

The group hopes to have a report ready by early 1963. Stanley said the committee feels the biggest problem facing minority groups is that of employment.

West Virginia State College President W. J. L. Wallace was elected vice chairman to succeed Howard V. Corcoran, Wheeling. The next meeting will be held Aug. 1.

Garbage Collections Are Delayed

Garbage collections for Bedford Road, Cresaptown, Bowling Green and Mt. Savage have been suspended due to a delay in the receipts of license tags for trucks.

Ralph Stevanus, hauler, said that he has not received his truck tags from the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Temple To Meet

FROSTBURG — Calanthe Temple 3, Pythian Sisters will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the Junior Order Hall, Broadway on Friday with Bernice Neilson, most excellent chief presiding.

Final arrangements will be made for the convention to be held in Oakland on May 16.

The highest standard cloud form is the cirrus, averaging 27,000 feet and above.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD,—For my money, Russ Tamblyn deserved a lot more glory than he got out of "West Side Story." The Oscar sweepstakes winner did wonders for the directors, choreographer, Natalie Wood, George Chakaris, Rita Moreno, the music arrangers and the janitor. But for some reason, Russ who, actually and factually leaped from the screen in a vital performance, hasn't rated what he deserves.

Maybe he'll have better luck in "Follow the Boys" for which Joe Pasternak has just signed him. Russ plays a sailor with an eye out for such beauties as Paula Prentiss and Connie Francis in the MGM musical.

Just as Irene Castle for years headed up the humane-to-animals crusade in the U.S.A., none other than Brigitte Bardot has taken up the same cause in France. Of course, this does not include animals of the human male variety!

In this project, Brigitte has the backing of UNESCO and part of the job she has taken on is addressing various women's organizations. If you can take the picture of Brigitte chumming up with female groups, I can also pass on the word that she has a new "dignified" hair-do, a high, sophisticated coiffure very different from her famed scraggly gamin mop.

Well, the French teenagers recently voted Brigitte "matronly" since she passed 30. Matronly is as matronly does.

There's not a single complaint from director George Englund about Marlon Brando during the shooting of "The Ugly American" at U-I.

"On the contrary, he's been showing up for work when he should be home in bed," reports Englund, "He was out over the weekend suffering from a sore throat and general weakness. Marlon's doctor told him he should remain at home for a few more days. But he showed up anyway telling us he wants to keep the picture on schedule for an early June finish."

Troy Donahue isn't jumping with joy over going into another TV series after his "Surfside 6" was dropped, but even so he is not going to pull any temperamental sulking spells. He'll be teamed with Connie Francis in the "Hawaiian Eye" series and is already packed to take off for Honolulu this weekend for background shots.

As far as Warner Brothers are concerned, teaming Troy and Connie again has commercial value. They made two movies together, "Parrish" and "Susan Slade," both popular with teenagers, which won't hurt their TV series.

Everybody knows about summer stock, but Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy start something new when they co-star in "The Music Man" in winter stock—in Miami, in December, to be exact. This is an unusual project in more ways than one. The famed Orange Bowl, home of so many Orange Bowl football classics, will be the "theatre" where Shirley and her husband perform. A stage will be constructed in the bowl for the two weeks engagement. Shirley, of course, stars in the Warner film version of "Music Man" but this is Jack's first appearance in the title role made famous by Bob Preston.

With TV stars getting ready to close up shop for the summer hiatus, Harriet and Ozzie Nelson, veteran royalty of TV, are taking off in a tour of summer stock in the Broadway comedy hit, "Marriage-Go-Round." The popular pair who co-star with their sons, David and Rick in "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," head for the midwest opening in Warren, Ohio, on July 10 and then continue on through Columbus, Detroit and Highland Park.

Summer stock is nothing new to Harriet. As a school girl she toured the circuit with her actor parents all during her school vacations. When the tour is over the Nelsons resume their 11th consecutive season on TV — a record for a family series.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Even though he leads the pack as the "guessers" first choice to play Professor Higgins in "My Fair Lady," Cary Grant says, "I personally think they can't improve on Rex Harrison."

With Kirk Douglas on the hook in "The Hook," Ann Douglas took over hostessing their jaunt to Las Vegas for Polly Bergen's opening Thursday night at The Dunes.

George Fisher's new cafe The Potted Pigeon only holds 24, so Charlton Heston took over half the place when he hosted 12 for lunch there.

Garbage Collections Are Delayed

Garbage collections for Bedford Road, Cresaptown, Bowling Green and Mt. Savage have been suspended due to a delay in the receipts of license tags for trucks.

Ralph Stevanus, hauler, said that he has not received his truck tags from the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Final arrangements will be made for the convention to be held in Oakland on May 16.

The highest standard cloud form is the cirrus, averaging 27,000 feet and above.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD.—For my money, Russ Tamblyn deserved a lot more glory than he got out of "West Side Story." The Oscar sweepstakes winner did wonders for the directors, choreographer, Natalie Wood, George Chakaris, Rita Moreno, the music arrangers and the janitor. But for some reason, Russ who, actually and factually leaped from the screen in a vital performance, hasn't rated what he deserves.

Maybe he'll have better luck in "Follow the Boys" for which Joe Pasternak has just signed him. Russ plays a sailor with an eye out for such beauties as Paula Prentiss and Connie Francis in the MGM musical.

Just as Irene Castle for years headed up the humane-to-animals crusade in the U.S.A., none other than Brigitte Bardot has taken up the same cause in France. Of course, this does not include animals of the human male variety!

Maj. Gen. Lolli To Visit PSC Cadets Today

Is Commander Of 20th Corps

KEYSER—Major General Andrew R. Lolli, Commander General of the 20th U. S. Army Corps, will visit Potomac State College ROTC department today according to Maj. Thomas E. McBride, PMS.

Gen. Lolli and his aide-de-camp, Capt. James A. Lollis, will be met at the Cumberland Airport at 10:30 by Col. W. E. Roberts, PMS, at West Virginia University, and the party will arrive at the armory shortly after 11.

After a briefing period with Major McBride and a conference with the inspection board which will also be on the campus, Gen. Lolli will meet the ROTC cadets and observe the battalion parade set to begin at 12:15.

The general and his party will be luncheon guests at Davis Hall before departing.

Gen. Lolli, who took over command of the 20th Corps only a month ago, is visiting Potomac State as part of an objective of visiting all Army installations under his command.

Religious Scene At Church Of The Assumption

Application Authorized

KEYSER — The Mayor and Council, after a three-hour session last night, authorized Morris-Knowles, Inc., Easton, Pa., to make necessary application to the Federal House and Home Finance Agency for a loan to construct a sewage disposal plant and interceptor sewer for the city.

The sewage disposal plant is required by the State Water Resources Board of West Virginia.

No decision has been reached as to the location of the plant, but the Mayor and Council estimated its cost at $850,000.

The federal government allocates $250,000 or one-third of the cost, whichever is less. The city is responsible for the remaining cost, which can be met through either federal loan or a regular bond levy.

Represehting Morris-Knowles at the meeting was George Berkemyer, engineer.

William W. Loy Promoted Commander In U.S. Navy

KEYSER—William W. Loy, has been appointed to the rank of Commander, U. S. Naval Reserve and will continue as head of the Personnel Department at the Washington, D. C., Naval Air Training Unit.

Cmdr. Loy is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George M. Loy. His wife, the former Miss Sallie Siever and a daughter Sydney, 4, reside at 151 Center Street.

Before entering the Navy in July 1952, Loy graduated from Keyser High School and attended Potomac State College and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

After completing his flight training at Pensacola, Fla., in October 1943, he was commissioned an officer and designated a naval aviator. Since then he has qualified as a helicopter and airship commander with World War II duty in the USS Raleigh aviation detachment in the Aleutian Islands.

After World War II he was released to inactive duty. He then served as staff announcer and program director of radio station WTBO in Cumberland from 1947 to 1950 and was employed one year at the Potomac Edison Company in Frederick.

Recalled to active duty in 1952 in support of the Korean conflict Cmdr. Loy served in various Naval Air Stations, helicopter squadrons, lighter than air squadrons, and on the aircraft carriers Wright, Block Island, Antietam, and Leyte.

He reported to his present assignment in Washington in December 1959. He is in charge of the personnel administration of the Naval Air Reserve which consists of more than 1400 persons who serve in 20 squadrons.

Ayers Family Has Get-Together

FSTC Summer School Will Open June 25

Registrations Begin Saturday

FROSTBURG — Frostburg State Teachers College is preparing for the opening of its fifth Summer Session June 25.

Advance registration for 55 courses will be held Saturday in Allegany Hall from 9 a.m. to noon. Students may register by mail between Saturday and the opening of the session. Final registration will be conducted June 25 in Allegany Hall from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m.

Graduate courses leading to the degree of master of education are available to fully certified teachers seeking certificate renewal and to graduates of liberal arts colleges.

Undergraduate courses are available to teachers wishing to complete degree requirements or to complete requirements for regular certification. Undergraduates from any college may register for these courses for the purpose of accelerating or enriching their programs.

The first session opened in 1958 with 133 students, an offering of 13 courses and in instructional staff of seven. The program has grown steadily during the four years since its inception. The 1962 session a staff of 30 will offer courses to an anticipated student body of 400.

In the 1958 session students from 19 different institutions of higher learning registered for courses. It is expected that in 1962 students and graduates of more than 50 different institutions will come to Frostburg for summer study on the graduate and undergraduate levels and to enjoy Frostburg's ideal summer weather.

Included in the 1962 offerings are 30 undergraduate and 25 graduate courses in the fields of art, biology, chemistry, education, English, geography, history, mathematics, music, physical education, physical science, political science and psychology.

Registration materials may be obtained from Miss Elizabeth Hitchins, registrar.

Religious Scene At Church Of The Assumption

Application Authorized

KEYSER — The Mayor and Council, after a three-hour session last night, authorized Morris-Knowles, Inc., Easton, Pa., to make necessary application to the Federal House and Home Finance Agency for a loan to construct a sewage disposal plant and interceptor sewer for the city.

The sewage disposal plant is required by the State Water Resources Board of West Virginia.

No decision has been reached as to the location of the plant, but the Mayor and Council estimated its cost at $850,000.

The federal government allocates $250,000 or one-third of the cost, whichever is less. The city is responsible for the remaining cost, which can be met through either federal loan or a regular bond levy.

Representing Morris-Knowles at the meeting was George Berkemyer, engineer.

William W. Loy Promoted Commander In U.S. Navy

KEYSER—William W. Loy, has been appointed to the rank of Commander, U. S. Naval Reserve and will continue as head of the Personnel Department at the Washington, D. C., Naval Air Training Unit.

Cmdr. Loy is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George M. Loy. His wife, the former Miss Sallie Siever and a daughter Sydney, 4, reside at 151 Center Street.

Before entering the Navy in July 1952, Loy graduated from Keyser High School and attended Potomac State College and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

After completing his flight training at Pensacola, Fla., in October 1943, he was commissioned an officer and designated a naval aviator. Since then he has qualified as a helicopter and airship commander with World War II duty in the USS Raleigh aviation detachment in the Aleutian Islands.

After World War II he was released to inactive duty. He then served as staff announcer and program director of radio station WTBO in Cumberland from 1947 to 1950 and was employed one year at the Potomac Edison Company in Frederick.

Recalled to active duty in 1952 in support of the Korean conflict Cmdr. Loy served in various Naval Air Stations, helicopter squadrons, lighter than air squadrons, and on the aircraft carriers Wright, Block Island, Antietam, and Leyte.

He reported to his present assignment in Washington in December 1959. He is in charge of the personnel administration of the Naval Air Reserve which consists of more than 1400 persons who serve in 20 squadrons.

FSTC Summer School Will Open June 25

Registrations Begin Saturday

FROSTBURG — Frostburg State Teachers College is preparing for the opening of its fifth Summer Session June 25.

Advance registration for 55 courses will be held Saturday in Allegany Hall from 9 a.m. to noon. Students may register by mail between Saturday and the opening of the session. Final registration will be conducted June 25 in Allegany Hall from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m.

Graduate courses leading to the degree of master of education are available to fully certified teachers seeking certificate renewal and to graduates of liberal arts colleges.

Undergraduate courses are available to teachers wishing to complete degree requirements or to complete requirements for regular certification. Undergraduates from any college may register for these courses for the purpose of accelerating or enriching their programs.

The first session opened in 1958 with 133 students, an offering of 13 courses and in instructional staff of seven. The program has grown steadily during the four years since its inception. The 1962 session a staff of 30 will offer courses to an anticipated student body of 400

In the 1958 session students from 19 different institutions of higher learning registered for courses. It is expected that in 1962 students and graduates of more than 50 different institutions will come to Frostburg for summer study on the graduate and undergraduate levels and to enjoy Frostburg's ideal summer weather.

Included in the 1962 offerings are 30 undergraduate and 25 graduate courses in the fields of art, biology, chemistry, education, English, geography, history, mathematics, music, physical education, physical science, political science and psychology.

Registration materials may be obtained from Miss Elizabeth Hitchins, registrar.

Giants Nip Pirates For 8th Straight Win; Orioles Edge Twins

Homer By Mays Gives Marichal 4th Victory, 3-2

Francis Is Victim Of Centerfielder's Sixth Inning Clout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays hammered his eigth home run Wednesday, powering the San Francisco Gaints to a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh. It was the Giants' eighth straight triumph and the longest winning streak since coming west in 1958.

Righthander Juan Marichal weathered Bob Skinner's two-run homer in the first inning to become the sixth consecutive starter to go the route for the National League leading Giants. He won his fourth game against two setbacks.

Earl Francis, who handcuffed the heavy hitting Giants early in the game, suffered his second defeat against one win. Mays' solo homer broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fifth.

When Francis left for a pinch hitter in the eighth, he kept another San Francisco string intact. No pitcher has gone the route against the Giants in their 22 games (17-5) this season.

Tourney Of Champions Gets Underway Today

Palmer Is Heavy Favorite To Cop $58,000 Golf Event

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A selected field of the world's winningest golfers headed by defending champion Sam Snead and Arnold (Mr. Moneybags) Palmer, tees off Thursday in the $58,000 Tournament of Champions.

Palmer has been installed as the 5-to-1 favorite—but a favorite never has won this event in the nine years it has been in operation on the Desert Inn Country Club course.

The field this year is the largest in history—28 men who won every tournament in the country during the past 12 months with the exception of one. Jackie Burke won the Buick Open, but refuses to play in this gambling spa.

"You have to pick Palmer as the man to beat in any tournament," says Earl Stewart of Dallas, who is one of the longest shots in the field at 40-1. "But don't forget that every man here has beaten the rest of the touring pros at one time or another."

Palmer Is Tops

Palmer won the Texas Open, Palm Springs Classic, Western Open, Phoenix Open and Masters to qualify for this one. And the experts say he is at the top of his game.

The records show that it usually takes a man with strong will power to win this one. Such nongambling, little-or-no drinking shot makers as Art Wall, Jerry Barber, and Gene Littler have been winners in the past. Snead fits into this category too.

Listed As 5-1

Palmer is listed as 5-1 in the betting marts. Billy Casper is rated at 8-1. Snead, Doug Ford, Jay Hebert, Phil Rodgers and Doug Sanders are 12-1; Gay Brewer, Joe Campbell and Mike Souchak are 15-1; Barber who won in 1960, Jackie Cupit, Tommy Jacobs, Don January, Billy Maxwell Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Bobby Nichols and Bo Wininger are 20-1.

At 25-1 are Jack Fleck and Canadian George Knudson, while at 30-1 Stan Dave Hill, Australian Bruce Crampton, Eric Monti, Dave Marr, and Bob McCallister. Along with Stewart at 40-1 is young Butch Baird.

Some familiar names are missing from the roster this year.

They include Art Wall, who won here in 1954; Bob Rosburg, Ken Venturi, and Gary Player, the South African who was leading money winner of 1961 but hasn't won a tournament since this one was played a year ago.

McGuire's Captures Shuffle Series

McGuire's Tavern came from behind last night to win their semi-final playoff match with the Eagles by seven points in the Frostburg Women's Shuffleboard League on McGuire's boards.

Trailing by three points entering last night's match, McGuire's won 73-63 to enter the finals, winning 139-132 for the six games.

High scorers were Jane Malloy with 16 for McGuire's and Bea LaPorta with 14 for the Eagles.

The other semi-final series between the Frostburg Legion and the Republican Club was postponed.

Fisher Ready To Pitch Now

Oriole Hurler Eligible May 9

BALTIMORE (AP) — A week from Wednesday, pitcher Jack Fisher of the Baltimore Orioles will be eligible for active baseball duty. He says he's ready to pitch right now.

Fisher developed tendonitis during spring training and when the American League season opened April 10, Manager Billy Hitchcock put him on the 30-day disabled list.

Fisher, from Frostburg, Md., has been working out with the Orioles but was not permitted to sit in the dugout during games or even remain in uniform after the games began.

His shoulder is not back to normal, Fisher says, but he thinks he's ready for duty anyway. Instead of being able to warm up in about 15 minutes, as previously, he says it now takes him about a half hour.

There's no question that his return — if he's able to take his normal turn and do a competent job — will be welcomed by the Orioles.

Fisher, only 23, had a 10-13 record after a slow start last season with Baltimore. He says he hopes his enforced layoff means that he will be able to bypass his early season difficulties of last year.

$1,000 Fine For Tampering Faces ACC Agenda

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The possibility of slapping a $1,000 fine on any Atlantic Coast Conference school found tampering with a prize athletic recruit of another ACC institution is one of the major items on the agenda of the conference spring meeting opening here Friday.

The language of the proposal calls for the fine against an ACC school "Guilty of tampering with a prospect who has already signed a grant-in-aid with a member institution."

Another major item would increase the college board test cutoff scores, now set at 750.

These and other proposals will be discussed at length Thursday in closed committee sessions. How they fare there will determine whether they are presented at the full meeting Friday morning for conference action.

Kiwanis To Drill

The Kiwanis Club of the Hot Stove Baseball League will hold practice sessions Friday at 6 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. at Allegany field.

Braves To Drill

The Braves of the Dapper Dan Little League will drill Saturday at 10 a.m. at Allegany field. All holdovers and farm team players are requested to attend this practice session.

Sir Gaylord, Ridan Remain Derby Favorites

15 Others Slated To Challenge Pair

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sir Gaylord and Ridan drew additional support Wednesday as the clock ticked away toward the 88th Kentucky Derby. Nevertheless, there were 15 rival owners and trainers ready to make the two big colts earn their way into the winner's circle.

The uncertainties of horse racing, as familiar to the $2 bettor as his torn up mutuel tickets, never were more in evidence among the deeper thinking equine experts.

Their minds say "Ridan," or "Sir Gaylord," But then, they listen to some guy who rubs elbows at the bar, and they vision Donut King, Sir Ribot, Sunrise County or something else slamming down to the wire at Churchill Downs late Saturday afternoon.

According to Hoyle, Christopher T. Chenery's handsome Sir Gaylord, the gent from Virginia, holds a slight edge over Ridan, who sports the black and white silks of Mrs. Moody Jolley of Miami, Fla.

Old Louisville was humming in anticipation of a great Derby as the tourists arrived from near and far. The rains of Tuesday were gone with a stiff west wind that brought cooler weather. The long range forecast was for possible showers by Friday, but fair and near 70-degree weather on Saturday.

Casey Hayes, who had two big shots at the country's premier thoroughbred classic and missed, is confident Sir Gaylord is at top form. Sir Gaylord trimmed Ridan twice at Hialeah before incurring a slight ankle injury in Februray.

Chenery's champion 2-year-old filly Cicada is to be enetred in the Derby, but only as insurance. Cicada is slated to meet her feminine rivals in the Kentucky Oaks on Friday. Hayes trained Hill Prince, 1950 Derby second, and First Landing, third in 1959—both owned by Chenery.

Basing the purse on 18 entries at $250 each, but 17 starters for an additional $1,250, the Derby purse would hit $164,650. The winner's share would be $122,150, second richest to the $123,450 tifted in 1956 by Needles.

Stafford Slated For Hip X-Rays

CHICAGO (AP) — Right-hander Bill Stafford was sent to New York Wednesday by the New York Yankees to have X rays taken of his injured hip.

Stafford swung wildly at a pitch thrown by White Sox left-hander Juan Pizarro Wednesday night, pulling a muscle in his hip. The mishap took place in the top of the fifth inning. The Yankee pitcher retired the side without a hit in the last of the inning but had to leave when the pain grew worse.

Stafford will miss at least one pitching turn, possibly more. His place in the starting rotation will be taken by Roland Sheldon, who is slated to start against the Washington Senators in New York Saturday.

Powell Cracks Pair Of Homers In 6-5 Triumph

Minnesota Rally Falls Short; Brown Is Winning Hurler

ST.PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Rookie John Powell cracked a pair of two-run homers to power the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 victory over the rallying Minnesota Twins Wednesday.

The 6-foot-4, 240-pound outfielder, just 20 years old, bashed his first major league round-tripper to right in the third inning off starter and loser Jim Kaat, and then slashed a 340-foot shot to left in the fifth off reliever Ted Sadowski.

Baltimore starter Hector Brown collected his first win of the season after two setbacks, although he was bombed out in a four-run Minnesota uprising in the sixth innin gw,hich saw the Twins parade 10 men to the plate.

The Twins bounced back to a 6-5 deficit in the seventh frame on Don Mincher's 410-foot home run off reliever Dick Hall, who then settled down to protect the lead the rest of the way.

Fields Readied For Ball Games This Summer

Rec Department Completes Cleanup

Preparations for the approaching summer season have been completed at Stitcher Field, Post Playground, and the ball field at Constitution Park, said Gene Mason city recreation director.

During the past couple weeks maintenance work was completed at Stitcher Field where the infield was disced and the soil loosened to a depth of about three inches.

The entire infield was reconditioned to make a smoother playing surface, according to Mason, who said the overhang section of the backstop was replaced.

Maintenance crews of the rec department in charge of Carl Wolfe completed a general clean-up of the area including the cutting of weeds and elimination of debris.

At Post Playground the infield was dug up to a depth of six inches and the new soil put on to provide better drainage and playing conditions.

The area outside the fence at the back of the playground on Lexington Avenue is being leveled and landscaped and an area previously covered with weeds and thorn bushes will be seeded and mulched.

The Hout Construction Company completed work on Post Playground.

All three fields were fertilized this spring, said Mason.

Hoak To Miss Several Games

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Third baseman Don Hoak of the Pittsburgh Pirates will stay out of the lineup for three or four more games because of a sprained right wrist, manager Danny Murtaugh said Wednesday.

X-rays were taken of Hoak's wrist Wednesday and they showed no fracture. The fiery infielder sustained the injury Monday when he fell after being called out on a close play at first base against the San Francisco Giants.

Johnny Logan and Dick Schofield will alternate at Hoak's position.

Francis Is Victim Of Centerfielder's Sixth Inning Clout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays hammered his eigth home run Wednesday, powering the San Francisco Gaints to a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh. It was the Giants' eighth straight triumph and the longest winning streak since coming west in 1958.

Righthander Juan Marichal weathered Bob Skinner's two-run homer in the first inning to become the sixth consecutive starter to go the route for the National League leading Giants. He won his fourth game against two setbacks.

Earl Francis, who handcuffed the heavy hitting Giants early in the game, suffered his second defeat against one win. Mays' solo homer broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fifth.

When Francis left for a pinch hitter in the eighth, he kept another San Francisco string intact. No pitcher has gone the route against the Giants in their 22 games (17-5) this season.

Tourney Of Champions Gets Underway Today

Palmer Is Heavy Favorite To Cop $58,000 Golf Event

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A selected field of the world's winningest golfers headed by defending champion Sam Snead and Arnold (Mr. Moneybags) Palmer, tees off Thursday in the $58,000 Tournament of Champions.

Palmer has been installed as the 5-to-1 favorite—but a favorite never has won this event in the nine years it has been in operation on the Desert Inn Country Club course.

The field this year is the largest in history—28 men who won every tournament in the country during the past 12 months with the exception of one. Jackie Burke won the Buick Open, but refuses to play in this gambling spa.

"You have to pick Palmer as the man to beat in any tournament," says Earl Stewart of Dallas, who is one of the longest shots in the field at 40-1. "But don't forget that every man here has beaten the rest of the touring pros at one time or another."

Palmer Is Tops

Palmer won the Texas Open, Palm Springs Classic, Western Open, Phoenix Open and Masters to qualify for this one. And the experts say he is at the top of his game.

The records show that it usually takes a man with strong will power to win this one. Such nongambling, little-or-no drinking shot makers as Art Wall, Jerry Barber, and Gene Littler have been winners in the past. Snead fits into this category too.

Listed As 5-1

Palmer is listed as 5-1 in the betting marts. Billy Casper is rated at 8-1. Snead, Doug Ford, Jay Hebert, Phil Rodgers and Doug Sanders are 12-1; Gay Brewer, Joe Campbell and Mike Souchak are 15-1; Barber who won in 1960, Jackie Cupit, Tommy Jacobs, Don January, Billy Maxwell Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Bobby Nichols and Bo Wininger are 20-1.

At 25-1 are Jack Fleck and Canadian George Knudson, while at 30-1 Stan Dave Hill, Australian Bruce Crampton, Eric Monti, Dave Marr, and Bob McCallister. Along with Stewart at 40-1 is young Butch Baird.

Some familiar names are missing from the roster this year.

McGuire's Captures Shuffle Series

McGuire's Tavern came from behind last night to win their semi-final playoff match with the Eagles by seven points in the Frostburg Women's Shuffleboard League on McGuire's boards.

Trailing by three points entering last night's match, McGuire's won 73-63 to enter the finals, winning 139-132 for the six games.

High scorers were Jane Malloy with 16 for McGuire's and Bea LaPorta with 14 for the Eagles.

The other semi-final series between the Frostburg Legion and the Republican Club was postponed.

Fisher Ready To Pitch Now

Oriole Hurler Eligible May 9

BALTIMORE (AP) — A week from Wednesday, pitcher Jack Fisher of the Baltimore Orioles will be eligible for active baseball duty. He says he's ready to pitch right now.

Fisher developed tendonitis during spring training and when the American League season opened April 10, Manager Billy Hitchcock put him on the 30-day disabled list.

Fisher, from Frostburg, Md., has been working out with the Orioles but was not permitted to sit in the dugout during games or even remain in uniform after the games began.

His shoulder is not back to normal, Fisher says, but he thinks he's ready for duty anyway. Instead of being able to warm up in about 15 minutes, as previously, he says it now takes him about a half hour.

There's no question that his return — if he's able to take his normal turn and do a competent job — will be welcomed by the Orioles.

Fisher, only 23, had a 10-13 record after a slow start last season with Baltimore. He says he hopes his enforced layoff means that he will be able to bypass his early season difficulties of last year.

$1,000 Fine For Tampering Faces ACC Agenda

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The possibility of slapping a $1,000 fine on any Atlantic Coast Conference school found tampering with a prize athletic recruit of another ACC institution is one of the major items on the agenda of the conference spring meeting opening here Friday.

The language of the proposal calls for the fine against an ACC school "Guilty of tampering with a prospect who has already signed a grant-in-aid with a member institution."

Another major item would increase the college board test cutoff scores, now set at 750.

These and other proposals will be discussed at length Thursday in closed committee sessions. How they fare there will determine whether they are presented at the full meeting Friday morning for conference action.

Kiwanis To Drill

The Kiwanis Club of the Hot Stove Baseball League will hold practice sessions Friday at 6 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. at Allegany field.

Braves To Drill

The Braves of the Dapper Dan Little League will drill Saturday at 10 a.m. at Allegany field. All holdovers and farm team players are requested to attend this practice session.

Sir Gaylord, Ridan Remain Derby Favorites

15 Others Slated To Challenge Pair

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sir Gaylord and Ridan drew additional support Wednesday as the clock ticked away toward the 88th Kentucky Derby. Nevertheless, there were 15 rival owners and trainers ready to make the two big colts earn their way into the winner's circle.

The uncertainties of horse racing, as familiar to the $2 bettor as his torn up mutuel tickets, never were more in evidence among the deeper thinking equine experts.

Their minds say "Ridan," or "Sir Gaylord." But then, they listen to some guy who rubs elbows at the bar, and they vision Donut King, Sir Ribot, Sunrise County or something else slamming down to the wire at Churchill Downs late Saturday afternoon.

According to Hoyle, Christopher T. Chenery's handsome Sir Gaylord, the gent from Virginia, holds a slight edge over Ridan, who sports the black and white silks of Mrs. Moody Jolley of Miami, Fla.

Old Louisville was humming in anticipation of a great Derby as the tourists arrived from near and far. The rains of Tuesday were gone with a stiff west wind that brought cooler weather. The long range forecast was for possible showers by Friday, but fair and near 70-degree weather on Saturday.

Chenery's champion 2-year-old filly Cicada is to be enetred in the Derby, but only as insurance. Cicada is slated to meet her feminine rivals in the Kentucky Oaks on Friday. Hayes trained Hill Prince, 1950 Derby second, and First Landing, third in 1959—both owned by Chenery.

Basing the purse on 18 entries at $250 each, but 17 starters for an additional $1,250, the Derby purse would hit $164,650. The winner's share would be $122,150, second richest to the $123,450 lifted in 1956 by Needles.

Stafford Slated For Hip X-Rays

CHICAGO (AP) — Right-hander Bill Stafford was sent to New York Wednesday by the New York Yankees to have X rays taken of his injured hip.

Stafford swung wildly at a pitch thrown by White Sox left-hander Juan Pizarro Wednesday night, pulling a muscle in his hip. The mishap took place in the top of the fifth inning. The Yankee pitcher retired the side without a hit in the last of the inning but had to leave when the pain grew worse.

Stafford will miss at least one pitching turn, possibly more. His place in the starting rotation will be taken by Roland Sheldon, who is slated to start against the Washington Senators in New York Saturday.

Powell Cracks Pair Of Homers In 6-5 Triumph

Minnesota Rally Falls Short; Brown Is Winning Hurler

ST.PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Rookie John Powell cracked a pair of two-run homers to power the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 victory over the rallying Minnesota Twins Wednesday.

The 6-foot-4, 240-pound outfielder, just 20 years old, bashed his first major league round-tripper to right in the third inning off starter and loser Jim Kaat, and then slashed a 340-foot shot to left in the fifth off reliever Ted Sadowski.

Baltimore starter Hector Brown collected his first win of the season after two setbacks, although he was bombed out in a four-run Minnesota uprising in the sixth innin gw,hich saw the Twins parade 10 men to the plate.

The Twins bounced back to a 6-5 deficit in the seventh frame on Don Mincher's 410-foot home run off reliever Dick Hall, who then settled down to protect the lead the rest of the way.

Fields Readied For Ball Games This Summer

Rec Department Completes Cleanup

Preparations for the approaching summer season have been completed at Stitcher Field, Post Playground, and the ball field at Constitution Park, said Gene Mason city recreation director.

During the past couple weeks maintenance work was completed at Stitcher Field where the infield was disced and the soil loosened to a depth of about three inches.

The entire infield was reconditioned to make a smoother playing surface, according to Mason, who said the overhang section of the backstop was replaced.

Maintenance crews of the rec department in charge of Carl Wolfe completed a general cleanup of the area including the cutting of weeds and elimination of debris.

At Post Playground the infield was dug up to a depth of six inches and the new soil put on to provide better drainage and playing conditions.

The area outside the fence at the back of the playground on Lexington Avenue is being leveled and landscaped and an area previously covered with weeds and thorn bushes will be seeded and mulched.

The Hout Construction Company completed work on Post Playground.

All three fields were fertilized this spring, said Mason.

Hoak To Miss Several Games

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Third baseman Don Hoak of the Pittsburgh Pirates will stay out of the lineup for three or four more games because of a sprained right wrist, manager Danny Murtaugh said Wednesday.

X-rays were taken of Hoak's wrist Wednesday and they showed no fracture. The fiery infielder sustained the injury Monday when he fell after being called out on a close play at first base against the San Francisco Giants.

Johnny Logan and Dick Schofield will alternate at Hoak's position.

Frostburg Is Scene Of Eighth Annual PVC Track Meet Today

Allegany High And Mt. Savage Play 18th Game

Unbeaten Campers Lead Series, 9-8

Mt. Savage High School will test Allegany High's undefeated Campers in the first inter-division game of the season in the Allegany County High School Baseball League today at 4 p.m., at Mt. Savage.

Coach Chet Payne's tossers are 8-0 against Fort Hill, Allegany and Flintstone, Eastern Division opponents. Mt. Savage is 2-1 in the Western Division with wins over Valley and Bruce and a loss at the hands of Beall.

This game was moved ahead from Friday. Tomorrow Fort Hill is at Valley, LaSalle at Bruce and Flintstone at Beall.

Since the series started in 1953 the teams have met 17 times and Allegany holds a 9-8 edge in wins.

Wardensville's Warriors are slated to play the Paw Paw High Pirates in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Paw Paw. The Morgan countians defeated Wardensville in the first game of the series, 16-0, and are 3-2 in the league. Wardensville has won one and lost two.

Hyndman High School's Hornets conclude their series with Northern Bedford County High School at Hopewell today in a Bedford County League game. The N.B.C. nine took the opener by the score of 16-4.

Game Called Off

The scheduled baseball game between the Potomac State College Catamounts and Frostburg State's Bobcats at Frostburg yesterday was postponed because of inclement weather. No date has been set for the replay of the contest.

Purple Heart Takes Lead In Finals Of Shuffle Playoffs

The Purple Heart downed the Goldrn Nugget, 75-57, last night to grab an 18-point lead in their final playoffs for the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League crown. The two teams will clash again on Friday on the Nugget boards in Frostburg in the concluding three games of the six-game series.

Leading the Purple Heart in the opening match was Janet Crabtree with 22 points. Dot Lewis was high with 14 for the Nugget team.

In a consolation playoff, Corriganville Auxiliary defeated Ruth's Tavern, 86-71, on the latter's boards last night to take a 15-point edge in the six-game total point clash. Ruth Hensel topped Corriganville with 34 points while Irene Stevens had 18 for Ruth's.

The final three games of the consolation round will be held next Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at Corriganville.

Field Of 100 In Turner Golf

Tourney Enriched By Many Bonuses

BURNEYVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Waco Turner's Golf Tournament dubbed the "Poor Boy's Open" but a misnomer if there ever was one, starts Thursday with a field of more than 100 seeking official prize money totaling $20,000.

But that may be just a drop in the bucket after the wealthy oilman shells out $15 for birdies, $25 for chipins, $50 for eagles and $100 for daily low score. There's $500 waiting for any player fortunate to get a hole-in-one.

Turner inaugurated the event last year to accommodate the players who had not crashed the winners' circle on the regular PGA tour and therefore were not eligible to compete in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas on the same days.

Butch Baird took last year's top money with an 11-under-par 281 and thus qualified to play at Las Vegas this week.

The field will be headed by Jack Nicklaus, Columbus, Ohio, who turned pro this year and now is the seventh top money winner on the PGA tour. He's won $14,673.

Shippensburg Is Victor In Track Meet

Beats Lock Haven, Frostburg State

Frostburg State College dropped its second track meet this year as host Shippensburg, Pa., College won a triangular affair with the Bobcats and Lock Haven College yesterday at Shippensburg. The score was Shippensburg 79½, Lock Haven 49½, Frostburg State 33.

The winners captured nine of the 15 events with the thinclads hampered by cold and wet weather and a slow track.

Frostburg gained wins in the high hurdles, the low hurdles and the high jump. Charley Robinson won the high hurdles and tied for first in the low hurdles. Larry Patterson was the victor in the high jump.

Frostburg has won one of three meets to date this year. The summary:

Beall Favored, Will Seek 3rd Straight Title

15 Contests Carded At Beall Stadium

Defending champion Beall High School looms as the favorite in the eighth annual Potomac Valley Conference track and field meet to be staged today at Beall High School Stadium at 3:40 p.m.

Coach Jerry Calhoun's Mountaineers have won five consecutive meets this season and they'll be striving to capture the P. V. C. crown for the third straight year.

Results Of Past PVC Meets

LaSalle Awards Dinner Is Scheduled Tonight

MVPs To Be Named, Letters Presented; 150 Will Atend

LaSalle High School's most valuable players in football and basketball will be presented trophies and letters will go to other members of the student body at the school's tenth annual Awards Dinner today at 6 p.m., at SS. Peter & Paul Hall, Fayette street.

One hundred and fifty persons will attend the affair, including members of the faculty, fathers of the students and invited guests. Approximately 100 members of the student body will be present.

Dr. Leo H. Ley is the toastmaster and football, basketball and baseball players, members of the Torch staff, the school paper, and cheerleaders will be presented letters.

Among the speakers on the program are Paul "Bubbles" Thompson, new head football coach, his assistants, and George W. Geatz, basketball coach, whose 1961-62 quint shared the P.V.C. title with Keyser and won the city championship.

Most Valuable Player trophies are to be awarded for the sixth straight year. Past winners in football were Mickey Bush, Van Parsons, Jack Bahen, Raymond Mewshaw and Frank Brode. The football trophy winners have been Van Parsons, Richard Winfield, Michael Mackert, Michael Scaletta and Carroll Wilt.

Rec Softball League Meets

7 Teams Attend Initial Session

The Rec Softball League held its initial organizational meeting last night at City Hall with seven teams represented at the session.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director for the city, said the circuit will be limited to 10 teams this year because only 10 fields will be available for play by the league. Last year the league operated with 14 teams in two divisions.

Attending last night's program were Basil Williams, Post's Playground; Bill Davis, Memorial Hospital; Bill Briner, Sports Shoppe; Ron Carcella, Old Germans; Dave Lechliter, South End; Bob Shelley, Bennett's Transfer; and Bob Williams, Speed Wash Laundry.

The team managers approved a limit of five out-of-city players for each team and voted to make anyone playing in another league after last night ineligible to participate in the Rec Loop.

A discussion concerning the use of Tri-State Umpires Association arbiters in the league this year was held and a decision will be made at the next meeting on Wednesday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m., whether to use the association umps or not.

A higher entry fee was approved at last night's meeting and the league hopes to start play about May 14. Team sponsors will be approved by the rec department.

A trophy will be presented to the league pennant winner at the conclusion of the season. The Old Germans are the defending champions.

Shaughnessy-Type Playoffs Adopted By Little League

The baseball committee of the Dapper Dan Club, acting on the suggestion of the little league managers, adopted a Shaughnessy-type playoff for the two-division circuit this year, rescinding the original plan to have a split season.

The new program calls for the top four teams in each division to participate in a "sudden death" semi-final playoff at the conclusion of the regular season. The first and third place teams will meet in one game and the second and fourth place teams will clash in the other tilt in each division.

Winners of these games will meet in best-of-three series to determine the division champions. The division champs then will collide in a best-of-three finale for the league title.

The Dapper Dan Little League managers at a meeting on Monday also adopted the plan that six outs will constitute one full inning of play in meeting the requirements that 15 players must participate in at least one inning of every game, and that all players must play at least one inning every week.

The next league meeting will be held June 4 at City Hall when the team rosters and player contracts will be turned in by the managers.

Collins, Mitinger On East Squad

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ends Gary Collins of Maryland and Bob Mitinger of Penn State were added Wednesday to the roster of the East squad for the second annual All-America Bowl football game here June 29.

Collins, a 6 foot 3, 205 pounder, had an outstanding season both on offense and defense last year, and was also one of collegiate football's top punters.

Mitinger, who stands 6 foot 2 and weighs 215 lbs., was a stick-out defensive performer at Penn state, and played a key role in the Nittany Lions' 30-15 Gator Bowl victory over Georgia Tech last December.

Game Postponed, Another Reset

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies - Milwaukee Braves game scheduled for Wednesday night was postponed because of rain and cold weather. It will be rescheduled at a later date.

The game that was called off Tuesday night because of bad weather was rescheduled for Saturday, July 21 as part of a twi-night doubleheader.

Game Called Off

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The baseball game scheduled for Wednesday night between the Cleveland Indians and the Los Angeles Angels has been postponed because of rain and cold weather.

Cumberland Plays Gilmore Today In Twilight League

Cumberland makes its home debut in the Twilight Baseball League today when it plays host to Gilmore at Fort Hill field at 5:30 p. m.

Manager Paul Stickley's team launched its campaign Monday with a 10-1 victory over Lonaconing.

Midland, a two-time winner, entertains Franklin, while Keyser is at Westernport and Barton visits Zihlman.

Pen Mar Little League To Meet

The Pen Mar Little League will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Wilson Hardware Company store here.

President Fred Cecil said the league will establish the ages of new players at this meeting.

Frostburg Is Scene Of Eighth Annual PVC Track Meet Today

Unbeaten Campers Lead Series, 9-8

Mt. Savage High School will test Allegany High's undefeated Campers in the first inter-division game of the season in the Allegany County High School Baseball League today at 4 p.m., at Mt. Savage.

Coach Chet Payne's tossers are 8-0 against Fort Hill, Allegany and Flintstone, Eastern Division opponents. Mt. Savage is 2-1 in the Western Division with wins over Valley and Bruce and a loss at the hands of Beall.

This game was moved ahead from Friday. Tomorrow Fort Hill is at Valley, LaSalle at Bruce and Flintstone at Beall.

Since the series started in 1953 the teams have met 17 times and Allegany holds a 9-8 edge in wins.

Wardensville's Warriors are slated to play the Paw Paw High Pirates in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Paw Paw. The Morgan countians defeated Wardensville in the first game of the series, 16-0, and are 3-2 in the league. Wardensville has won one and lost two.

Hyndman High School's Hornets conclude their series with Northern Bedford County High School at Hopewell today in a Bedford County League game. The N.B.C. nine took the opener by the score of 16-4.

Game Called Off

The scheduled baseball game between the Potomac State College Catamounts and Frostburg State's Bobcats at Frostburg yesterday was postponed because of inclement weather. No date has been set for the replay of the contest.

Purple Heart Takes Lead In Finals Of Shuffle Playoffs

The Purple Heart downed the Goldrn Nugget, 75-57, last night to grab an 18-point lead in their final playoffs for the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League crown. The two teams will clash again on Friday on the Nugget boards in Frostburg in the concluding three games of the six-game series.

Leading the Purple Heart in the opening match was Janet Crabtree with 22 points. Dot Lewis was high with 14 for the Nugget team.

In a consolation playoff, Corriganville Auxiliary defeated Ruth's Tavern, 86-71, on the latter's boards last night to take a 15-point edge in the six-game total point clash. Ruth Hensel topped Corriganville with 34 points while Irene Stevens had 18 for Ruth's.

The final three games of the consolation round will be held next Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at Corriganville.

Field Of 100 In Turner Golf

Tourney Enriched By Many Bonuses

BURNEYVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Waco Turner's Golf Tournament dubbed the "Poor Boy's Open" but a misnomer if there ever was one, starts Thursday with a field of more than 100 seeking official prize money totaling $20,000.

But that may be just a drop in the bucket after the wealthy oilman shells out $15 for birdies, $25 for chipins, $50 for eagles and $100 for daily low score. There's $500 waiting for any player fortunate to get a hole-in-one.

Turner inaugurated the event last year to accommodate the players who had not crashed the winners' circle on the regular PGA tour and therefore were not eligible to compete in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas on the same days.

Butch Baird took last year's top money with an 11-under-par 281 and thus qualified to play at Las Vegas this week.

The field will be headed by Jack Nicklaus, Columbus, Ohio, who turned pro this year and now is the seventh top money winner on the PGA tour. He's won $14,673.

Shippensburg Is Victor In Track Meet

Beats Lock Haven, Frostburg State

Frostburg State College dropped its second track meet this year as host Shippensburg, Pa., College won a triangular affair with the Bobcats and Lock Haven College yesterday at Shippensburg. The score was Shippensburg 79½, Lock Haven 49½, Frostburg State 33.

The winners captured nine of the 15 events with the thinclads hampered by cold and wet weather and a slow track.

Frostburg gained wins in the high hurdles, the low hurdles and the high jump. Charley Robinson won the high hurdles and tied for first in the low hurdles. Larry Patterson was the victor in the high jump.

Frostburg has won one of three meets to date this year. The summary:

Collins, Mitinger On East Squad

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ends Gary Collins of Maryland and Bob Mitinger of Penn State were added Wednesday to the roster of the East squad for the second annual All-America Bowl football game here June 29.

Collins, a 6 foot 3, 205 pounder, had an outstanding season both on offense and defense last year, and was also one of collegiate football's top punters.

Mitinger, who stands 6 foot 2 and weighs 215 lbs., was a stick-out defensive performer at Penn state, and played a key role in the Nittany Lions' 30-15 Gator Bowl victory over Georgia Tech last December.

LaSalle Awards Dinner Is Scheduled Tonight

MVPs To Be Named, Letters Presented; 150 Will Atend

LaSalle High School's most valuable players in football and basketball will be presented trophies and letters will go to other members of the student body at the school's tenth annual Awards Dinner today at 6 p.m., at SS. Peter & Paul Hall, Fayette street.

One hundred and fifty persons will attend the affair, including members of the faculty, fathers of the students and invited guests. Approximately 100 members of the student body will be present.

Dr. Leo H. Ley is the toastmaster and football, basketball and baseball players, members of the Torch staff, the school paper, and cheerleaders will be presented letters.

Among the speakers on the program are Paul "Bubbles" Thompson, new head football coach, his assistants, and George W. Geatz, basketball coach, whose 1961-62 quint shared the P.V.C. title with Keyser and won the city championship.

Most Valuable Player trophies are to be awarded for the sixth straight year. Past winners in football were Mickey Bush, Van Parsons, Jack Bahen, Raymond Mewshaw and Frank Brode. The football trophy winners have been Van Parsons, Richard Winfield, Michael Mackert, Michael Scaletta and Carroll Wilt.

Rec Softball League Meets

7 Teams Attend Initial Session

The Rec Softball League held its initial organizational meeting last night at City Hall with seven teams represented at the session.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director for the city, said the circuit will be limited to 10 teams this year because only 10 fields will be available for play by the league. Last year the league operated with 14 teams in two divisions.

Attending last night's program were Basil Williams, Post's Playground; Bill Davis, Memorial Hospital; Bill Briner, Sports Shoppe; Ron Carcella, Old Germans; Dave Lechliter, South End; Bob Shelley, Bennett's Transfer; and Bob Williams, Speed Wash Laundry.

The team managers approved a limit of five out-of-city players for each team and voted to make anyone playing in another league after last night ineligible to participate in the Rec Loop.

A discussion concerning the use of Tri-State Umpires Association arbiters in the league this year was held and a decision will be made at the next meeting on Wednesday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m., whether to use the association umps or not.

A higher entry fee was approved at last night's meeting and the league hopes to start play about May 14. Team sponsors will be approved by the rec department.

A trophy will be presented to the league pennant winner at the conclusion of the season. The Old Germans are the defending champions.

Shaughnessy-Type Playoffs Adopted By Little League

The baseball committee of the Dapper Dan Club, acting on the suggestion of the little league managers, adopted a Shaughnessy-type playoff for the two-division circuit this year, rescinding the original plan to have a split season.

The new program calls for the top four teams in each division to participate in a "sudden death" semi-final playoff at the conclusion of the regular season. The first and third place teams will meet in one game and the second and fourth place teams will clash in the other tilt in each division.

Winners of these games will meet in best-of-three series to determine the division champions. The division champs then will collide in a best-of-three finale for the league title.

The Dapper Dan Little League managers at a meeting on Monday also adopted the plan that six outs will constitute one full inning of play in meeting the requirements that 15 players must participate in at least one inning of every game, and that all players must play at least one inning every week.

The next league meeting will be held June 4 at City Hall when the team rosters and player contracts will be turned in by the managers.

Game Postponed, Another Reset

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies - Milwaukee Braves game scheduled for Wednesday night was postponed because of rain and cold weather. It will be rescheduled at a later date.

The game that was called off Tuesday night because of bad weather was rescheduled for Saturday, July 21 as part of a twi-night doubleheader.

Game Called Off

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The baseball game scheduled for Wednesday night between the Cleveland Indians and the Los Angeles Angels has been postponed because of rain and cold weather.

Cumberland Plays Gilmore Today In Twilight League

Cumberland makes its home debut in the Twilight Baseball League today when it plays host to Gilmore at Fort Hill field at 5:30 p. m.

Manager Paul Stickley's team launched its campaign Monday with a 10-1 victory over Lonaconing.

Midland, a two-time winner, entertains Franklin, while Keyser is at Westernport and Barton visits Zihlman.

Pen Mar Little League To Meet

The Pen Mar Little League will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Wilson Hardware Company store here.

President Fred Cecil said the league will establish the ages of new players at this meeting.

1955 Chevrolet 4-door Wagon

Here is a wagon like everyone wants a chance to buy. It is a two-tone of blue and white finish. The interior is also a two-tone of blue and white upholstery made of all vinyl, (that is washable). This wagon has never been in commercial use and shows the excellent care it has received. It has the V-8 engine with standard shift and will give you high gas mileage. It is equipped with heater, defroster, radio, signal lights, plus the small accessories. We have checked this car through the garage and it is in A-1 condition. It should be trouble-free for thousands of miles and our price is only—

Bednarik Signs For 14th Season

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Chuck Bednarik signed for his 14th season with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League Wednesday. The 37-year-old center-linebacker said this might be his last season, and he hoped to go out with a winner.

Referring to Bednarik's oft-repeated retirement pronouncement, Eagles General Manager Vince McNally asked him if he'd like to put this in writing. Bednaik grinned and replied, "I guess not."

Fishing Rodeo Meeting Planned

The initial meeting to discuss plans for the annual fishing rodeo will be held today at 8 p. m. at City Hall. Representatives of the Cumberland Outdoor Club, Oldtown Sportsman's Club and the City Recreation Department will attend.

The rodeo is slated for Saturday, June 30, at the Battle Mixon fishing hole in Oldtown.

Movies taken by the Rec Department of the rodeo the past two years will be shown at tonight's meeting.

Shoeless Runner

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—University of Arizona distance man Larry Main didn't blame his shoes when he failed to win the two-mile race against the University of New Mexico.

Main has wide, flat feet and finds barefoot running more comfortable.

Whizzer Showed 'Em

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Harry Carlson, director of athletics at Colorado, tells this one about By-on (Whizzer) White, All-America alfback in 1937 who now is a J. S. Supreme Court justice:

White had an injured knee in a whirlpool bath. In his hands was a textbook. Coach Bunny Oakes came in and snorted his star halfback should be doing something worthwhile, like boning up on plays.

To which White replied: "You take care of the football. I'll take care of the books."

Rocking Chair League To Meet

The Rocking Chair Softball League will hold a meeting Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Wilson Hardware Company store here. Forfeit fees and team rosters are due at this meeting, president William "Bee" Orndorff announced.

Beagle Club Plans Point Trial Saturday

The Allegany Beagle Club will hold the second in a series of six planned point trials this Saturday at the club grounds on the Barton farm.

The 13-inch drawings will be held at 8 a. m. and the 15-inch class will be drawn at 1 p. m.

Local members will judge the events and refreshments will be served at the clubhouse.

A Lot Of Fans

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale-Harvard football has attracted a total of about 1.5 million persons to the Yale Bowl since the concrete canyon was dedicated in 1914.

The fact that the traditional rivals battle in the bowl in odd years—this November they play in Harvard Stadium—makes the figure even more impressive.

Farmers and Gardeners agree Fertrell THE ALL-PURPOSE PLANT FOOD IS BEST!

FARMERS BENEFIT

Fertrell builds humus that helps to retain moisture in the soil. In case of droughts it will help keep crops growing and green when crops not having the benefit of FERTRELL are wilted and brown.

Fertrell is a balanced plant food that can be used for all purposes on pastures, hayfields, grainfields, corn, vegetables, fruits and all other crops on any farm.

Fertrell has no "filler." Every bit of it is a balanced plant food.

Fertrell does not cake in the bag and will flow freely in any standard spreader.

GARDENERS BENEFIT

Fertrell provides all the elements so difficult for the small gardener to obtain from the average garden supply store (except in incomplete mixtures requiring the purchase of several different packages — meaning many separate applications).

Fertrell means better flowers with natural vigor and more brilliant coloring of leaves and blooms.

Fertrell means better lawns—lawns that have that green freshness and luxurious velvety appearance.

Fertrell means healthier vegetables, fruit and berries because it is a natural product and not artificially produced.

Fertrell HAS A LASTING EFFECT ON SOIL!

Fertrell not only fulfills the role of providing everything your soil needs during the first year, it adds richness to the soil, as it does not burn out any of its nutrient elements but helps to store them for future years.

HERE IS WHAT FERTRELL CONTAINS

FOR NITROGEN, PHOSPHORUS, POTASH, CALCIUM, MAGNESIUM & HUMUS

Bloodmeal	Crab Meal	Tobacco Dust
Bonemeal	Agrinite	Slag
Castor Pomace	Turkey Manure	Phosphate Rock
Cocoa Shells	Feather Tankage	Green Sand

Bednarik Signs For 14th Season

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Chuck Bednarik signed for his 14th season with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League Wednesday. The 37-year-old center-linebacker said this might be his last season, and he hoped to go out with a winner.

Referring to Bednarik's oft-repeated retirement pronouncement, Eagles General Manager Vince McNally asked him if he'd like to put this in writing. Bednaik grinned and replied, "I guess not."

Fishing Rodeo Meeting Planned

The initial meeting to discuss plans for the annual fishing rodeo will be held today at 8 p. m. at City Hall. Representatives of the Cumberland Outdoor Club, Oldtown Sportsman's Club and the City Recreation Department will attend.

The rodeo is slated for Saturday, June 30, at the Battie Mixon fishing hole in Oldtown.

Movies taken by the Rec Department of the rodeo the past two years will be shown at tonight's meeting.

Shoeless Runner

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—University of Arizona distance man Larry Main didn't blame his shoes when he failed to win the two-mile race against the University of New Mexico.

Main has wide, flat feet and finds barefoot running more comfortable.

Whizzer Showed 'Em

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Harry Carlson, director of athletics at Colorado, tells this one about Byron (Whizzer) White, All-America halfback in 1937 who now is a U. S. Supreme Court justice:

White had an injured knee in a whirlpool bath. In his hands was a textbook. Coach Bunny Oakes came in and snorted his star halfback should be doing something worthwhile, like boning up on plays.

To which White replied: "You take care of the football. I'll take care of the books."

Rocking Chair League To Meet

Beagle Club Plans Point Trial Saturday

The Allegany Beagle Club will hold the second in a series of six planned point trials this Saturday at the club grounds on the Barton farm.

The 13-inch drawings will be held at 8 a. m. and the 15-inch class will be drawn at 1 p. m.

Local members will judge the events and refreshments will be served at the clubhouse.

A Lot Of Fans

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale-Harvard football has attracted a total of about 1.5 million persons to the Yale Bowl since the concrete canyon was dedicated in 1914.

The fact that the traditional rivals battle in the bowl in odd years—this November they play in Harvard Stadium—makes the figure even more impressive.

Farmers and Gardeners agree Fertrell THE ALL-PURPOSE PLANT FOOD IS BEST!

FARMERS BENEFIT

Fertrell builds humus that helps to retain moisture in the soil. In case of droughts it will help keep crops growing and green when crops not having the benefit of FERTRELL are wilted and brown.

Fertrell is a balanced plant food that can be used for all purposes on pastures, hayfields, grainfields, corn, vegetables, fruits and all other crops on any farm.

Fertrell has no "filler." Every bit of it is a balanced plant food.

Fertrell does not cake in the bag and will flow freely in any standard spreader.

GARDENERS BENEFIT

Fertrell provides all the elements so difficult for the small gardener to obtain from the average garden supply store (except in incomplete mixtures requiring the purchase of several different packages — meaning many separate applications).

Fertrell means better flowers with natural vigor and more brilliant coloring of leaves and blooms.

Fertrell means better lawns—lawns that have that green freshness and luxurious velvety appearance.

Fertrell means healthier vegetables, fruit and berries because it is a natural product and not artificially produced.

Fertrell HAS A LASTING EFFECT ON SOIL!

Fertrell not only fulfills the role of providing everything your soil needs during the first year, it adds richness to the soil, as it does not burn out any of its nutrient elements but helps to store them for future years.

HERE IS WHAT FERTRELL CONTAINS

FOR NITROGEN, PHOSPHORUS, POTASH, CALCIUM, MAGNESIUM & HUMUS

Bloodmeal	Crab Meal	Tobacco Dust
Bonemeal	Agrinite	Slag
Castor Pomace	Turkey Manure	Phosphate Rock
Cocoa Shells	Feather Tankage	Green Sand
Cotton Hull Ashes	Animal Tankage	Oyster Meal

FOR MINERALS: F.T.E. (Fritted Trace Elements)

Stocks Close Irregularly Higher; Trading Slackens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed irregularly higher on sharply reduced trading Wednesday, despite light but persistent afternoon selling in blue chips and many defense issues.

The market shot ahead for a brief period early in the session with the high speed tickers running late, but prices soon leveled off and began sinking as trading steadily diminished.

Pointing to the selling pressure on pivotal issues, Dow-Jones industrials lost 1.28, but the more inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index managed to show a gain of 0.29.

Trading trailed off to 3,780,000 shares from the 1962 high of 5,100,000 set Tuesday when prices experienced what traders call a "selling climax" and then spiraled back upward for a big gain.

Only 1,285 issues were traded—34 less than the prior session. Advances outnumbered declines by the top-heavy score of 707 to 371, but only 11 issues hit 1962 highs while 56 reached new lows.

Dow-Jones rails rose 0.99, the entire group aided by news an ICC examiner had given a green light to the B&O-C&O merger. These issues were up ½ and ⅝, respectively, and Great Northern and Kansas City Southern added over a point.

Stocks Close Irregularly Higher; Trading Slackens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed irregularly higher on sharply reduced trading Wednesday, despite light but persistent afternoon selling in blue chips and many defense issues.

The market shot ahead for a brief period early in the session with the high speed tickers running late, but prices soon leveled off and began sinking as trading steadily diminished.

Pointing to the selling pressure on pivotal issues, Dow-Jones industrials lost 1.28, but the more inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index managed to show a gain of 0.29.

Trading trailed off to 3,780,000 shares from the 1962 high of 5,100,000 set Tuesday when prices experienced what traders call a "selling climax" and then spiraled back upward for a big gain.

Only 1,285 issues were traded—34 less than the prior session. Advances outnumbered declines by the top-heavy score of 707 to 371, but only 11 issues hit 1962 highs while 56 reached new lows.

Dow-Jones rails rose 0.99, the entire group aided by news an ICC examiner had given a green light to the B&O-C&O merger. These issues were up ½ and ⅝, respectively, and Great Northern and Kansas City Southern added over a point.

In Memoriam

In memory of Henry (Dude) Atkinson who passed away May 3, 1959.
Softly the stars are shinning
Upon a precious grave,
Beneath lies one we dearly loved
But whom we could not save.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile,
Little do they know the heartaches
That our smiles hide all the while.

In Memoriam

In memory of Henry (Dude) Atkinson who passed away May 3, 1959.
Softly the stars are shinning
Upon a precious grave,
Beneath lies one we dearly loved
But whom we could not save.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile,
Little do they know the heartaches
That our smiles hide all the while.

YOU MIGHT not see an ad for a current model automobile or a slightly used television set in a newspaper a couple of centuries old, but one thing sure you'll find want ads. This proves that want ads have always brought results and are definitely here to stay.

Dorothy Evans vs. Raymond Evans. No. 26421 Equity In the Circuit Court For Allegany County, Maryland.
ORDER NISI ON SALE
ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, this 1st day of May, 1962, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Horace P. Whitworth Jr. and William L. Wilson, Trustees, appointed by an Order of this Court to make said sale, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 2nd day of June next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some daily newspaper, printed in the Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of three successive weeks before the 26th day of May next.
The report states the amount of the sale to be $7,225.00.

YOU MIGHT not see an ad for a current model automobile or a slightly used television set in a newspaper a couple of centuries old, but one thing sure you'll find want ads. This proves that want ads have always brought results and are definitely here to stay.

Dorothy Evans vs. Raymond Evans. No. 26421 Equity In the Circuit Court For Allegany County, Maryland.
ORDER NISI ON SALE
ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, this 1st day of May, 1962, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Horace P. Whitworth Jr. and William L. Wilson, Trustees, appointed by an Order of this Court to make said sale, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 2nd day of June next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some daily newspaper, printed in the Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of three successive weeks before the 26th day of May next.
The report states the amount of the sale to be $7,225.00.

Boy Drowns In Pond At Petersburg

Victim Was Riding Pony Near Water

An 11-year-old boy drowned yesterday evening in a farm pound on the property of C. A. Kisamore near Petersburg, W. Va.

The youth, Larry Tobert Mullenax, son of William E. and Anna G. (Harman) Mullenex of Pansy, W. Va., was pronounced dead on arrival at Grant Memorial Hospital in Petersburg.

The Mullanex youth was with a school friend, Allen Vandevander, and the two boys planned to spend the night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kisamore, grandparents of the Vandevander boy.

It was reported the Mullanex youth was riding a pony when the animal either threw him into the pond or he fell off the pony into the pond.

The Vandevander boy tried to pull his friend from the water, but was unable to do so. He then ran to the Kisamore residence and the Schaeffer Ambulance service was called.

Paul Riggleman, an employe of the ambulance service, pulled the boy from the water and applied artificial respiration. The Mullanex boy then was rushed to the hospital but was pronuonced dead on arrival. The accident occurred at 4:30 p. m.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two sisters, Dianna K. and Peggy L. Mullanax, both at home; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harman, Mozer, W. Va., and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Mullanex, Pansy.

The body will be at the Schaeffer Funeral Home, Petersburg, after 7 p. m. today.

Pa. Man Tried In Oakland On Auto Charges

James R. Martin of Confluence, Pa., yesterday afternoon was sentenced to four and a half years in jail after pleading guilty to separate charges of auto larceny and the larceny of auto tires and wheels and other parts when he was tried in Garret County Circuit Court at Oakland.

Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill suspended the sentences and placed Martin on parole for a similar period.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney who presented the state's cases, said Martin pleaded guilty to the larceny of an auto belonging to Bernardine Long of McHenry and was sentenced to three years in the Maryland House of Correction.

He also pleaded guilty to the larceny of auto tires and wheels and other auto parts belonging to Harry Vitez of Accident. The sentences which were suspended were to run consecutively.

Jack R. Turney was court-appointed counsel for the defendant, who was indicted by the grand jury of the March term of court.

Tawes Cites Progress; Barrick Slaps At Finan

Tawes

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Gov. Tawes, fighting to hold the votes of watermen on his native Eastern Shore, boasted Wednesday night more seed oysters were planted by the state in four weeks recently than in four years of the preceding administration.

Tawes told a rally in his campaign for renomination at the American Legion hall he took pride in his administration's aid for tidewater fisheries—"an area that has suffered through the distortions made by my opponent."

As usual, Tawes did not name which of his six opponents for Democratic nomination May 15 he meant. But as usual, it was assumed to be George P. Mahoney. Mahoney, in his shore visits, has criticized Tawes for not naming a representative of the working watermen to the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

"I would like to point out that the watermen in Dorchester and every other tidewater county, through their county committees of oystermen, have had a deciding vote in the shell and seed planting program," Tawes said.

This program, he continued, now is planting more than six million bushels of oyster shells annually on bars and seed beds—"more shells in a single year than were planted during the entire four years of the preceding administration.

"During the first four weeks of the 1962 seed transplanting program which began March 19, almost a half million bushels of seed oysters were moved to the natural bars.

"There were more seed oysters planted in four weeks than were planted in four years by the previous administration."

Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican, was the former governor.

Gov. Tawes also spoke on recent industrial development in Cambridge in which he said he basked in reflected glory. He mentioned location of three new industries and opening of another Friday that will provide 1,500 jobs.

While Tawes was in Cambridge, his Baltimore headquarters announced endorsement of him by a former opponent. Bruce S. Campbell, a Baltimore County businessman who ran second to Tawes in the 1958 Democratic primary, said he was endorsing the incumbent and running mates because of their experience.

Mahoney

BALTIMORE (AP)—Samuel W. Barrick, seeking the Democratic nomination for attorney general on a ticket headed by gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney, accused Thomas B. Finan of running scared in his charges that Mahoney had made a deal with Baltimore political boss Jack Pollack.

Finan is running for attorney general on the ticket headed by Gov. Tawes.

"Finan has now emerged as the official hatchet man for the Tawes gang," Barrick charged. "If he continues in the role—using violent, vituperative language, staging public temper tantrums, hiring television time to tell half-truths and outright lies — I am afraid he will do permanent damage to the dignity of the office of attorney general."

Barrick said it was a matter of wounded pride with Tawes that he was unable to get the support of Pollack.

"On the last day before the Pollack workers voted so overwhelmingly for Mahoney, Tawes' henchmen pleaded desperately with Pollack to support Tawes. Each time, they made offers which Mr. Pollack has described as staggering," Barrick said.

"What the Tawes camp can't stand is that Mahoney got for nothing what they were willing to pay and pay and pay for," he said.

Witnesses Expect 700

Preliminary plans are being laid by Jehovah's Witnesses to receive visiting delegates coming to Cumberland for the Witnesses May 11-13 seminar.

John C. Richmond Jr., overseer of the local group, said the facilities of the National Guard Armory have been obtained for the three-day session.

More than 20 volunteers are trying to find persons with a spare room to rent visitors.

Mr. Richmond has turned his home into a rooming headquarters. As accomodations are obtained, they are processed, filed and then matched with the requests coming from parts of West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

More than 700 are expected to attend.

Radiation Course Will Begin Today

A five-week course on radiation begins this evening at 7:30 at the Bowling Green fire hall under auspices of the volunteer fire company.

Fallout, radiation, shielding etc. will be included in the radiological meter course, said Harry R. Thomas, instructor.

Area volunteer firemen as well as residents of Bowling Green and Potomac Park are welcome to attend the sessions.

Suit Charges Pollack With Vote Conspiracy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two taxi drivers named Abramson testifed Wednesday they were urged to run for the Maryland House of Delegates—against an incumbent of the same name—by Jack Pollack who also gave them their $25 filing fees.

Judge Joseph Allen directed that the testimony of one, Nathan S. Abramson, be sent to the state's attorney for possible perjury action. Abramson first testified it was his own idea to file but he later recanted and said he filled out a form in Pollack's home.

The suit was filed in behalf of Del. Murray Abramson, who is seeking Democratic nomination in the 4th District where Pollack is a party leader. Abramson had been associated with the Pollack organization, but is aligned with forces opposing him in the May 15 primary.

Abramson charged Pollack with a conspiracy by inducing the two cab drivers, Nathan S. Abramson and Joseph Abramson, to file so as to confuse voters.

Joseph Abramson admitted freely he had been asked by Pollack to file for both the House and Senate. Abramson said the forms were filled out by Lawrence Goodman, an election board clerk and that Pollack gave him the fees.

Abramson withdrew from the Senate race and testified Pollack told him to keep the $25 fee which was returned.

Pollack was subjected to sharp questioning by Hyman Pressman, lawyer for Abramson who has been an outspoken foe of the political leader.

Pollack replied "don't remember" to virtually all of Pressman's questions about any association with the two Abramsons.

In addition to the "Abramson" name game in the 4th District, there was one in the neighboring 5th on "Friedman is seeking to stay in the House from the 5th, where he has moved. Opponents include another Friedman, one Freedman, a Freidman and a Frieman.

College Here Begins Plans For Next Year

Classes To Start On September 17

Although it seems like a long way off, William H. Smerling, registrar of Allegany Community College here, is reminding high school seniors and other interested persons that the college will hold its fall registration between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and 6:30 and 8 p.m. on September 12 and 13. Classes will begin on September 17.

Applications for admission to the college for enrollment in a degree program should be on file prior to registration. The tuition cost for a full time student living in Allegany County is $100 a semester. The tuition cost for a part time student is $10 per semester hour of credit. A matriculation fee of $10 is payable at the time of application to the college. This fee is paid only once as long as the student attends the college. Other fees are variable and are listed on the schedule of classes.

All students who wish to enroll in a degree curriculum are expected to file an application for admission, a transcript from all institutions attended including high school, take the entrance examination, have a medical report on file, have an affidavit concerning residence on file and supply a recent photograph. Students entering a degree program must have taken part in the American College Testing program.

Special students or those who are not participating in the degree curriculum should complete and return an application as a special student, supply a transcript from all institutions attended including the high school record, have an affidavit concerning residence on file, including a recent photograph.

Questions regarding admission, registration, and course offerings should be directed to the registrar. Mr. Smerling may be contacted at PA 4-7700. Letters should be addressed: The Registrat, Allegany Community College, Cumberland, Md.

Contest Winners To Speak To Club

The declamation contest winners at Allegany and Fort Hill high schools will be guests of the Kiwanis Club at its meeting today at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA.

John Balch of Allegany High and Cynthia Siehler of Fort Hill will speak on "Water Conservation in the Potomac River Basin."

Local Girl To Graduate From Mooseheart June 8

Joyce M. Fulk, sponsored at the Moose Child City by Cumberland Moose Lodge 271, is among the 48 seniors who will be graduated from Mooseheart High School at commencement exercises Friday, June 8, at 7 p. m.

In addition to receiving the traditional high school diploma, Joyce will receive a vocational training certfifcate for home economics.

The Fulk family was admitted to Mooseheart on April 9, 1949. Dennis was graduated from Mooseheart High School in 1960 and William remains at the Child City.

While at Mooseheart, Joyce was a member of the Girl Scouts, Girls Athletic Association and the Mooseheart Chapter of the Future Nurses Association. During her senior year, Joyce placed third in Illinois GAA swimming competition and received a trophy.

Joyce plans to make a trip to California before making her home with her sister, Mrs. Betty Wilhelm, in Cleveland, Ohio, where she hopes to find a job.

The commencement speaker will be the supreme governor of the Loyal Order of Moose, Dr. Harry C. Byrd of College Park, who served as president of the University of Maryland for 18 years before he retired.

Fatal Crash Driver Faces Manslaughter

John J. Clancey In Hospital Here

John J. Clancey, 27, of Philadelphia, driver of one of two cars involved in a fatal accident late Saturday afternoon on U. S. Route 40 near Grantsville, will be charged with manslaughter by motor vehicle.

State's Attorney, W. Dwight Stover of Oakland said Trooper Robert B. Cave of the State Police obtained a warrant for Clancey's arrest from Trial Magistrate John W. Holman at Friendsville.

Clancey, who was admitted to Meyersdale, Pa., Community Hospital and later transferred to Memorial Hospital here, is reported in "fair" condition. He sustained chest injuries and numerous lacerations about his body.

Boy, 15, Died

Samuel B. Gromer, 15-year-old Silver Spring youth, victim of the accident, died Sunday en route to Children's Hospital in Bethesda where he was being transferred from the Meyersdale hospital.

Authorities of Virginia have indicated they will extradite Clancey after he is prosecuted in Maryland, and will charge him with grand larceny of the auto he was driving west on Route 40. The auto was reported stolen from Richmond.

Gromer's father, Jonathan B. Gromer, 50, driver of the other car, was seriously injured in the crash and was transferred from the Meyersdale hospital to a Washington hospital. He sustained a fractured leg and arm, chest injuries and lacerations.

Chased By Trooper

Just prior to the fatal accident Trooper Cave had noticed Clancey driving through Grantsville at a high rate of speed. He gave chase and Clancey failed to negotiate a sharp left curve about three-quarters of a mile west of Grantsville.

The car ran off the shoulder of the highway, skidded back across the road and rammed headon into the Gromer car, which was traveling east.

Tfc. Donald Wade is assisting Trooper Cave in the investigation of the accident, the second fatal crash in Garrett County this year. The first occurred April 11 when James L. Childs, 58, of Oakland, was killed in a two-vehicle collision near Gortner.

Woman Is Overcome By Smoke

A 69-year-old local woman who was overcome by smoke yesterday at her home and revived with oxygen administered by city police was reported "improving" last night at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Miss Eleanor C. Leasure of 951 Bedford Street was found in the bathroom of her upstairs apartment by City Police Officer James Swann, who administered for about five minutes.

She reportedly had been cooking on the kitchen stove when the contents of the skillet began to smoke, filling the apartment with smoke.

Firemen at Central Fire Station received a call at 3:50 p.m. from Mrs. Leasure's downstairs neighbor who requested that a pulmotor be sent to the Bedford Street address.

The firemen in turn called the police department and asked that the department's pneolator be rushed to the Leasure apartment. Firemen also called the McDonald ambulance since the emergency truck at Central was at the scene of a two-alarm fire on Potomac Street.

LaVale Library Closed

The LaVale Library will be closed the rest of the week because of repairs, according to Mrs. Richard Heacox, librarian. Regular hours will be resumed on Monday.

Contested Offices:

House Of Delegates Race Should Be Interesting

This is the third in a series of articles on some of the most important offices that will be at stake in this year's elections.

One of the most interesting contests in the May 15 primary election will be between 12 Republicans and six Democrats who are seeking the six positions as delegates to the General Assembly of Maryland from Allegany County.

Since there are only six Democrats seeking positions in the House of Delegates, there will not be any competition in that party in the primary election and their names will not appear on the ballot.

However, on the Republican side of the ballot, six of the 12 candidates will be eliminated May 15 and six will remain to compete against the six Democrats in the general election in November.

The Qualifications

In order to qualify as a candidate for the House of Delegates, a person must be at least 21 years old at the time of the election. The candidate also must have a resident of Maryland for at least three years and must have resided in the county he wants to represent for at least a year prior to the election.

The six persons selected by the votors of Allegany County to represent them for the next four years at Annapolis will be required to attend a 90-day session during the odd-numbered years and a 30-day session in the even numbered years.

The Job

While at Annapolis during the sessions of the General Assembly, the delegates will vote on bills which pertain to the state and also enact legislation for their respective counties or special taxing areas. (The Senate also must approve bills and the governor must sign them before they become laws).

Only laws regarding budget matters and state-wide bills are acted upon during the short 30-day session, so delegates can introduce local legislation only every two years. Several local bills are introduced every other year from the counties, but only a portion are ever enacted into law.

By virtue of its population, Allegany County is entitled to the maximum number of delegates—six. The membership of the House of Delegates originally was determined by a population formula, but an amendment to the Maryland Constitution adopted in 1950 froze the membership at 123.

However, the alignment of delegates from the 23 counties and six legislative districts may be changed if a law to reapportion them is passed by the General Assembly.

At present time there are four Republicans and two Democrats representing Allegany County in the House of Delegates. Oddly enough, this county is the only delegation which has a majority of Republicans. The Republicans are very much in the minority in the lower house — 116 to 7.

The Salary

Delegates receive an annual salary of $1,800, plus $20 a day for expenses during each session. They also receive stamp and stationery money and are given mileage expense money for one trip to Annapolis and return. For the Allegany County delegates the mileage is $80, payable only once each session.

However, a bill passed in January by the General Assembly will increase the salary of a senator and delegate from $1,800 to $3,000. This increase is subject to approval by the voters of Maryland and they will decide the issue when it is placed on the ballot in November.

Unlike the 29 state senators, each of whom is provided with a

DOUGLAS F. KAY

Douglas F. Kay Heads Amcelle Quality Control

Douglas F. Kay joined the Celanese Fibers Company's Amcelle Plant this week as quality control superintendent, W. E. Crooks, plant manager, announced that Mr. Kay replaces Robert G. Walters, who was transferred to the position of extrusion manufacturing superintendent.

Prior to his current post at Amcelle, Mr. Kay was a senior chemist in the Quality Control Department of the Celanese Corporation's Celco Plant, Narrows, Va. He had been affiliated with the Reynolds Metal Company, Richmond, and the Shell Development Company, Houston, as a chemist before joining Celanese.

A graduate of the University of Texas, Austin, Mr. Kay has done advanced study at the University of Richmond and at the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond.

He is a native of England and served as a navigator in the Royal Air Force during World War II. While attending school in England, he was awarded the Lord Leverhume Chemistry Prize at Bolton College. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and of the American Society for Quality Control.

Mrs. Kay and their daughter, Lisa Ann, 7, will join Mr. Kay here soon.

Musicians To Present Concert

Instrumental musicians from 15 Allegany County schools will participate in a spring concert at 8 p. m. Friday in the Fort Hill High School auditorium, according to LaVern J. Hahn, county supervisor of music education.

Participating in the concert will be the area elementary band directed by Robert O. Nutter, and the area elementary and junior high school orchsetras, directed by Miss Christina MacDonald.

The band portion of the program will include at least eight selections. They are Sousa Medley by Sousa-Ortone; Cowboy Medley by Ortone; The German Band by Gregory; O Sole Mio by DiCupa; Junior Band March by Taylor; March Slav by Tschaikowsky; La Cucarracha by Gregory and Onward America by Gregory.

The orchestral program will begin with Mozart's Lullaby and end with Plink, Plank, Plunk!, both played by the combined orchestra. The elementary orchestra also will offer Chiapanecas by DeCamp, Chimes of Spring by Linke and Parade of the Wooden Soldiers by Jessel.

Selections to be played by the junior high school orchestra include Bouree by Bach, Country Gardens, an English folk tune. Elaine Sirbaugh will play Liszt's Liebstraum as a piano solo.

Schools to be represented at the concert are Centre Street, Columbia Street, Cresaptown, East Side, Flintstone, Gephart, John Humbird, Johnson Heights, LaVale, Mount Royal, Northeastern, Parkside, Pennsylvania Avenue, Virginia Avenue and West Side.

Bloodmobile Unit Plans Visit To PPG On Monday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit from Johnstown, Pa., will visit the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at North Branch on Monday.

Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross, said blood will be collected during the hours of 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Recruitment chairman at the glass plant is Richard Heacox, who pointed out that the quota is 200 pints of blood.

On Tuesday, the bloodmible unit will visit the VFW Home in Lonaconing from noon until 6 p.m.

2-Alarm Blaze Damages Home On Potomac St.

Fire Originates In Front Room

A two-alarm fire yesterday afternoon caused extensive damage to a house at 119 Potomac Street. No one was injured.

The blaze, believed to have originated in the front room downstairs, was confined to one side of the double frame dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James G. Muir, who were not at home when the fire started.

Firemen from South End station received an initial call about 3:30 p.m. Minutes later firemen from Central Station were called for assistance.

The fire was believed to have started in a couch in the front room of the six-room house, according to firemen, who said the flames spread through the room and up the stairway to a bedroom.

A middle room downstairs was damaged by the fire, which burned some clothing Mrs. Muir was in the process of ironing. The kitchen in the rear of the house was not damaged, said firemen.

The couch was destroyed and other furnishings in the front room were damaged. Firemen said they did not have to use much water in quenching the blaze.

Fire Inspector Edward Trost said he plans to go to the house this morning to make an investigation to learn the cause of the blaze.

Occupants of the other side of the dwelling were moving furniture from their house after the fire broke out, firemen said.

Mrs. Bennett Is Given Life Imprisonment

The three judges who presided in the trial of Mrs. Garnette Mae Bennett, 39, yesterday rejected a motion for a new trial which had been asked by defense counsel John Sullivan and then sentenced the woman to life imprisonment.

She had been found guilty of first degree murder of her husband, Moses Sylvester Bennett, 41, by a jury of eight men and four women with a recommendation of mercy. This made the life sentence mandatory and saved her from paying the death penalty.

The slaying of Bennett took place last January 31 at the couple's home on Willowbrook Road. She used a 16 guage shotgun to kill her husband.

Sullivan had asked the court to grant a new trial on one point in the instructions which the judges had given the jury and also on the basis of "new evidence."

After hearing testimony by a man brought forth by defense counsel as having "new evidence," the court rejected the motion.

The testimony before the court was to the effect that certain evidence at the home where Moses Sylvester Bennett, 41, was shot to death by his wife last January 31, had been moved by a member of the sheriff's office.

Charles McDonald, who is connected with the ambulance service called to the home, told the judges at yesterday's hearing that the jacket and knife of Bennett had been moved, but not until after the scene had been photographed by Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator. In a statement submitted by Attorney John Sullivan, counsel for Mrs. Bennett, the ambulance man stated only as to the sequence of events that morning.

Judge D. Kenneth McLaughlin of Washington County commented that "this is a serious charge." The jurist then read from the testimony the statement by Mrs. Bennett in which she said her husband stood in the doorway and stared at her. She pointed the gun at her husband and shot him and he staggered into the room.

"Is it your contention that the officer was 'making a case' against your client?" Judge McLaughlin asked. Sullivan said that he was only interested in justice in the case and was sworn to do everything to defend his client.

James S. Getty, state's attorney, said that any additional evidence was new to him. He then told the court that despite what had been submitted by the defense counsel the evidence had clearly pointed to premeditation.

Chief Judge Harris also commented that the accused had testified as to the position of her husband in the doorway and the location of the jacket and knife had nothing to do with the testimony which showed she had loaded the gun and had obtained the shells two days prior to the shooting.

Council Of Engineers Meets Tomorrow

Cumberland Council 53, Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers, will meet at Ali Ghan Country Club Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Officers will be nominated and elected, and one new member will be received into the council.

Wilmer Nunamaker, worthy chief, asked that all members make a special effort to attend tomorrow night's meeting.

Boy Drowns In Pond At Petersburg

Victim Was Riding Pony Near Water

An 11-year-old boy drowned yesterday evening in a farm pound on the property of C. A. Kisamore near Petersburg, W. Va.

The youth, Larry Tobert Mullenax, son of William E. and Anna G. (Harman) Mullenex of Pansy, W. Va., was pronounced dead on arrival at Grant Memorial Hospital in Petersburg.

The Mullanex youth was with a school friend, Allen Vandevander, and the two boys planned to spend the night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kisamore, grandparents of the Vandevander boy.

It was reported the Mullanex youth was riding a pony when the animal either threw him into the pond or he fell off the pony into the pond.

The Vandevander boy tried to pull his friend from the water, but was unable to do so. He then ran to the Kisamore residence and the Schaeffer Ambulance service was called.

Paul Riggleman, an employe of the ambulance service, pulled the boy from the water and applied artificial respiration. The Mullanex boy then was rushed to the hospital but was pronuonced dead on arrival. The accident occurred at 4:30 p. m.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two sisters, Dianna K. and Peggy L. Mullanax, both at home; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harman, Mozer, W. Va., and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Mullanex, Pansy.

The body will be at the Schaeffer Funeral Home, Petersburg, after 7 p. m. today.

Pa. Man Tried In Oakland On Auto Charges

James R. Martin of Confluence, Pa., yesterday afternoon was sentenced to four and a half years in jail after pleading guilty to separate charges of auto larceny and the larceny of auto tires and wheels and other parts when he was tried in Garret County Circuit Court at Oakland.

Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill suspended the sentences and placed Martin on parole for a similar period.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney who presented the state's cases, said Martin pleaded guilty to the larceny of an auto belonging to Bernardine Long of McHenry and was sentenced to three years in the Maryland House of Correction.

He also pleaded guilty to the larceny of auto tires and wheels and other auto parts belonging to Harry Vitez of Accident. The sentences which were suspended were to run consecutively.

Jack R. Turney was court-appointed counsel for the defendant, who was indicted by the grand jury of the March term of court.

Tawes

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Gov. Tawes, fighting to hold the votes of watermen on his native Eastern Shore, boasted Wednesday night more seed oysters were planted by the state in four weeks recently than in four years of the preceding administration.

Tawes told a rally in his campaign for renomination at the American Legion hall he took pride in his administration's aid for tidewater fisheries—"an area that has suffered through the distortions made by my opponent."

As usual, Tawes did not name which of his six opponents for Democratic nomination May 15 he meant. But as usual, it was assumed to be George P. Mahoney. Mahoney, in his shore visits, has criticized Tawes for not naming a representative of the working watermen to the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

"I would like to point out that the watermen in Dorchester and every other tidewater county, through their county committees of oystermen, have had a deciding vote in the shell and seed planting program," Tawes said.

This program, he continued, now is planting more than six million bushels of oyster shells annually on bars and seed beds—"more shells in a single year than were planted during the entire four years of the preceding administration.

"During the first four weeks of the 1962 seed transplanting program which began March 19, almost a half million bushels of seed oysters were moved to the natural bars.

"There were more seed oysters planted in four weeks than were planted in four years by the previous administration."

Theodore R. McKeldin, Republican, was the former governor.

Gov. Tawes also spoke on recent industrial development in Cambridge in which he said he basked in reflected glory. He mentioned location of three new industries and opening of another Friday that will provide 1,500 jobs.

While Tawes was in Cambridge, his Baltimore headquarters announced endorsement of him by a former opponent. Bruce S. Campbell, a Baltimore County businessman who ran second to Tawes in the 1958 Democratic primary, said he was endorsing the incumbent and running mates because of their experience.

Mahoney

BALTIMORE (AP)—Samuel W. Barrick, seeking the Democratic nomination for attorney general on a ticket headed by gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney, accused Thomas B. Finan of running scared in his charges that Mahoney had made a deal with Baltimore political boss Jack Pollack.

Finan is running for attorney general on the ticket headed by Gov. Tawes.

"Finan has now emerged as the official hatchet man for the Tawes gang," Barrick charged. "If he continues in the role—using violent, vituperative language, staging public temper tantrums, hiring television time to tell half-truths and outright lies — I am afraid he will do permanent damage to the dignity of the office of attorney general."

Barrick said it was a matter of wounded pride with Tawes that he was unable to get the support of Pollack.

"On the last day before the Pollack workers voted so overwhelmingly for Mahoney, Tawes' henchmen pleaded desperately with Pollack to support Tawes. Each time, they made offers which Mr. Pollack has described as staggering," Barrick said.

"What the Tawes camp can't stand is that Mahoney got for nothing what they were willing to pay and pay and pay for," he said.

Witnesses Expect 700

Preliminary plans are being laid by Jehovah's Witnesses to receive visiting delegates coming to Cumberland for the Witnesses May 11-13 seminar.

John C. Richmond Jr., overseer of the local group, said the facilities of the National Guard Armory have been obtained for the three-day session.

More than 20 volunteers are trying to find persons with a spare room to rent visitors.

Mr. Richmond has turned his home into a rooming headquarters. As accomodations are obtained, they are processed, filed and then matched with the requests coming from parts of West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

More than 700 are expected to attend.

Radiation Course Will Begin Today

A five-week course on radiation begins this evening at 7:30 at the Bowling Green fire hall under auspices of the volunteer fire company.

Fallout, radiation, shielding etc. will be included in the radiological meter course, said Harry R. Thomas, instructor.

Area volunteer firemen as well as residents of Bowling Green and Potomac Park are welcome to attend the sessions.

Suit Charges Pollack With Vote Conspiracy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two taxi drivers named Abramson testifed Wednesday they were urged to run for the Maryland House of Delegates—against an incumbent of the same name—by Jack Pollack who also gave them their $25 filing fees.

Judge Joseph Allen directed that the testimony of one, Nathan S. Abramson, be sent to the state's attorney for possible perjury action. Abramson first testified it was his own idea to file but he later recanted and said he filled out a form in Pollack's home.

The suit was filed in behalf of Del. Murray Abramson, who is seeking Democratic nomination in the 4th District where Pollack is a party leader. Abramson had been associated with the Pollack organization, but is aligned with forces opposing him in the May 15 primary.

Abramson charged Pollack with a conspiracy by inducing the two cab drivers, Nathan S. Abramson and Joseph Abramson, to file so as to confuse voters.

Joseph Abramson admitted freely he had been asked by Pollack to file for both the House and Senate. Abramson said the forms were filled out by Lawrence Goodman, an election board clerk and that Pollack gave him the fees.

Abramson withdrew from the Senate race and testified Pollack told him to keep the $25 fee which was returned.

Pollack was subjected to sharp questioning by Hyman Pressman, lawyer for Abramson who has been an outspoken foe of the political leader.

Pollack replied "don't remember" to virtually all of Pressman's questions about any association with the two Abramsons.

In addition to the "Abramson" name game in the 4th District, there was one in the neighboring 5th on "Friedman is seeking to stay in the House from the 5th, where he has moved. Opponents include another Friedman, one Freedman, a Freidman and a Frieman.

College Here Begins Plans For Next Year

Classes To Start On September 17

Although it seems like a long way off, William H. Smerling, registrar of Allegany Community College here, is reminding high school seniors and other interested persons that the college will hold its fall registration between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and 6:30 and 8 p.m. on September 12 and 13. Classes will begin on September 17.

Applications for admission to the college for enrollment in a degree program should be on file prior to registration. The tuition cost for a full time student living in Allegany County is $100 a semester. The tuition cost for a part time student is $10 per semester hour of credit. A matriculation fee of $10 is payable at the time of application to the college. This fee is paid only once as long as the student attends the college. Other fees are variable and are listed on the schedule of classes.

All students who wish to enroll in a degree curriculum are expected to file an application for admission, a transcript from all institutions attended including high school, take the entrance examination, have a medical report on file, have an affidavit concerning residence on file and supply a recent photograph. Students entering a degree program must have taken part in the American College Testing program.

Special students or those who are not participating in the degree curriculum should complete and return an application as a special student, supply a transcript from all institutions attended including the high school record, have an affidavit concerning residence on file, including a recent photograph.

Questions regarding admission, registration, and course offerings should be directed to the registrar, Mr. Smerling may be contacted at PA 4-7700. Letters should be addressed: The Registrar, Allegany Community College, Cumberland, Md.

Contest Winners To Speak To Club

The declamation contest winners at Allegany and Fort Hill high schools will be guests of the Kiwanis Club at its meeting today at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA.

John Balch of Allegany High and Cynthia Siehler of Fort Hill will speak on "Water Conservation in the Potomac River Basin."

Fatal Crash Driver Faces Manslaughter

John J. Clancey In Hospital Here

John J. Clancey, 27, of Philadelphia, driver of one of two cars involved in a fatal accident late Saturday afternoon on U. S. Route 40 near Grantsville, will be charged with manslaughter by motor vehicle.

State's Attorney, W. Dwight Stover of Oakland said Trooper Robert B. Cave of the State Police obtained a warrant for Clancey's arrest from Trial Magistrate John W. Holman at Friendsville.

Clancey, who was admitted to Meyersdale, Pa., Community Hospital and later transferred to Memorial Hospital here, is reported in "fair" condition. He sustained chest injuries and numerous lacerations about his body.

Boy, 15, Died

Samuel B. Gromer, 15-year-old Silver Spring youth, victim of the accident, died Sunday en route to Children's Hospital in Bethesda where he was being transferred from the Meyersdale hospital.

Authorities of Virginia have indicated they will extradite Clancey after he is prosecuted in Maryland, and will charge him with grand larceny of the auto he was driving west on Route 40. The auto was reported stolen from Richmond.

Gromer's father, Jonathan B. Gromer, 50, driver of the other car, was seriously injured in the crash and was transferred from the Meyersdale hospital to a Washington hospital. He sustained a fractured leg and arm, chest injuries and lacerations.

Chased By Trooper

Just prior to the fatal accident Trooper Cave had noticed Clancey driving through Grantsville at a high rate of speed. He gave chase and Clancey failed to negotiate a sharp left curve about three-quarters of a mile west of Grantsville.

The car ran off the shoulder of the highway, skidded back across the road and rammed headon into the Gromer car, which was traveling east.

Tfc. Donald Wade is assisting Trooper Cave in the investigation of the accident, the second fatal crash in Garrett County this year. The first occurred April 11 when James L. Childs, 58, of Oakland, was killed in a two-vehicle collision near Gortner.

Woman Is Overcome By Smoke

A 69-year-old local woman who was overcome by smoke yesterday at her home and revived with oxygen administered by city police was reported "improving" last night at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Miss Eleanor C. Leasure of 951 Bedford Street was found in the bathroom of her upstairs apartment by City Police Officer James Swann, who administered for about five minutes.

She reportedly had been cooking on the kitchen stove when the contents of the skillet began to smoke, filling the apartment with smoke.

Firemen at Central Fire Station received a call at 3:50 p.m. from Mrs. Leasure's downstairs neighbor who requested that a pulmotor be sent to the Bedford Street address.

The firemen in turn called the police department and asked that the department's pneolator be rushed to the Leasure apartment. Firemen also called the McDonald ambulance since the emergency truck at Central was at the scene of a two-alarm fire on Potomac Street.

LaVale Library Closed

The LaVale Library will be closed the rest of the week because of repairs, according to Mrs. Richard Heacox, librarian. Regular hours will be resumed on Monday.

Local Girl To Graduate From Mooseheart June 8

Joyce M. Fulk, sponsored at the Moose Child City by Cumberland Moose Lodge 271, is among the 48 seniors who will be graduated from Mooseheart High School at commencement exercises Friday, June 8, at 7 p. m.

In addition to receiving the traditional high school diploma, Joyce will receive a vocational training certfifcate for home economics.

The Fulk family was admitted to Mooseheart on April 9, 1949. Dennis was graduated from Mooseheart High School in 1960 and William remains at the Child City.

While at Mooseheart, Joyce was a member of the Girl Scouts, Girls Athletic Association and the Mooseheart Chapter of the Future Nurses Association. During her senior year, Joyce placed third in Illinois GAA swimming competition and received a trophy.

Joyce plans to make a trip to California before making her home with her sister, Mrs. Betty Wilhelm, in Cleveland, Ohio, where she hopes to find a job.

The commencement speaker will be the supreme governor of the Loyal Order of Moose, Dr. Harry C. Byrd of College Park, who served as president of the University of Maryland for 18 years before he retired.

Contested Offices:

House Of Delegates Race Should Be Interesting

This is the third in a series of articles on some of the most important offices that will be at stake in this year's elections.

One of the most interesting contests in the May 15 primary election will be between 12 Republicans and six Democrats who are seeking the six positions as delegates to the General Assembly of Maryland from Allegany County.

Since there are only six Democrats seeking positions in the House of Delegates, there will not be any competition in that party in the primary election and their names will not appear on the ballot.

However, on the Republican side of the ballot, six of the 12 candidates will be eliminated May 15 and six will remain to compete against the six Democrats in the general election in November.

The Qualifications

In order to qualify as a candidate for the House of Delegates, a person must be at least 21 years old at the time of the election. The candidate also must have a resident of Maryland for at least three years and must have resided in the county he wants to represent for at least a year prior to the election.

The six persons selected by the votors of Allegany County to represent them for the next four years at Annapolis will be required to attend a 90-day session during the odd-numbered years and a 30-day session in the even numbered years.

The Job

While at Annapolis during the sessions of the General Assembly, the delegates will vote on bills which pertain to the state and also enact legislation for their respective counties or special taxing areas. (The Senate also must approve bills and the governor must sign them before they become laws).

Only laws regarding budget matters and state-wide bills are acted upon during the short 30-day session, so delegates can introduce local legislation only every two years. Several local bills are introduced every other year from the counties, but only a portion are ever enacted into law.

By virtue of its population, Allegany County is entitled to the maximum number of delegates—six. The membership of the House of Delegates originally was determined by a population formula, but an amendment to the Maryland Constitution adopted in 1950 froze the membership at 123.

However, the alignment of delegates from the 23 counties and six legislative districts may be changed if a law to reapportion them is passed by the General Assembly.

tA present time there are four Republicans and two Democrats representing Allegany County in the House of Delegates. Oddly enough, this county is the only delegation which has a majority of Republicans. The Republicans are very much in the minority in the lower house — 116 to 7.

The Salary

Delegates receive an annual salary of $1,800, plus $20 a day for expenses during each session. They also receive stamp and stationery money and are given mileage expense money for one trip to Annapolis and return. For the Allegany County delegates the mileage is $80, payable only once each session.

However, a bill passed in January by the General Assembly will increase the salary of a senator and delegate from $1,800 to $3,000. This increase is subject to approval by the voters of Maryland and they will decide the issue when it is placed on the ballot in November.

Unlike the 29 state senators, each of whom is provided with a

Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross, said blood will be collected during the hours of 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Recruitment chairman at the glass plant is Richard Heacox, who pointed out that the quota is 200 pints of blood.

On Tuesday, the bloodmbile unit will visit the VFW Home in Lonaconing from noon until 6 p.m.

2-Alarm Blaze Damages Home On Potomac St.

Fire Originates In Front Room

A two-alarm fire yesterday afternoon caused extensive damage to a house at 119 Potomac Street. No one was injured.

The blaze, believed to have originated in the front room downstairs, was confined to one side of the double frame dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James G. Muir, who were not at home when the fire started.

Firemen from South End station received an initial call about 3:30 p.m. Minutes later firemen from Central Station were called for assistance.

The fire was believed to have started in a couch in the front room of the six-room house, according to firemen, who said the flames spread through the room and up the stairway to a bedroom.

A middle room downstairs was damaged by the fire, which burned some clothing Mrs. Muir was in the process of ironing. The kitchen in the rear of the house was not damaged, said firemen.

The couch was destroyed and other furnishings in the front room were damaged. Firemen said they did not have to use much water in quenching the blaze.

Fire Inspector Edward Trost said he plans to go to the house this morning to make an investigation to learn the cause of the blaze.

Occupants of the other side of the dwelling were moving furniture from their house after the fire broke out, firemen said.

Mrs. Bennett Is Given Life Imprisonment

The three judges who presided in the trial of Mrs. Garnette Mae Bennett, 39, yesterday rejected a motion for a new trial which had been asked by defense counsel John Sullivan and then sentenced the woman to life imprisonment.

She had been found guilty of first degree murder of her husband, Moses Sylvester Bennett, 41, by a jury of eight men and four women with a recommendation of mercy. This made the life sentence mandatory and saved her from paying the death penalty.

The slaying of Bennett took place last January 31 at the couple's home on Willowbrook Road. She used a 16 guage shotgun to kill her husband.

Sullivan had asked the court to grant a new trial on one point in the instructions which the judges had given the jury and also on the basis of "new evidence."

After hearing testimony by a man brought forth by defense counsel as having "new evidence," the court rejected the motion.

The testimony before the court was to the effect that certain evidence at the home where Moses Sylvester Bennett, 41, was shot to death by his wife last January 31, had been moved by a member of the sheriff's office.

Charles McDonald, who is connected with the ambulance service called to the home, told the judges at yesterday's hearing that the jacket and knife of Bennett had been moved, but not until after the scene had been photographed by Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator. In a statement submitted by Attorney John Sullivan, counsel for Mrs. Bennett, the ambulance man stated only as to the sequence of events that morning.

Judge D. Kenneth McLaughlin of Washington County commented that "this is a serious charge." The jurist then read from the testimony the statement by Mrs. Bennett in which she said her husband stood in the doorway and stared at her. She pointed the gun at her husband and shot him and he staggered into the room.

"Is it your contention that the officer was 'making a case' against your client?" Judge McLaughlin asked. Sullivan said that he was only interested in justice in the case and was sworn to do everything to defend his client.

James S. Getty, state's attorney, said that any additional evidence was new to him. He then told the court that despite what had been submitted by the defense counsel the evidence had clearly pointed to premeditation.

Chief Judge Harris also commented that the accused had testified as to the position of her husband in the doorway and the location of the jacket and knife had nothing to do with the testimony which showed she had loaded the gun and had obtained the shells two days prior to the shooting.

Council Of Engineers Meets Tomorrow

Cumberland Council 53, Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers, will meet at Ali Ghan Country Club Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Officers will be nominated and elected, and one new member will be received into the council.

Wilmer Nunamaker, worthy chief, asked that all members make a special effort to attend tomorrow night's meeting.
